TREATY SIGNED BY HOOVER, WHO LAUDS PURPOSE

Affixes Signature in Formal Ceremony.

'Defective,' Japan Says

The Japanese supreme military council yesterday decided the London naval pact is "defective in so far as national defense is concerned." The military and naval leaders will submit their report to the emperor today.

The report is regarded as placing the government in an embarrassing position but Tokio dispatches said it was believed that the privy council will ultimately approve the treaty.

The British parliament will take up the bill for ratification of the treaty today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—Lauding the London naval treaty as an earnest of international good will disarming suspicions of American imperialism, President Hoover signed the ratification of the pact this afternoon.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson carried the instrument of ratification from the White House to the state department for transmission to London, where the ratifications of all the signatories will be deposited.

"It is a matter of satisfaction that this great accomplishment in international relations has at all steps been given united support of both our political parties," said Mr. Hoover in his formal statement.

Calls It Victory for Peace.

"With the ratification by the other governments the treaty will translate an emotion deep in the hearts of millions of men and women into a practical fact of government and international relations. It will renew again the faith of the world in the moral forces of good will and patient negotiation as against the blind forces of suspicion and competitive armament. It will secure the full defense of the United States. It will mark a further long step toward lifting the burdens of militarism from the backs of mankind and to speed the march forward of world peace. It will lay the foundations upon which further constructive reduction in world arms may be accomplished in the future. We should by this act of willingness to join with others in limiting armament have dismissed from the mind of the world any notion that the United States entertains ideas of aggression, imperial power, or exploitation of foreign nations."

Ceremony in East Room.

The signing took place in the East room of the White House at 3 o'clock. A desk had been placed for the occasion on the east side of the room between the portraits of George and Martha Washington. All around stood the flashlight apparatus of the camera operators, while the floor was covered with the wires for the camera lights and movietone machines. Fifty or more newspaper correspondents and camera men formed the gallery, with Ike Hoover, the White House major domo, maintaining strict silence in the interest of perfect movietones.

Promptly on the hour the procession of notables entered. First came President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, both in formal attire and looking very solemn. Then followed Secretary Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], and Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], members of the American delegation that negotiated the treaty, and Senators James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate; William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman, and Claude Swanson [Dem., Va.], ranking minority member of the senate foreign relations committee.

Uses London Pen.

The President walked directly to the desk, sat down and picked up the gold pen with which Secretary Stimson signed the treaty in London. With the movie cameras grinding he affixed his signature to the resolution of ratification, and Mr. Stimson, taking the same pen, attested the signing. Mr. Hoover then stood and made some brief remarks for the movietone.

"I have had great satisfaction," he said, "in signing the naval treaty. I wish to congratulate you, the delegates to the London conference, upon the completion of your work. It is also a matter of satisfaction that this great accomplishment in international

80 HURLED INTO RIVER DURING RHINELAND FETE

Tragedy May Halt Hindenburg Tour.

COBLENZ, Germany, July 22.—(AP)—Tragedy came swiftly tonight to end this city's gay celebration of the evacuation of the Rhineland by foreign troops, in which President von Hindenburg today was the central figure.

While fireworks were flashing from the historic castle of Ehrenbreitstein across the Rhine river, a pontoon bridge across the Moselle gave way under a crowd of about 80 persons, precipitating them all into the water.

Only seven had been rescued by midnight. The bodies of 40 were recovered from the water, which was about 20 feet deep. Dredging operations were immediately undertaken by torchlight to recover other bodies.

Bodies Laid Out on River Bank

When the correspondent arrived at the entrance to the bridge, situated near the famous "Deutsches Eck" junction of the Rhine and the Moselle, the bodies of 28 adults and of two children were stretched out on the grass bank.

Coblenz was thrown into consternation by the disaster, which occurred shortly after 10:30 p. m. The bridge was a frail structure, not available for heavy traffic. Thousands of persons had tramped across it on their way back from the banks of the Rhine, where they had watched the fireworks display. When it gave way the 80 persons were watching the dying flare of the illuminations at the castle.

Falling Timbers Kill Many.

Many were killed by falling timbers, and others were swept away in the black, swirling water and drowned before help could reach them.

In the darkness, people could be heard splashing about and crying for help. Rescuers immediately launched boats, but many of the victims could not be located.

President von Hindenburg was informed of the disaster. It appears doubtful whether he will continue his program of visits in the Rhineland. He was scheduled to go on to Treves and Aix-la-Chapelle.

VISITS ANCIENT FORT

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBLENZ, July 22.—The oldest and strongest fortress in Germany in the old days, Ehrenbreitstein, over which the Stars and Stripes floated in the days when the A. E. F. held Coblenz and Trier, was solemnly taken over by the president of the German republic today.

Salutes rang out and church bells pealed when President von Hindenburg set foot on the "Deutsche Ecke"—the German corner—where the Rhine and Moselle rivers meet.

This symbolic visit, the Germans feel, puts a definite end to the continuation of war by the peacetime occupation of German soil by foreign troops.

Passes in River Review.

Early this morning President von Hindenburg left Eltville aboard a steamer and sailed down the Rhine to Coblenz, passing in review boats and river oarsmen throughout the district. He was received with the same wild enthusiasm as other towns and villages in the Rhineland and Palatinate accorded him.

This noon he again listened to speeches in his honor. The Socialist premier of Prussia, Otto Braun, with whom he had a tussle last week, was the main speaker.

President von Hindenburg replied in a voice which did not show any sign of fatigue. He was vivacious, punctuating his speech with broad gestures.

Children Pay Homage.

He passed in a parade before hundreds of small organizations and deputations, and accepted homage from school children from all over the country this afternoon. The president presided at a banquet tonight and then took a boat to join the Rhine festival.

Ehrenbreitstein and all nearby hills were steeped in light from fireworks, and river boats were adorned with fantastically beautiful decorations. Cruising up and down the river were hundreds of Germans singing their national songs.

Ehrenbreitstein is dismantled now. Coblenz hopes that the government will turn it into a national monument, a sports arena dedicated to the memory of the war dead.

Refers to Americans.

At the banquet tonight Mayor Russel gave a speech which contained the only reference to the American oc-

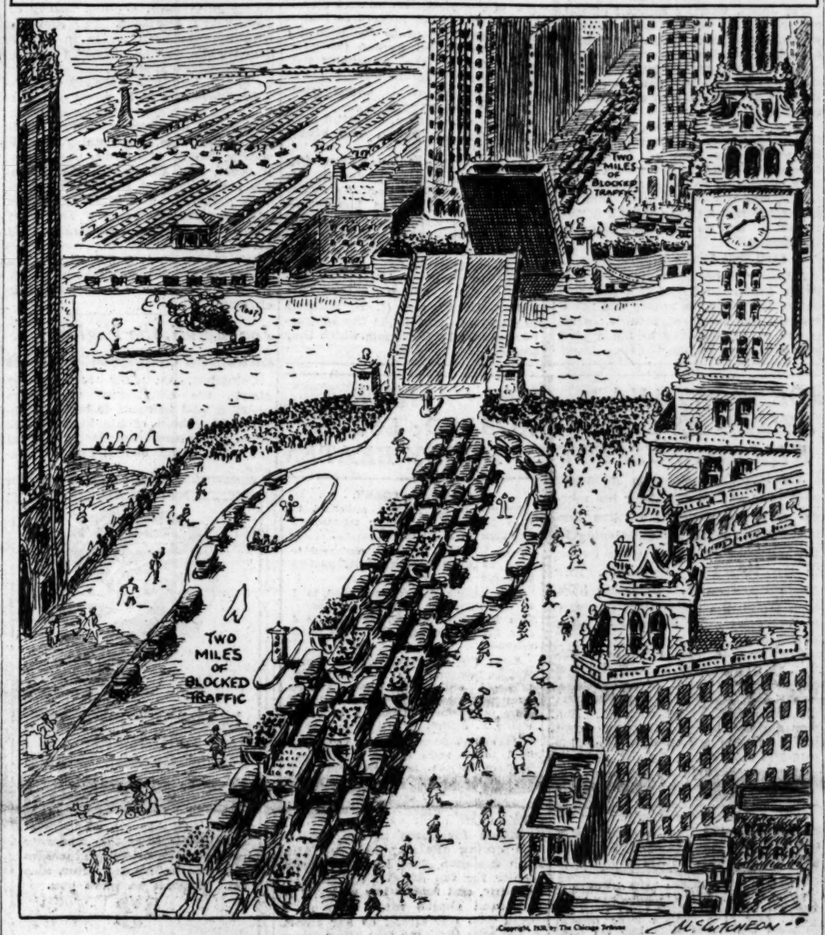
Radio Announcer Shot To Death

EFFICIENCY



Blocking Four Miles of Traffic at 10 A. M. to Let a Sand Scow Go Through.

Victim Had Exposed Vice in Detroit

Detroit, Mich., July 23 (Wednesday). —(AP)—Gerald "Jerry" Buckley, radio announcer for radio station WMBC, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant at 1:45 a. m. today in the lobby of the La Salle hotel.

Gave Political Talks.

Buckley had delivered addresses on political subjects and described vice conditions in Detroit.

Buckley was said to have been a witness of the slaying of George Collins and William Cannon, Chicago gangsters, shot at the side entrance of the hotel on July 3. Station WMBC is located in the La Salle hotel and Buckley was said to have seen the shooting of Cannon and Collins from a hotel window.

Buckley was a brother of Paul Buckley, former assistant prosecutor of Wayne county.

In addresses delivered over station WMBC he made specific references to various alleged gambling resorts and had been known to receive threatening letters and telephone messages.

Critic of Mayor.

The assassination of Buckley, who had been an outspoken critic of the administration of Mayor Charles Bowles, came only a few hours after the mayor was recalled in a special election.

Buckley was shot by three men who entered the hotel lobby while he was sitting there waiting for a telephone call. Eleven bullets entered his body. The assassins ran across Woodward avenue, on which the hotel faces, and entered a theater, according to witnesses.

VOTERS FIRE MAYOR

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—[Special]—Charles Bowles was ousted from the office of mayor by 30,956 ballots in the recall election today. His administration was repudiated in the heaviest ballot ever cast in a special election in Detroit. More than 200,000 voters went to the polls. The final tabulation for the entire city showed:

For recall	120,863
Against recall	89,907

The office of mayor now becomes vacant, under the law, although Bowles continues in office until a successor is elected and qualified.

Under the law a new election to fill the mayor's place must be held within 30 days of the filing of the certified returns of today's election. Under the law Bowles is automatically a candidate for reelection and any other candidates may go on the ballot by presenting nominating petitions signed by 14,000 voters.

Bowles Ran as a Dry.

One of the main issues in the mayoralty election last fall was the prohibition question. Bowles as a dry and by so doing drew a tremendous vote from the churches.

Soon after he took office gambling establishments and speakeasies began running "wide open," according to charges in the Detroit newspapers, who charged that Police Commissioner Harold Emmons dared not close the gambling joints.

Finally the police commissioner consented to allow newspapermen to take police into the places. Those raids were made on the day of the Kentucky Derby, while the mayor was at Louisville attending the race. Upon his return he dismissed Emmons.

Bowles upon taking office appointed Joseph Gillespie commissioner of public works. Gillespie had been forced out as police commissioner in 1916, when vice conditions in Detroit were considered the worst in the city's history.

A Frequent Candidate.

Bowles came to Detroit from Gold, Mich., as a youth and worked as a street car conductor to pay his way through law school. After practicing law for a number of years he announced himself as a candidate for mayor at a special election to fill a vacancy. Although virtually unknown in public life he had the backing of the Ku Klux Klan, and though defeated, made a strong showing.

In 1925 he ran again and was barely defeated by John W. Smith. He ran once more last year and won on a reform platform.

GRAND JURORS HEAR BRUNDIDGE RACKET CHARGE

Swanson Keeps His Testimony Secret.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Harry T. Brundidge, reporter for the St. Louis Star whose charges of racketeering among Chicago newspaper men has stirred a tempest, told his story yesterday to the Cook county grand jury.

But what he told was shrouded in secrecy. Brundidge refused to discuss his testimony. State's Attorney Swanson said for him to reveal it would be discourteous to the grand jury. Bernard De Vry, foreman of the grand jury, refused to be interviewed.

Previous Stories Retold.

The reports about the Criminal Courts building were that Brundidge's testimony revealed little that has not already been published. It was stated that the St. Louis reporter told of the visits to Scarface Al Capone in Florida of Harry Read, city editor of the Chicago Evening American, which the American has admitted.

Another reported subject of his testimony was the connection of Ted Tod, Herald and Examiner crime reporter, with the dog track operated by the Moran-Zuta-Aiello gang. Another was the murder of Julius Rosenheim, paid informant for the Chicago Daily News, and concerning Leland H. Reese, reporter on the News, who admitted he was Rosenheim's sponsor, and of Reese being threatened with death by gangsters. Also, it is said, part of the testimony related to Matt Foley, fugitive assistant circulation manager of the Herald and Examiner, and Foley's lottery swindle.

Editor with Witness.

Brundidge arrived at the Criminal Courts building at 9:30 yesterday morning. Accompanying him were Frank W. Taylor Jr., managing editor of the St. Louis Star, and John F. Green, attorney for that newspaper. The trio had flown from St. Louis Monday.

The reporter was taken almost immediately into the grand jury room and he stayed there two and a half hours. When he emerged Brundidge was besieged by newspaper men.

"I have nothing to say," he said. "I told the grand jury all I knew, and they listened to me. I did most of the talking, although I was asked some questions by State's Attorney Swanson and Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse.

"The grand jury excused me, but I will come back if I am wanted."

Questioned on Policy.

For the last half hour of the time Brundidge was in the grand jury room Mr. Taylor also was present, at the invitation of the jury, and it was understood he was asked general questions as to the policy of his paper in connection with the Chicago situation.

The army of journalists covering the story then went to the office of State's Attorney Swanson and belabored Swanson and Rittenhouse with questions.

"Was Brundidge's testimony beneficial to any criminal investigation?" was the first question.

"The statute forbids me to answer that question," Mr. Swanson replied.

"Did the testimony have anything to do with the Lingle murder?" the prosecutor was asked.

"Now, by the process of elimination you are trying to get me to say something which I will not say," was the reply.

Argue Point of Law.

Several reporters insisted that there is nothing in the statute specifically forbidding the state's attorney or the grand jurors from disclosing the testimony before a grand jury.

"That may be true," Mr. Rittenhouse put in. "But this man was not our witness. He was called by the grand jurors, and it would be dis-

Experts Study Wacker Drive War Memorial

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city council has authorized by ordinance the erection of a war memorial by the American Legion in the Wacker drive plaza at Wabash avenue. This authority is subject to the approval of the commissioner of public works and the Chicago Plan commission.

Commissioner Wolfe has approved of the monument and the site. The Plan commission has approved of the location, but has appointed a committee with Benjamin H. Marshall as chairman, to express its opinion of the design. The committee members are:

Frank G. Logan	Alfred Shaw
Jens Jensen	Abel Davis
A. Ianelli	John Wentworth
Howard L. Cheney	Martin A. Ryerson
Alfred Granger	Thomas E. Talmadge

The attitude of the plan commission is expressed in a letter from its chairman, James Simpson, to members of the committee on design.

Opinion on Design Asked.

"The American Legion," says the letter, "has chosen a memorial design to be executed by Frederick Hibbard, sculptor of this city. The Chicago plan commission approves the dedication of the site, but feels that a decision as to the fitness of the proposed memorial for this location commands the judgment of a group of men more particularly trained to sense the adequacy and the effect of the memorial in relation to its proposed surroundings."

The proposed memorial, which was designed by Leonard H. Grosse, is described by artists as "realistic." In the plaza at present is an island, about 36 feet in diameter, surrounded by a curb. Inside the circle the design calls for a mound of rough stones, with here and there a small evergreen growing. Atop the stone would be portrayed a doughboy stopping for a moment with bowed head before the newly made grave of a comrade, whose gun is rammed bayonet first into the earth with his helmet and identification tag hanging from the gun butt.

Stones from All Battlefields.

A stone would be brought from each of the battlefields of France and the naval bases of Europe where any Illinois company or unit was stationed. On each stone would be carved the locality from which it came. In a niche in the rock on one side would be hung a bell from either Lucy le Bocage or Cantigny, which would be chimed each morning at 11 o'clock.

The American Legion is apparently firmly set on this design. The legionnaires look upon Frederick Hibbard as a competent sculptor. Col. A. A. Sprague, vice chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, is interested in the project.

Legion Council Urges Action.

At a recent meeting of the Cook county council of the Legion the representatives of the 31,000 members not only approved of the design and location but also appointed a committee to hasten action. The members of that committee are George M. Kellogg, Col. Eprague, Frank Kee, Wayland Brooks, William Schlupp, and Ald. W. D. Meyering.

Speaking with a model of the memorial displayed before the gathering, Mr. Brooks referred to the war days of 1917 and went on:

"Then there appeared in almost every window one passed a poster appealing to the youth of America. It was not a shaft of stone, nor was it a great massive monument, but it was a man of action, perhaps on a boat at sea, or on the line. Now, after 12 years, we find the end of the trail. Here stands the soldier that you and I would like to have been, strong, courageous and true, having finished his combat and come back, to find his comrade under the sod, with only his gun, his helmet, and his identification marking his resting place."

Tribune City Editor Sues for $250,000

Robert M. Lee, city editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, began legal proceedings against the Illinois Publishing and Printing company, publishers of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, yesterday through his attorneys, Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden, asking damages of $250,000.

The suit is based upon an article published yesterday in the Herald and Examiner. The praecipe was filed in the Superior court with a demand for a trial by jury.

Francis X. Busch of the firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden prepared the following statement:

"I have advised Mr. Lee that, in my opinion, the article appearing in today's Herald and Examiner is libelous. The implication is obvious that Mr. Lee knew of and countenanced the alleged criminal activities of Jake Lingle. Mr. Lee unqualifiedly brands these insinuations as false and has directed the institution of this suit so as to put the authors of the article upon their proof."

UNFEELING COPS JUST RUIN THIS ENDURANCE TEST

Regarding Mrs. Emily Young's endurance contest: The police ended it yesterday.

Mrs. Young, 40 years old, buxom and colored, stationed herself on the sidewalk at East 34th street and South Park way last Saturday. She had a large clothes basket in which to recline, a fur coat for a coverlet, a frying pan, an alcohol stove, a dozen tins of corned beef, and a can opener. She announced she would remain there 90 days, reading her Bible nights and singing hymns days. She kept at it almost uninterruptedly until last evening, when the police stopped her.

She was blocking traffic.

19 DEAD, MANY HURT AS QUAKE ROCKS NAPLES

NAPLES, Italy, July 23 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Sharp earth shocks in this region this morning caused deaths estimated at 19, injured many others, and caused much damage to property. The deaths resulted from the crumbling of houses, three being killed at Naples, ten at Barile, two at Atella, and four in country houses near Atella.

This Town's Firemen Are Women, Every One of 'Em

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 22.—(AP)—The next time there's a fire in Chalfont borough, just outside of Pittsburgh, the big fire truck will roar out of the station house with Mary Fedoris driving. Mary's mother, Mrs. Mary Fedoris, will be there, too, to act as assistant to Fire Chief Sara Long. When the menfolk are at work, the town has been without fire protection. So the women have organized a fire company of their own. The uniforms are lovely—white, with white hats.

courteous to them if we gave out information about their witness."

"Did Brundidge's testimony have any value as evidence, or was it all hearsay?"

"It would be discourteous to the grand jury for me to reply," Mr. Swanson said.

Q.—Will subpoenas be issued for any one else as a result of the Brundidge testimony? A.—That is a matter for the grand jury, which will determine if it wants to hear any one else.

Q.—Why was Mr. Taylor called in? A.—I won't tell you.

Q.—Did Brundidge give any testimony incriminating Chicago newspaper men? A.—It would be discourteous to the grand jury to discuss that.

Q.—Will Brundidge return later? A.—Mr. Brundidge will be within reach.

Jury May Make Statement.

Foreman De Vry said that the grand jurors had agreed to give out no information at this time, but he stated that some statement regarding the situation may be given out by the jury later. He refused to say whether any Chicago newspaper men would be called before the grand jury.

PASTORS HEAR JOHNSON

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson told the crime investigation committee of the Chicago Church federation yesterday that the crime situation in Chicago is not as serious today as in other great cities. Speaking at the secret session of the church leaders at the Hotel La Salle, Mr. Johnson said that "the full coverage" of crime news by the newspapers of Chicago had kept the public informed, whereas in other cities the suppression of crime news by the press has been "like a man trying to hide a cancer—he only fools himself."

Mr. Johnson said the crime situation is intangible to the general public and asserted that the more it is understood by the average man the greater will be the success of those who directly combat crime. He praised the newspapers for making full reports on the crime situation.

When asked, at the close of the hearing, if he had commented on employment by the newspapers of gangland informers, Mr. Johnson declared he had not, saying that news gathering was too complex a subject for any declaration from him.

Newspapers Helpful, He Says.

"Please quote me only as saying to the churchmen that newspapers have been helpful in the present crime condition by meeting the situation squarely," he said, "and that the newspaper exposé has been of great value."

The United States attorney told the churchmen that the violation of the prohibition laws offers the largest source of income to gangland. He put gambling as the second largest source, trade racketeering third, and vice last.

In an open letter sent three weeks ago to Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, the church committee cited incomes from business rackets and political graft in such a way that it was construed as questioning a statement by Mr. Johnson to the effect that the largest racket profits came from booze, as well as Col Randolph's quoted assertion that organized crime has as its major cause "the constant warfare for the control of the huge revenues derived from the sale of illicit liquor."

"The Biggest Business."

Mr. Johnson pointed out that the entire problem is not one of sporadic crime, but that organized crime is now the "biggest business in the United States."

"Organized crime has become a real menace," Mr. Johnson declared. "It is a power that directs murders, corrupts public officials, contributes to political funds of parties, and one of the most serious phases of the situation that a law enforcement official has to deal with is the seal of silence upon the lips of persons who will not give testimony because of the fear of death.

"The money must be taken out of crime before crime can be stamped out. Regardless of any ideas about blue laws or moral laws, any activity that puts money into the treasury of organized crime should be struck at with repressive measures by the police and the government."

SENATOR MOSES SHORN OF POWER AS G. O. P. LEADER

Huston's Ally Forced to Limit Activity.

Washington, July 22.—[Special.]—A swift shakeup in the Republican campaign front began today within less than twenty-four hours of the senate's adjournment.

Colleagues of Senator George H. Moses on the senatorial campaign committee forced a showdown which resulted in his surrendering all connection with the western campaign, if not the chairmanship of the committee.

Moses' Authority Cut.

At the end of an acrimonious session, in which the committee members took matters into their own hands for the first time, Senator Moses announced a division of responsibility which is to limit his activities to the east, while giving to Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon exclusive control of the political battleground west of the Mississippi. Senator Steiwer is vice chairman of the committee.

The sudden development was considered the forerunner of a drastic Republican house cleaning, which is expected to take Claudius H. Huston out of the chairmanship of the national committee. In fact the White House waited in vain all day for some word from Chairman Huston, an ally of Senator Moses, in view of Mr. Huston's reported promise to resign immediately upon adjournment of the senate.

Positive action looking to the removal of the national chairman is expected in short order unless he steps aside voluntarily.

Ask Moses to Resign.

On behalf of himself and the other committee members Senator A. H. Vandenburg called upon Senator Moses to resign, on the ground that his opposition to President Hoover in the treaty struggle, not to mention his "sons of the wild jackasses" encounter with western insurgents, had destroyed his usefulness in the campaign.

The arraignment drew the fire of Senator Moses and led to a spirited exchange during which he refused to resign but consented to the compromise arrangement for a division of the responsibility.

REPORT ORDERED ON $1,677,000 HIGHWAY WASTE

The Cook county board yesterday called upon three of its employés to prepare a report on the charge made by a Chicago Association of Commerce investigating committee that $1,677,000 road money had been lost between Jan. 18, 1927, and June 30, 1929.

Maj. George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent, Hayden A. Bell, attorney for the board, and J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, were instructed to report on the commerce association's findings by Sept. 1, as was requested by the investigating committee, which was headed by William R. Dawes.

The committee charged that the county's road fund was drained of $1,677,000 through irregularities in the awarding of contracts and in the purchase of material. The association urged that the board study the possibility of recovering some of this money for the road fund. Yesterday's action by the board, in response to a resolution introduced by President Cermak, included an instruction to Attorney Bell to investigate the practicability of suits to recover.

SCALDING FATAL TO MAN.

Edward Culver, 62 years old, 1912 South Wabash avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital as a result of having scalded himself on Sunday, when he upset a coffee pot.

Subpoena 2 Herald-Examiner Employes for Lottery Trial

Subpoenas were issued and served yesterday on Roscoe Conkling (Duffy) Cornell, circulation manager of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, and Rudolph Trietz, city circulator of the same newspaper, commanding them to appear before Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court on Friday to tell what they know of the lottery racket operated by Matt Foley, assistant circulation manager of the paper, and others as yet undisclosed by the investigation.

Homer Guck, publisher of the Herald and Examiner, was also named in a subpoena. Clyde M. Hoffman, 14906 Marshfield avenue, Harvey, and Michael C. Walsh, Democratic candidate for congress from the Second district, who are representing purchasers of tickets in the lottery, were informed that Mr. Guck left the city yesterday and would be gone for at least one week.

Hearst Not in Chicago.

Finding that Mr. Guck was not available the subpoena servers asked for William Randolph Hearst, owner of the Herald and Examiner, so that he might be called into court. He is not in the city, they found.

Pat Joyce, wealthy railroad official, owner of the horse Dick O'Hara which, it is alleged, was to have been used by Foley and his associates to make a killing on the last Kentucky Derby, is also to be asked to appear in court against the men charged with conspiracy.

It is believed by the prosecutors that Mr. Joyce in some manner learned of the plan of Foley and others to sell 50,000 tickets on a horse they considered would not run in the Derby, and for that reason insisted that his horse run even though it was known he had no chance to place in the money.

Civil Suit Under Discussion.

Attorney Elmer E. Walsh, retained by the group of railroad men who purchased tickets in the lottery and never received the promised returns, is reported to be planning to file a civil suit to recover on the tickets. Attorney Walsh is figuring out as a legal proposition whether Foley's employers can be held responsible under the theory that the tickets were distributed through the employés. This question, he said, would be decided as soon as the criminal case is disposed of.

The sum involved is large because it is reported that 50,000 tickets, each calling for a $50 prize, were distributed.

"We are asking for the executives of the Herald and Examiner to come into court as witnesses because from what we have learned we believe they at least have information which would prove valuable in prosecuting Foley and the others," Michael Walsh said. "We were going to call in Mr. Hearst if he was in the city because it seems apparent that some of the executives on his paper had knowledge that the tickets were being distributed through at least part of the circulation department."

Cornell Faces Questioning.

Cornell, who formerly was city editor of the Examiner before he was moved to the circulation department, has been subpoenaed to tell what he knew of Foley's activities and also if he urged the ticket holders to take a compromise offer of $5 for each $50 ticket. He is also wanted for questioning as to the possibility that George (Bugs) Moran—gangster and hoodlum enemy of Al Capone—was behind the lottery.

Cornell told Hoffman, the latter says, that he thought Moran was behind the scheme.

Foley is still a fugitive from justice, the police reported yesterday. H. H. Goodman, a Herald and Examiner circulation employé, and Leo Schoemer, a former Examiner employé but now an employé of the Illinois Central railroad, are the only two men who have been arrested.

Four victims of the lottery are Custer W. Redman, Ernest Gardner, Miss C. J. McIntyre, and N. B. Mitchell. They told of being made the $5 compromise offer by Goodman, which they refused.

JOE MONTANA SEIZED AS CAFE KILLING SUSPECT

Joe Montana, notorious gangster, once tried and acquitted for the murder of a policeman, was taken into custody last night for questioning in the killing on June 15 of Chris Potras in the Villa Rica restaurant, 2572 North Clark street. Witnesses have been found, the police said, who saw his car drive away immediately after the shooting.

Another man held is Richard Sullivan, 4317 Greenwood avenue. He was arrested as a result of a story by Frank Bell, now in jail awaiting trial on three charges of robbery. Bell was angered because Sullivan would not go to the jail to visit him. He told Pat Roche that he and Sullivan had taken part in 50 holdups, and that it was Sullivan who killed Patras after a quarrel.

Sullivan denied the shooting, but he has been identified as having held up the Midway Plaisance hotel, the Eastgate and the Garfield Arms.

A. F. STEVENSON, NOTED PHYSICIAN, SUED FOR DIVORCE

Desertion Is Charged by Society Woman.

Mrs. Karen Stevenson, a leader in art and dramatic projects of Chicago society, yesterday filed suit for divorce from Dr. Alexander F. Stevenson, well known physician. She charges desertion.

Her bill declares that Dr. Stevenson left her in August of 1927. Since then, she says, he has been giving her an allowance between $300 and $400 a month, but she asserts this is no longer adequate. Dr. Stevenson's income, according to his wife, is $25,000 a year.

Mrs. Stevenson is the former Miss Karen B. Nielsen, a noted beauty of Copenhagen, Denmark. Her romance with the physician began in Copenhagen while he was attending a medical convention there. Their marriage on Feb. 7, 1910, was a society event.

Dr. Stevenson is 58 years old. He was born in Chicago and was educated at Harvard university and Rush Medical college. He is a member of University, Saddle and Cycle, Onwentsia, Racquet, and Chicago Yacht clubs. His residence is at 1510 North Dearborn parkway. The same address is listed for Mrs. Stevenson. In recent years she has spent considerable time abroad.

Dr. Stevenson is a son of the late Alexander F. Stevenson, who in his life was one of the well known north side citizens.

Trapped in War Area

LONDON, July 22.—(AP)—The release of 40 American and British missionaries who have been stranded for weeks in the Chinese war zone is expected momentarily by the Church Missionary society. The society, however, denied that all 40 missionaries had been reached by a party of rescuers.

As far as the society is aware, none of the missionaries have actually been released yet, though reports were current in church circles here today that American and British consuls had reached them with a rescue party 100 miles up the Min river.

Advices to the Missionary society from Peiping, China, on July 18, said that John J. Muccio, acting American consul at Foochow, had left Foochow on Friday with his British colleague to attempt to rescue the missionaries.

The missionaries are isolated in an area controlled by Lung Sing-Pang, leader of rebel troops against the Nationalist government, who had been threatening Foochow. Safe conduct for the consuls has been promised by both sides through the firing lines.

There Are No Cooks Like Women Cooks

ALL of my cooks are housewives—natural cooks. They learned to cook through the love of preparing tasty, healthbuilding dishes for their own children. They know nothing of substitutes or evil cooking practices—just good wholesome cooking.

If you could go along with me as I make my daily tour to taste the food in our three restaurants in Chicago, I am sure you would be as enthusiastic as I am over the efforts of these good women. Every dish they prepare seems to contain the same sort of sunshine and happiness that a mother longs to include in a meal she prepares for her loved ones.

Won't you come in today for lunch or dinner and let me show you how pleasingly different these "women cooked" meals are?

SHUFFLED BABIES HOWL AS SCIENCE TOILS ON PUZZLE

Doctors Hope for Verdict by Tomorrow.

Whether science can to its own satisfaction definitely establish which of two 3 weeks old babies is a Bamberger and which is a Watkins remained somewhat of a mystery last night after a day in which multiple scientific tests were made by eight doctors, scientists and criminologists. The tests were carried on to the accompaniment of intermittent wails and screams from the infants.

All but one of the seven experts summoned by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner, to determine through science the identities of the babies, as well as an additional expert, spent most of the day with babies and parents in the private office of the commissioner at 2820 Pine Grove avenue. The tests were interrupted only for scientists and babies to pose for taking moving pictures, which consumed most of the afternoon.

The plight of Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins, 1619 West 82d street, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger, 5523 South Paulina street, the parents involved, began when a bit of adhesive tape marked "Bamberger" was found on the back of the baby the Watkinses had taken home from the Englewood hospital. Both babies were born at the hospital on June 30.

A verdict will be given on the babies' paternity, it was announced, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the savants meet in the office of Commissioner Kegel in the city hall.

Birthmarks and Heredity.

Yesterday's developments indicated, however, that a verdict will not be easily reached. Dr. Cleveland White, dermatologist of the Northwestern university school of medicine, whose report was kept secret by Dr. Kegel pending the conference tomorrow, said he had discovered a birthmark on the left heel of the supposed Bamberger baby and one on the identical spot of the senior Bamberger.

"However," he said in a despondent tone, "it is not of material significance. Science does not accept birthmarks as hereditary. Of course, that is a serious question to open up, but, on the whole, I should say that, no matter whether Mr. Bamberger has a birthmark in the same place, it is not scientifically a sign he is the father of that baby.

"Besides, his is a cellular formation and is round and hard. It might even be a callous formation. The baby's birthmark is one of blood vessels and is oblong, rather the shape of a bean."

Another Scientist Reports.

In a report of three typewritten pages Dr. Gerhardt von Bonin, anthropologist of the University of Illinois college of medicine, discussed the relative measurements of the heads of the babies and parents. His conclusion was that, judging from the parents, the Watkins baby should have the narrower, longer head and the narrower nose, whereas in reality the baby now in the posession of the Bambergers has the narrower head and nose.

"I hasten to add, though," the report read, "that it is inconceivable that this whole deduction is contrary to the facts of the case. It is well within probability that grandparents of whom we know nothing may have transmitted their shape of head to the babies. In other words, it should be borne in mind that the laws of heredity are very imperfectly known in the case of man. Still, if we are to go by the facts revealed from these measurements, my opinion will have to be that the babies have at present the wrong parents."

Dr. Watzek Has His Troubles.

Dr. Ferdinand Watzek, director of the scientific crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, formerly of Vienna, will have to spend an additional day and a half in analyzing the charcoal spots on white paper which are the babies' finger prints, comparing them with those of the four parents involved.

"Ooch, such work this is," Dr. Watzek exclaimed as he wiped the perspiration from his face and bent with a microscope over his results. Then, dashing back to the baby who, with one sooty fist clenched tightly, defied him to open it, he began to gurgle soothingly. But the infants, who are the youngest Dr. Watzek ever has finger printed, declined to be soothed.

Tests the Knee Reflexes.

Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, psychiatrist, who joined the conference yesterday, reported that he had found that when hit upon the knee with a rubber hammer, the supposed Baby Bamberger and Mrs. Bamberger had shown "lively reflexes," and that the reflexes of the supposed Baby Watkins and of Mrs. Watkins were "normal." Both babies have splendid nervous systems and were well born, he said.

"I have just noticed that the Bamberger baby seems to be getting red hair," Mr. Watkins commented to his wife at one time. "My mother had red hair, and my boy by a first marriage has red hair."

During a lull in the proceedings, a lusty yell was heard from the room where the babies were supposed to be napping.

"Goodness, is that my baby or is it yours?" Mrs. Watkins asked Mrs. Bamberger.

They All Get in Talkies.

During the process of taking sound movies, certain difficulties were encountered. The infants memorized their parts well; all they had to do was to cry, and they did it consistently.

But when it came to the investigators alone, the situation was more complicated. The cameraman asked Dr. Kegel, Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court, one of the investigators, and Dr. von Bonin to do some talking. Dr. Kegel said he would talk about parentage and how it was a more sacred tribunal than any court.

"And I'll just say," said Judge Olson, "that the preponderance of evidence from my examination of hospital authorities is that the babies are switched, and that human testimony is better than all this science."

Several of the scientists visibly stiffened. Dr. Kegel murmured something, demurring. The cameraman said: "No, we want to get these doctors in on this. Say something about science deciding the babies—well, that it will find out if they're the right babies."

"All right," Judge Olson said, "how about this: That if these different sciences corroborate each other, they'll show the truth?"

"That's better," someone said.

"Oke," said the movie man. "Every one knows his part? Shoot!"

Shuffled Babies Can't Enjoy Scientists' Tests

Jersey Justice Takes 4 Lives to Avenge 1 in $3,500 Holdup

Trenton, N. J., July 22.—[Special.]—Frank McBrien, alias John Murray and known as the "Jersey Kid," who during his gang career used to boast of the slogan "death before dishonor" tatooed upon his forearm, was executed tonight in the New Jersey state prison for the murder of George B. Lee, garage cashier shot in a $3,600 holdup in Newark on Oct. 15, 1928.

McBrien was followed by three gang confederates—a fifth was shot down trying to escape a Chicago policeman two months after the crime. The three were, in the order of their execution tonight: Victor Giampietro, 24 years old; Joseph Malanga, 32 years old; Joseph Rado, 27 years old.

A reprieve had been asked for Giampietro, by William J. Egan, director of public safety of Newark. None was forthcoming, however, from Gov. Morgan F. Larson. Giampietro had aided the authorities in the arrest and conviction of the other three, and by this earned the hatred of the condemned men, all of whom expressed a desire to see him die first.

Goes to Death Wearing Rose.

Giampietro went to the chair wearing a red rose pinned to his shirt. He was smoking a cigaret. McBrien selected a cigar and scorned flowers, but Malanga carried three roses in his hand and was smoking a cigaret. At the last moment he handed his bouquet to a guard and said, "Put them on me when I'm gone."

Rado declared his innocence before the straps were buckled about him.

"I want you gate-crashers and spectators to know," he said, "that I am innocent, despite what McBrien testified. Tell the whole world that."

Confess Robbery, Deny Shooting.

Following the shooting of Lee, a wide search resulted in the arrest in Lackawanna, N. Y., of Andrew Selesia, Louis Malanga and Victor Giampietro. The latter two confessed the robbery but denied the shooting. They named Rado, Frank Orlando, and McBrien.

Rado was found, and Sieger soon afterward. On Dec. 26, 1928, Orlando and McBrien attempted a holdup in Chicago. They engaged in a pistol battle with Policeman David Griffin and Police Sergeant Joseph Starshak. Orlando was killed and Griffin was wounded. But McBrien escaped.

Jurors Illness Causes Mistrial.

Rado, Giampietro and Malanga were placed on trial, with Rado aiding the state. Illness of a juror caused a mistrial.

McBrien was hiding in New York. A squad of New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia police burst in and arrested him.

McBrien was placed on trial with the others and all were convicted. Many pleas for appeals were refused.

American Gives 10 Millions for Social Work in Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—[Wednesday.]—The Daily Herald announces that Edward Harkness of New York, American philanthropist, is to make a gift of $10,000,000 for the endowment of social and educational work in Great Britain. The money will be administered by a board of distinguished public men. Among those approached to serve in this connection are former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, Sir John Buchanan, Lord MacMillan, Sir Joshua Stamp, and James Irvine.

Census Estimate Puts U. S. Population at 122,957,000

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—A total of about 122,957,000 persons probably will be shown as the population of the United States for 1930 when the final count is announced by Director W. M. Steuart of the census.

The 1920 population was 105,710,620. Thus the country would show a growth of around 17,246,000 in ten years.

This approximate total figure has been calculated by the Associated Press on the basis of preliminary returns from 40 states and the District of Columbia. In these states census supervisors have reported a total of 100,807,723, as against 86,667,358 ten years ago, an increase of 14,139,845, or 16.31 per cent. For the decade of 1910-'20 the rate of growth is 14.9 per cent.

Unofficial State Totals.

*Unannounced.
†Indicates decrease.

Reports still have to come from eight states—Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Oregon, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arizona, and Idaho. The estimated population of those states as of Jan. 1, this year, aggregates 21,644,618.

Cities of 100,000 or more population were increased to 94 today with a revised announcement by the census bureau of the population of Gary, Ind., as 100,749. This was an increase of 31.9 per cent as compared with 55,378 ten years ago. Gary now ranks as 93d city in point of population.

South Dakota failed to grow up to unofficial estimates and with the announcement that her 1930 population is 691,008, a gain of 54,461 or 8.5 per cent over the 1920 census, the possibility developed that she might lose a representative in congress. Just what state will gain as a result of the reapportionment was uncertain, but indications are that it will be Ohio. The loss would reduce South Dakota's delegation to two members instead of three as at present. Gain of another for Ohio would make her delegation twenty-four instead of the present twenty-two.

U. S. HOLDS GIRL ON CHARGE OF MAIL BOX THEFT

Miss Fay Seibert, 25 years old, of 216 West Elm street, and her landlord, Charles M. Boren, 72 years, were held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of trafficking in dividend checks stolen from apartment house mail boxes. The young woman was alleged by postal inspectors to have stolen some $1,500 worth of checks and Boren was accused with passing $500 worth of them. Miss Seibert said she had been ill and out of work and that the money she obtained from the checks was used for medical treatment.

JAPAN'S LEADERS SCORE NAVY PACT AS 'DEFECTIVE'

Will Tell Mikado Treaty Perils National Defense

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, July 22.—Naval leaders here dealt a hard blow at the London naval treaty today when members of the supreme military council at a second informal meeting agreed upon a report finding the treaty "defective" in so far as national defense is concerned.

Wording suggested by Admiral Togo was agreed upon in face of the opposition of Admiral Takarabe, navy minister, who sought to have the council adopt milder language which would avoid the impression that naval leaders desired to repudiate the treaty. The outcome was a distinct victory for the opposition forces led by Admirals Togo and Kanji Kato, former chief of the naval staff.

Will Report to Emperor.

The wording of the report, although not officially given out, was reported to be as follows:

"Strength allotted to Japan by the London treaty is defective in so far as national defense is concerned. The treaty being only for the short term of five years, we are not without measures to make up the defect, but only in an imperfect way."

Following today's informal meeting, Admiral Taniguchi, new chief of the naval staff, went to Hayama to report the results to the emperor and request him to convene a formal meeting of the supreme military council, which has now been fixed for tomorrow morning in the imperial palace.

Will Call Privy Council.

Tomorrow's formal meeting is merely expected to ratify the decision reached today. The emperor will formally ask the advice of naval men and they will hand him their prepared answer agreed upon today. A special cabinet meeting is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and the government is expected to immediately place the treaty in the hands of the emperor, who will refer it to the privy council for ratification.

It was also agreed at the naval meeting today that the Japanese delegation should insist at the next naval conference upon Japan's three principles: A 70 per cent ratio in all auxiliaries, a 70 per cent ratio in large cruisers, and parity in submarines.

The fact that the treaty has been officially dubbed "defective" by the highest naval men of the nation is regarded as placing the government which negotiated it in an extremely embarrassing position.

The treaty may now be expected to encounter considerable difficulties in the privy council, although it seems certain the council will ultimately approve the pact.

U. S. Lead Spurs British.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 22.—Prospects of the naval treaty's approval by Great Britain have been quickened by ratification in Washington. The unexpectedly decisive vote in the senate is regarded here as having lifted the treaty over its highest hurdle.

Prime Minister MacDonald told commons today it would be best to pass the treaty bill before next week's recess, especially now that the treaty has been ratified by the senate.

The premier was plainly elated at the senate vote when he addressed the closing session of the Interparliamentary union later in the day.

Adams Orders Navy to Build Fleet to Conform to Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—Revision of the navy's projected warship building program to make it conform to the limitation of the London naval agreement has been ordered by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams. This program will include vessels now building, appropriated for, and authorized, as well as additional ships needed by the navy but still unauthorized by congress.

Recommendations outlining the types and numbers of ships which the navy desires included in a new naval building bill slated for introduction in congress next fall will be prepared and submitted to President Hoover by Secretary Adams. The size of the bill which will go to congress will rest largely with the President. Thus far Mr. Hoover has not definitely stated whether or not he will approve expenditure of sufficient funds to build up and maintain all the ships permitted by the treaty.

Ships Actually Necessary.

Estimates today indicated that the navy will recommend a five year building program including vessels now authorized and building, which will necessitate an expenditure of between six and seven hundred million dollars during a period of from five to eight years. This would include only ships considered actually necessary for national defense purposes and would contemplate replacing all ships immediately they reach the age limit in their class, as permitted by the treaty. The cost of a program giving the United States a modern treaty navy, with all ships under the useful age limit set by the pact, would cost between 800 millions and 900 millions.

The treaty allows the United States 323,000 tons of cruisers, 150,000 tons of destroyers, 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 52,700 tons of submarines, and approximately 477,000 tons of battleships if all American capital ships are modernized.

Under Useful Age Limit.

To give the navy a fleet of ships under the useful age limit and up to the tonnage limits set by the treaty on Dec. 31, 1936, would necessitate the authorization and construction before that date of 73,500 tons of 6 inch gun cruisers, 150,000 tons of destroyers, 25,000 tons of submarines, and 55,200 tons of aircraft carriers.

This would be in addition to ships now building and authorized which will cost 175 millions to complete. This existing authorized program contemplates the laying down of all 8 inch gun cruisers not now completed, the completion of six submarines and one 13,800 ton aircraft carrier.

NEW ZEALAND RAISES TARIFF AGAINST U. S. IN FAVOR OF BRITAIN

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 22.—More preference for British goods and a corresponding tariff against American products are given in the new tariff schedule with which the government surprised the country tonight. It was announced two days before the budget.

Prime Minister Forbes tonight said the new duties are expected to yield $4,000,000, but even then the total customs and excise revenue would be $1,850,000 below that of last year.

Spain Boosts Schedule.

MADRID, Spain, July 22.—(AP)—With the object of stabilizing the peseta, the Berenguer cabinet will publish in the official gazette tomorrow a new tariff schedule increasing duties on numerous articles manufactured in the United States. In announcing the decision, Minister of Economy Wais emphasized that it was taken to stabilize Spain's currency and protect her industries and was not in any way intended as a reprisal against the increased American tariff.

Wreck Piles Up Freight Cars; Blocks C. & N. W.

Twenty-two freight cars filled with grain, machinery, brick, and coal piled up alongside the right of way of the Chicago and North Western railroad at Elburn, eighteen miles east of De Kalb, yesterday when a hot box caused the wheels of one car to leave the tracks. None of the train crew was injured. The wreck caused trains to be rerouted for the greater part of the night.

Wilmette Board Names Its First City Manager

Wilmette's village board at a special meeting last night voted to engage C. M. Osborn of Shorewood, Wis., as its first city manager. The ordinance creating the office was passed some months ago. Mr. Osborn will receive $7,200 a year.

EXPECT MYERS' ELECTION TODAY AS SCHOOL HEAD

The annual election of the board of education, scheduled to have been held May 28, but postponed each week due to a deadlock over the presidency, will be held this afternoon, and Trustee Lewis E. Myers, according to reports, is to be elected president.

Members of the board refused to comment on the election, but they admitted negotiations to break the deadlock had been under way for several weeks. The choice of Mr. Myers is said to be a compromise advised by Mayor Thompson. The board had been evenly divided by the candidacies of President H. Wallace Caldwell, up for reelection, and Trustee James Hemingway.

Reports that Myers was to be elected caused a mysterious campaign to be started against him by some unknown agency. Thirty-six telegrams objecting to Myers were received by THE TRIBUNE. The wording of the telegrams followed three set forms. Two signers were found. Both denied the messages were inspired by any agency, though identical language was used in twelve other messages received.

London Shivers as Mercury Drops Nearly to Freezing

LONDON, July 22.—(AP)—While the United States has been suffering from a pronounced heat wave, Great Britain is experiencing one of the most unusual cold spells in years. It was colder here last night than for ordinary nights in November, the thermometer on Hampstead Heath dropping to 45 degrees, while the ground temperature was within 8 degrees of freezing.

Burglars Open Safes in Two Cemetery Offices

Two cemetery office safes were rifled on Monday night by burglars. Secretary P. N. Johnson of the Evergreen Park cemetery, 87th street and Kedzie avenue, said he found records scattered about and the doors of the safe open when he arrived early yesterday. The safe in the office of St. Mary's cemetery, which adjoins the Evergreen Park cemetery, also was opened.

G. O. P. CANVASS OF NEXT SENATE INDICATES LOSS

Confident of Victory in Illinois Race.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—A tally of election prospects today by members of the Republican senatorial campaign committee disclosed only three possible chances for Republican gains in senate seats, as against at least five chances for losses.

The three states where the Republicans hope to capture present Democratic seats are Iowa, Montana, and New Mexico.

Five states where Democrats were conceded an even chance to win present Republican seats are Massachusetts, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Oklahoma.

Other senate seats now held by Republicans, which the committee members regarded as involved in a lesser degree of uncertainty are those in New Jersey, Delaware, and Colorado.

Have No Doubt in Illinois.

The Republicans were unwilling to admit that there is any doubt as to the outcome in Illinois, where former Senator James Hamilton Lewis is the Democratic nominee against Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick for the Deneen seat.

In canvassing the situation in the various states the members of the committee listed Iowa as certain to elect Representative L. J. Dickinson, the Republican senatorial nominee, over Senator Daniel Steck, renominated by the Democrats. The Republicans are not so sure about the outcome in Montana and New Mexico, the two other states where they think they have a chance to make gains. In Montana the Republicans will make a serious effort to elect Justice Albert J. Galen over Senator Thomas J. Walsh. In New Mexico the Republicans think that Gov. Richard C. Dillon, who is to be their nominee, will have a good chance to defeat Senator Sam G. Bratton, to be renominated by the Democrats.

Moses Is "Hopeful."

Senator Moses characterized conditions in the doubtful states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma as "hopeful." It was admitted that in all of these states the Republicans will have difficulty in holding present seats.

Complete confidence appears to be felt that Dwight W. Morrow, Republican nominee in New Jersey, will win and that the Republicans also will win in Delaware and Colorado and also in South Dakota, in all of which the Democrats profess hope of winning.

AIR MAIL FLYER DIES WHEN PLANE CRASHES IN FOG AND DARKNESS

Huron, O., July 22.—(AP)—Fog, rain, and darkness were blamed tonight by air mail pilots for the death of William Frederick Martin, 26, who crashed on a farm near here today while flying the air mail from Cleveland to Bay City, Mich.

Martin's death was the first fatal accident on that mail route, which has been in operation two years. He was employed by the Thompson Aeronautical corporation.

George Beatty, on whose farm the accident occurred, said he heard the crash about 4:30 a. m., but did not realize what it was until he found the wreckage an hour later.

Martin died of a broken neck, probably killed outright. Before the crash he had dumped the plane's gasoline supply to keep the plane from catching fire. His act saved the mail aboard from destruction.

Martin's wife and daughter were in Fresno, Cal., on a visit. His home was in Pontiac, Mich.

THE LAW DRAGS TREE SITTER PAIR TO THE GROUND

The arm of the law reached up into a tree at Troy street and Irving Park boulevard early yesterday morning and cut short the tree sitting of Tim Flavin, 12 years old, and Francis Hemmerich, 13, after the boys had sat there for 68 hours.

The tree in question is on city property, so Capt. Joseph Goldberg directed Sergt. John McGloon to see what he could do. At 3 a. m. the sergeant visited the tree and invited the boys to come down. They demurred. He then offered to buy candy and ice cream.

"No," objected the sitters. "We are loyal citizens of the north side and we've got to uphold its honor. Some guys on the south side are ahead of us. We can't come down."

Whereupon Sergt. McGloon returned to the Irving Park station and returned with a stepladder. He caught Tim by the seat of the trousers and passed him to Policemen William Nolan and Robert Arnson. Francis followed. The boys then were taken to the home of Tim's grandmother in the police flivver.

N.Y. Spent $141.65 on Each of 1,200,000 Pupils in 1929

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—During 1929 New York City spent $141.65 for the instruction of each of the more than 1,200,000 pupils enrolled in its public schools. The total expenditure of the school system last year, according to the report of Frederick D. Chambers, board of education auditor, just issued, was $171,036,363.24, a record figure.

relations has received the united support of both political parties and also has had the approval of all the states."

Democrats Claim Credit.

Lest the Republicans make political capital out of the treaty, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, issued a statement asserting that the ratification was due principally to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader of the senate.

"A not inconsiderable number of Democratic senators," said Mr. Shouse, "were inclined to urge that consideration of the treaty be put off until after the November elections, but deferred to the view of their leader and by their attendance kept a quorum present and thereby defeated the machinations of those who sought, under Republican leadership, to compass postponement and ultimate rejection of the treaty.

No Democratic Opposition.

"During the whole treaty fight there has not issued from the Democratic national executive committee one word of opposition or one statement that might have tended to destroy the work of the London conference. There was, of course, the political temptation to give President Hoover a dose of the same medicine that the Republicans measured out to President Wilson when he negotiated a treaty—to defeat this one and thereby demonstrate the absolute inability of the Hoover administration to function constructively. However, those directing Democratic affairs took the position that foreign relations were not legitimate questions in domestic politics, and only two Democrats voted against ratifying the treaty, as against seven Republicans—all of them but one regular standpatters."

ENDS LIFE BY GAS.

Robert Coope, 65 years old, for many years a barn boss in the employ of the Bowman Dairy company, committed suicide with gas yesterday in his home, 1806 Pratt boulevard. He had been ill two years, relatives said.

MRS. PATTERSON IS NAMED EDITOR OF HEARST PAPER

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson assumes tomorrow the direction of the Washington Herald, as editor-in-chief. The newspaper is owned by William Randolph Hearst and the new editor will work under the regular Hearst newspaper contract.

Mrs. Patterson and her family have long been known in Washington in official and other circles. She is a granddaughter of Joseph Medill, founder of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and is a writer of novels and signed articles. She is a first cousin of the late Senator Medill McCormick and of Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and the sister of Joseph Medill Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News and Liberty magazine.

Formerly the Countess Gizycka, who subsequently married Elmer Schlesinger, a lawyer, she resumed her maiden name, which is the same as her mother's, Eleanor Medill Patterson, at the latter's request.

Denies She'll Be Engaged to Gloria Swanson's Mate

Hollywood, Cal., July 22.—[Special.]—Constance Bennett, film actress and ex-wife of Phil Plant, millionaire New Yorker, today issued a statement denying that she "has any intention" of becoming engaged to Marquis Henri Falaise. The marquis is the husband of Gloria Swanson.

DEMOCRATS OF IOWA ADOPT A WET PLATFORM

Brand Enforcement a Public Scandal.

Des Moines, Ia., July 22.—Special.]—Iowa Democrats, in state convention today, adopted a wet plank in their state platform.

The main reason for the party decision, the resolution says, is the "nation-wide scandal" brought about by prohibition enforcement methods.

This is the first time in fifteen years that the liquor question has been made an issue in Iowa politics. The Democrats accepted the challenge of the Republican state convention which last week voted down a resolution seeking modification of the prohibition law.

The Democratic plank is regarded as a compromise. The convention first defeated a resolution calling for the flat repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The resolution adopted calls for "a reasonable definition" of what constitutes intoxicating liquor and advocates a nation-wide referendum on prohibition.

Wants State Rights Restored.

"Pending an expression of all the voters upon the question of the continuance, repeal or revision of the eighteenth amendment," the resolution says, "we favor the immediate enactment, in lieu of the present enforcement laws, of a law defining intoxicating beverages according to a reasonable nonintoxicating standard of alcoholic content based upon the opinions of physicians and scientists; and also the enactment of a law delegating to the several states the right within the boundaries of each state to prevent, or, as it may elect, to forbid or restrict the sale or consumption of beverages not prohibited by such definition, and thus take from the federal courts and other federal agencies a burden which experience has shown they cannot successfully carry, and restore to the sovereign states a reasonable measure of local control.

Claims Method Is Legal.

"As the eighteenth amendment is not self-executing, and as the concurrent power of the states is therein recognized, such a course is not inconsistent with the constitution.

"We favor prompt legislative action to ascertain the will of the voters for retaining the eighteenth amendment, repealing it, or revising it, as the voters shall decide."

The resolution shows a wide change in the Iowa Democrats in six years. The Iowa delegation to the Democratic national convention in Madison Square Garden in 1924 stood to the end with William G. McAdoo and prohibition.

Two years ago the state convention defeated any modification movement, but the delegation to the Houston convention supported Al Smith in spite of his wetness.

Iowa Founded as Dry State.

Iowa has been a theoretic prohibition state ever since its founding, prohibition having been written into its constitution. The mulct law permitted liquor selling for some years, however, under a system of pre-determined "fines" instead of licenses. The state was one of the early ones to ratify national prohibition, that having been done in 1915.

The platform adopted today also assailed the Hawley-Smoot tariff, opposed the state primary election law, a proposed state income tax, and criticized Republican farm relief measures.

United States Senator Daniel F. Steck, seeking reelection to the office he has held for six years, was the chief speaker before the convention. Another was Fred P. Hagemann of Waverly, Democratic candidate for governor, an advocate of modification of the present liquor laws.

New York City Borrows 130 Millions from Banks

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—The City of New York made one of its periodic visits to Wall street for a short term loan, borrowing a total of 130 millions from the Chase National bank, J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City bank, and Barr Bros. & Co., Inc. Controller Charles W. Berry took advantage of the low interest rates now prevailing to anticipate the city's need for funds for its various construction programs, including subways, schools, docks and water supply and for sundry purposes.

MIDWEST TAKES STOCK OF CROP DAMAGE BY HEAT

Indiana Hardest Hit by Drought.

Ideal summer weather prevailed in Chicago and over the central states generally yesterday while the expiring heat wave, routed by rain storms along most of the Atlantic seaboard, made a last stand in Virginia, where temperatures remained above 100.

Chicagoans were able to face their tasks with zest yesterday, for the temperature during the morning did not exceed 74 degrees and in the afternoon dropped to 68. Despite recent rains the farmers still felt concern for their crops, especially in Indiana.

The Washington bureau of the Associated Press, interviewing economists of the department of agriculture, declared three staple crops—spring wheat, corn and cotton—had been far from ruined by the drought which prevailed for weeks from the Rockies to the Atlantic until broken by widespread showers last week-end.

Believe Wheat Is Saved.

The one inch rainfall in the northwest, coming just when the grain was beginning to head short and the kernels were shriveling, was believed to have saved spring wheat from serious deterioration, the government experts were quoted as saying. Additional rains are needed, however.

A possible loss of 50,000,000 bushels in the prospective yield of corn was estimated by a semi-official Washington source. South of Springfield, Ill., this authority estimated, the corn yield would be reduced twenty bushels an acre, due to the lack of moisture.

The drought in Indiana, alleviated by rains Monday night in the northern part of the state, continued yesterday in the central and southern portions and was described by the Indianapolis weather bureau as the worst in 29 years.

Forced to Kill Cattle.

Agricultural experts at Purdue university said the Hoosier corn crop will be extremely small, but predicted recovery of the fall clover, new alfalfa, and soy beans, providing there is more rain. Creeks and wells were drying up and Indiana dairymen were reported as slaughtering many cattle for market to forestall their dying from thirst.

Damage from a violent windstorm, accompanied by hail, which struck portions of central Illinois on Monday evening, was appraised yesterday. Heaviest losses were reported at Foosland, northwest of Champaign, where the ten minute blow uprooted trees, tore off chimneys, and shattered plate glass windows.

In the vicinity of Ivesdale and Bement corn was knocked flat. At Sidney, southwest of Champaign, the wind unroofed the postoffice and the plant of the Sidney Times. A farm hand was struck by lightning near Fithian.

A Tug o' War

A call was received at the Fillmore street station yesterday that a monkey was loose. Policeman Martin Ward, 250 pound mainstay for his side in the tug of war at the police field meet, was sent to capture it. The monkey was hanging by its tail from a hook on the sill of a second floor window of a house at 3821 Flournoy street. Policeman Ward fetched a ladder, climbed it, and pulled. The monkey clung. Policeman Ward's foot slipped and he slid down the ladder. The hook gave way and the monkey followed him.

Senate Bootlegger Is Sentenced to 18 Months

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—George L. Cassidy, known in the capital as "the man in the green hat," was sentenced today by Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District of Columbia Supreme court to serve 18 months in the penitentiary on his recent conviction under the Jones law. He noted an appeal and was released on $2,000 bail. Cassidy was arrested in front of the senate office building last October with a bottle of liquor in his pocket. Other bottles were found in his automobile and at his home.

Police Investigate Report of Terry Druggan's Death

The Chicago police last night received a telegram from Ed Smith, police chief of Brookhaven, Miss., saying a man answering the description of Terry Druggan had been accidently killed by a train there yesterday. A squad was sent out in search of the beer baron, who is listed as one of Chicago's public enemies, but he was not found. Chief of Detectives Norton then sent the Mississippi chief a full description of Druggan. Chief Norton doubts the train victim is Druggan.

LEGGE REFUSES TO BUY MORE OF WHEAT SURPLUS

Apparently Has Backing of Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—With President Hoover apparently backing him, Chairman Alexander Legge today rejected a proposal that the farm board purchase more wheat in an effort to boost the 1930 crop price.

Mr. Legge told a delegation of five wheat state senators who called upon him to urge the wheat buying plan that it would be at best only a temporary expedient and in the long run would only make the wheat problem worse. He made it clear that the board's stabilization corporation, which stopped buying on June 16 with 60 million bushels of wheat on its hands, will not purchase any more at this time nor sell any until the price advances.

Has Conference with Hoover.

A few hours before receiving the senators Mr. Legge had breakfasted at the White House, where, presumably, he discussed the board's policy with the President and obtained his indorsement.

Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], who himself laid the wheat buying plan before Mr. Hoover a week ago, headed the group which visited Mr. Legge. He was accompanied by Senators Henry J. Allen [Rep., Kas.], William H. McMaster [Rep., S. D.], Robert B. Howell [Rep., Neb.], and W. B. Pine [Rep., Okla.].

"We told Mr. Legge that the wheat growers are facing a crisis," said Senator Capper. "Wheat is selling at 60 cents, the lowest in 16 years. It probably will be higher in three or four months, but if the grower is to benefit he must be helped now.

Senators' Arguments Fail.

"The board probably could apply the pulmotor and give temporary aid to some commodities," Mr. Legge said in commenting on the Capper plan yesterday, "but what we want is something permanent.

"Stabilization will work admirably on seasonal surpluses, but it cannot be used on an accumulative surplus. We have had an accumulative surplus in wheat for four years. Stabilization will not cure it. I don't say stabilization is a failure, but it won't work at the present time. To follow Senator Capper's plan would only encourage the farmers in Kansas to raise more wheat and make a bad situation worse."

JUDGE'S VERDICT IN OLIVER CASE IS EXPECTED TODAY

Federal Judge Woodward is expected to announce his verdict in the government's case against County Assessor Gene G. Oliver at 10 a. m. today. Oliver was on trial for three weeks, charged with evading income taxes, and Judge Woodward took the case under advisement on July 14, the case having been tried without a jury.

The prosecution charged that Oliver had a net income of more than $250,000 for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928, while he paid taxes on $43,000. The government introduced evidence intended to show that Oliver received large amounts from property owners for the fixing of taxes.

The defense contended that Oliver's only income was his salary of $9,000, that he collected large sums for campaign expenditures, and that he played the horse races with abandon, winning and losing many thousands of dollars. Oliver denied the charges of fixing taxes.

3 INJURED WHEN PATROL WAGON AND AUTO CRASH

Three persons were slightly injured early this morning when a police patrol from the Wabash avenue station carrying a wounded colored boy to the county hospital was struck by an automobile driven by Walter Andersen, 6158 South Wood street, at 35th street and South Park way. Those hurt are Policeman Fred Hack, Andersen, and the patient, Robert Kids, 9 years old, 742 East 43d street, who was suffering from a gunshot wound received accidentally in his home.

All were hurried on to the county hospital by a relief patrol from the Stanton avenue station. In the smash-up a tire was ripped from a wheel and bounded across the sidewalk, breaking a window in the Franklin Trust and Savings bank on the corner.

FARMER KILLED IN AUTO.

Fowler, Ind., July 22.—[Special.]—Runnick Alexander, 69, prominent Boswell farmer and banker, was killed when his car collided with a truck on state road 41 late yesterday afternoon, the third death in automobile accidents in Benton county yesterday.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CHICAGO GAINS PRICE CUTS ON CHEAPER MEATS

Retail Cost Here Is Down in Year.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—Meat market prices of the cheaper grades of beef in Chicago are lower by nearly 11 cents a pound than a year ago, as shown today in a compilation of figures by the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture.

The fact that housewives now are able to economize on their bills for steaks and roasts was interpreted by C. B. Denman, live stock member of the federal farm board, as an indication that retail meat dealers are cooperating to increase the consumption of beef as a result of the drop in wholesale prices.

Philadelphia is the only city aside from Chicago where consumers have received the full benefit of the wholesale price reductions, the bureau survey revealed. In Philadelphia the cheaper grades of beef are selling 12 cents a pound under the July, 1929, level. The retail price cuts in both cities have been even greater than the wholesale price reduction, the survey showed. In New York the average retail price has been only 3 to 6 cents lower.

"While no figures have been compiled by the bureau for other cities, letters to the farm board from Kansas City, St. Louis, Fort Worth, St. Paul, and numerous smaller centers indicate rather large reductions have been made by the retail meat dealers, one chain group reporting 9 cents a pound reduction on all grades of beef," Mr. Denman said. "Reports from all sources indicate consumers are taking advantage of the lower prices and that greater volume of beef is going into consumption."

50 VIRGINIA LAWYERS ASK BAR ASSOCIATION TO DENOUNCE DRY LAW

Norfolk, Va., July 22.—[Special.]—Fifty of Virginia's leading lawyers will sponsor a resolution advocating the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution at a meeting of the Virginia State Bar association to be held at Old Point Aug. 6. Among the signers are Nathaniel T. Green and Tazewell Taylor of Norfolk, recognized as among the most brilliant members of the bar in the south.

The resolution reads that the prohibition amendment is "contrary to the basic principles of our form of constitutional government, is subversive of the reserved powers of the several states and of the people and of the retained rights of the people, and is destructive of the principles set out in the Declaration of Independence and the federal bill of rights."

SHOTGUN CREW WOUNDS AUTOIST RIDING WITH WIFE

Enemies, of whose existence he professed ignorance, made an attempt last night to kill Joseph Martorano, 40 years old, a tinsmith at 2538 North Hamlin avenue. Martorano, with his wife, was driving an automobile south in Hamlin avenue about 11 p. m. and had just crossed Diversey parkway when another car drew alongside and the several occupants fired three shotgun blasts at the tinsmith.

A pedestrian, William Donoghue, 2821 North Lotus avenue, hearing the shots, came to aid Martorano and drove him to the Belmont hospital. Slugs had pierced his leg, back and left ear, but physicians said he would recover. Martorano told the police he had no idea who his assailants were or their motive.

JARECKI LIMITS CASE'S QUIZZING IN MAGUIRE CASE

County Judge Jarecki yesterday directed Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case, who is prosecuting the ouster action against Fred V. Maguire, chairman of the board of election commissioners, to discontinue questioning witnesses regarding their police records. This ruling was made after Attorney John F. Tyrrell, representing the Republican county central committee, repeatedly had objected to questions by Case. The latter, formerly attorney for the election board, has charged Maguire employed persons with police records as election officials.

The judge ruled the only purpose of placing a witness on the stand was to determine his identity. The records, he declared, will show the police records of the witnesses, and Case was instructed to produce these files in court during the remainder of the hearing.

"Although a man may have a record," the judge said, "we do not want the man put on the stand just to be held up to ridicule."

Testimony during the day revealed that Joseph A. Cerra, a Democratic election official in the 25th ward, is now being held in the county jail pending the hearing of charges of malicious mischief, involving the use of bombs. However, it was brought out by Attorney Fink, representing Maguire, that Cerra was removed from office before the April election.

CHICAGOANS TO GREET FLYING PRIEST TODAY

A Jesuit missionary of Alaska, flying a new airplane which he obtained in New York for missionary service in Alaska, will arrive in Chicago today from New York en route to Alaska. He is the Rev. G. J. Feltes, who recently visited Chicago with a blind Eskimo boy, who was on his way to New York to receive surgical attention. The Rev. Hubert Noonan of the St. Ignatius parish will be Father Feltes' host. The following committee will welcome the flying priest: Alderman Thomas F. Byrne, Merrill C. Meigs, Frederick H. Chetlain, H. Otto Weege, William Sleepeck, George T. Donoghue, and Leslie J. Sorenson.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following. Ten-Day Free Trial Offer.

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 509M, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today!

HINT PEORIA GAMBLER WILL BE FREED TODAY

Peoria, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—That William O. Urban wealthy Peoria gambler kidnaped by gangsters Monday, may return home tomorrow or Thursday is the belief of several of his associates, who intimate that the ransom demanded believed to be $100,000, is now being raised. Some say that Urban, whose baseball pool is supposed to bring him $100,000 monthly profit, is secreted in Chicago, while others contend that he has been planted in an isolated spot in the hills within ten or fifteen miles of Peoria. A close friend of Urban's today told Sheriff Grant Minor that he wouldn't be surprised if "Bill" returned home tomorrow. There were indications that Urban's business associates in the Empire Cafe were raising the money to ransom him from the gang of men who seized him yesterday morning near his country home on the Dunlap road.

GANDHI TO TELL VIEWS ON INDIA SITUATION TODAY

Native Leaders to See Him in Prison Cell.

BOMBAY, India, July 22.—(AP)—All India tonight awaited with interest the outcome of a private interview which will take place in the Yeravda jail at Poona tomorrow between two envoys of the congress and Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the campaign of civil disobedience against British rule.

The two Hindu statesmen arrived in Poona tonight from Bombay, and were prepared to see the "holy one" in his prison quarters without the attendance of any other persons. It was predicted that the interview might occupy a long time.

May Take Two Days.

Before their departure from Bombay the leader of the two, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, said he had no idea how long the conversation with the Nationalist leader would last. He agreed with his companion, Mr. Jayakar, that it might take half an hour, or two days.

After seeing the Mahatma, Sapru and Jayakar planned to go to Allahabad to interview Pandit Motalil Nehru and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. Their object is to obtain views regarding an entire cessation of the civil resistance program. From Allahabad the pair will return to Simla, there to meet Viceroy Lord Irwin.

Pessimistic Over Result.

No great optimism was felt in any quarter tonight regarding the outcome of the Gandhi interview. The general feeling among observers of the progress of the congress movement was that at any rate no harm would be done and in the present straits any straw must be clutched at that would seem to help India and her people out of their predicament.

Moslems meeting at Lucknow today adopted resolutions of gratitude for the effect they held the Simon report had had in cementing India in unity. Although regarding the civil disobedience program as unconstitutional, the conference decided for massed action and that responsibility for forcing the downtrodden people to take such a method must be laid at the government's door. The meeting was the largest ever held here by Moslems.

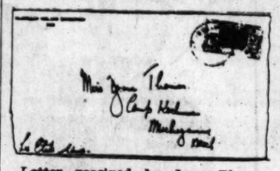
12 Injured by Police.

Advices from Ahmadabad said 12 persons had been injured by police sticks when a mob attacked the prison to demand release of a Moslem arrested as a thief.

Police today arrested the editor of Liberty, nationalist newspaper at Calcutta, and issued a warrant for the editor of the newspaper Advance.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Jane Thomas, Camp Kechuwa, Michigamma, Mich.

"This letter came to my sister from a member of the MacMillan Iceland expedition," Miss Betty Thomas writes. "The letter was posted at St. Pierre, a French island off the coast of Newfoundland. The island was one of the stops made by the expedition on its way to Iceland and Greenland."

St. Pierre is one of two islands which is usually associated with its twin, Miquelon, as one name—St. Pierre and Miquelon. The two lie about ten miles off the south coast of Newfoundland. Miquelon is the larger and is composed of two sections separated only by a mud bank in place of a once navigable channel.

St. Pierre has a fair harbor and a good roadstead for large vessels. The two islands are important because of their proximity to the Grand Banks, where the French Atlantic fishing trade centers. Fishing lasts from May to October, and the majority of nearly five hundred boats engaged in the work are fitted out from St. Pierre.

These two islands are the surviving remnant of French colonization in North America. They changed hands several times during the wars between the French and English, but have been an undisputed French possession since the treaty of 1814.

3 Get 90 Days in Jail for Luring Girls to Hotel

After being arrested in a west side hotel with two young girls, Anthony Maud, 26 years old, 1259 Oregon avenue; Joseph Fooden, 20 years old, 3537 West 13th place, and Jack Anthony, 24 years old, 1622 West Van Buren street, were sentenced yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in boys' court to 90 days in the county jail. The girls, 15 and 16 years old, said they met the boys at a bathing beach.

Jail Van Loan, Writer, for Wife Abandonment

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—(AP)—H. H. Van Loan, magazine writer, was arrested today on a fugitive warrant issued in New York City on a charge of wife abandonment. Van Loan, characterizing the action of his estranged wife, Gertrude, as "spite work," said in jail he has a divorce suit pending against her. It is due for trial here Aug. 19. The writer said he would consult with his lawyer about returning east.

LIFE FOR MURDER IN ILLINOIS HELD TO BE 20 YEARS

Carlstrom Ruling Accepted by Parole Board.

Springfield, Ill., July 22.—(AP)—No person sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in Illinois will be paroled in the future until he has served twenty years of the sentence even though the life term may have been commuted to a lesser punishment by the governor.

This ruling was announced by the state parole board today in connection with the publication of an opinion by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, holding that the minimum term for murder where the prisoner is sentenced to life imprisonment is twenty years.

In the past state parole boards have applied the state parole act to commuted sentences. Under this practice, which has been employed for many years, numerous "lifers" have been paroled before serving twenty years.

Will Change Practice.

Although Attorney General Carlstrom's opinion was directed to State's Attorney D. F. Rumsey of Harrisburg, the parole board, when indirectly informed of the ruling, declared that the practice of the board will be changed immediately to conform with the opinion.

"The board has followed the rule that has been adhered to in the past," Supervisor of Paroles W. C. Jones said. "Under this practice sentences commuted to a definite term of years have been looked upon as definite sentence cases, and the prisoner has been deemed eligible for parole after having served one-third of his definite sentence, provided he also has served the minimum sentence provided for his particular crime.

"I have given the opinion of the attorney general careful consideration," Mr. Jones continued, "and have looked into the authorities he cites, and there is no doubt in my mind regarding the soundness of the opinion.

"Regardless of the practice in the past, the attorney general's opinion."

The attorney general's opinion was given at the request of State's Attorney Rumsey in the case of a man who was convicted for murder in Saline county Circuit court and sentenced to life imprisonment on Dec. 16, 1918. The man's sentence was commuted to thirty years by former Gov. Small in 1929. The state's attorney asked Attorney General Carlstrom when the prisoner would be eligible for parole.

Not to Change Sentence.

"The only effect of the commutation was to change the punishment to a less degree and not to change the sentence," the attorney general held.

A Supreme court case in which the bench held that "the governor is not vested with authority to convict a person of any crime, or to change the conviction for another crime, or to change the conviction by a court for a crime to a conviction for another crime," was cited by the attorney general as the basis of this ruling.

"Therefore, the sentence remains a sentence for life, and the application of the parole act must be to a conviction and sentence for a life term," the opinion continued. "The minimum term provided for murder, where the prisoner is sentenced to life imprisonment, is twenty years. Under the ruling of the Supereme court the prisoner is not eligible for parole until he has served the minimum time of twenty years."

CHEEPING SPARROW HALTS MURDER TRIAL TILL BAILIFF KILLS IT

Jacksonville, Fla., July 22.— (AP) — An English sparrow, with utter disregard for the majesty of the law, halted a murder trial today and paid with its life.

The state's attorney was in the act of demanding the life of a Negro, charged with murdering another Negro.

"In the past hopelessly barren years," he said, "it would have been impossible to bear the roughness of the Americans or the persistent political oppression of the French had it not been for the Rhine and Moselle, which both gave us their presents—wine—which in turn gave us manly courage and civic strength."

Asks Aid For Children.

Coblenz has prepared a petition asking for $200,000 from the government to aid children left by American soldiers in Coblenz. The mayor said that although many American doughboys who left children here have since taken them to America there are still 350 children not being helped.

Despite Mayor Russel's reference to "American roughness," it cannot be denied that the Americans were popular in Coblenz. A former A. E. F. man, proudly wearing his old army cap, today drove through the dense mob. The crowd scowled at every other car in its way, but when they realized that this was an American who had been in Coblenz, they crowded the running board and besieged him with questions as to the whereabouts of soldiers they remembered.

MOONEY'S FATE IS AGAIN UP TO SUPREME COURT

San Francisco, Cal., July 22.—(AP)—The nation-wide battle of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings for pardons turned again to the California Supreme court today, the fourteenth anniversary of the preparedness day bombing which killed ten persons and injured forty here in 1916.

The court granted a hearing next Tuesday to John MacDonald, Baltimore night watchman, who crossed the continent to recant testimony that helped send Mooney and Billings to prison for life. MacDonald in an affidavit last week said identifications he made of Mooney and Billings at their trials were false.

MacDonald's hearing was set about two hours after he appeared before Gov. C. C. Young, to whom was presented the Baltimore affidavit. The governor said the court had assured him of an early hearing, and because of this he felt it "inexpedient" to personally examine MacDonald.

After listening at some length to Frank P. Walsh, Mooney's attorney, the governor refused Mooney a pardon, explaining he deemed it expedient to refer both the Mooney and Billings cases to the advistory pardon board and the State Supreme court.

The governor cannot act on Billings' plea without a Supreme court recommendation because Billings was previously convicted of a felony. Gov. Young has said he would be guided in Mooney's case by Supreme court action on Billings' petition.

Fifty Years Make a Big Difference Even in Want Ads

Since 1880, the world has done considerable wagging, and we moderns could get many a laugh from the out-dated bargains and requests of old Tribune Want Ads. However, getting people "what they want when they want it" was the purpose of Tribune Want Ads fifty years ago as now, and don't blame the hard-working little want ad for the changes wrought by time and man's inventions. Just glance over these prizes!

Giddap, Napoleon!

Fast-Selling Item!

The next ad takes us back to the good old days that had drawbacks, one of which was filling the oil lamps. Evidently the task could be lightened by this device:

WANTED—AGENTS TO SELL Eureka lamp fillers. Newest and best 10 cent article ever made. Sales enormous. Send 10 cents for samples and circulars. J. M. Hunter & Company, 38 West Fourth-st., Cincinnati.

Every Home Needs One

Here's another little gadget. Evidently it went over big then, although we can't imagine a very large field for its sale today:

Lake View a Suburb!

And the suburbs have moved several miles farther from the loop. In 1880, this advertisement appeared under "Suburban—Houses for Rent."

The story of how a Chicago Tribune Lost and Found Want Ad brought about the recovery of a $10,000 pearl necklace, lost by its owner on a shopping tour of the loop, was recently disclosed by the head of the Chicago agency which had been engaged by an insurance company to locate the missing gems.

"Last September, a woman visiting Chicago and stopping at a loop hotel, reported the loss of a pearl necklace valued at $10,000," wrote Charles F. Martin of the Martin Adjustment company, Chicago.

"There was nothing mysterious about the loss. The necklace had become loosened and dropped from her neck. She had been at the hotel, a shoe store, a furrier's, and an office building."

"In one of these places the necklace was lost," continued Mr. Martin. "The insurance company advised us of the loss and requested us to post a reward of $500.

"We advertised in the Tribune Lost and Found, and as a result received information which enabled us to recover the necklace in New York City. As we place the entire credit for the recovery of this necklace to our advertisement in the Tribune, we are pleased to inform you of the facts."

Among other items lost and recovered by the same agency through the medium of Tribune Lost and Found Want Ads were:

A diamond ring valued at $1,700. Lost at Onwentsia Country Club. Reward $100.

YOUNG ACTORS TO GIVE SHOW FOR ICE FUND

Great-Grandmother Sends Money for Cause.

Seventy-five young boosters for THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund will present "The Juvenile Follies" at the Almira Simons hall at 1640 Hancock street on July 31 to raise money for the ice fund. Through the hot weather, when practicing has been tiresome, and through the cooler days when the ice fund's total has not budged, these loyal boosters living in the vicinity of 2800 North Francisco avenue have labored morning after morning. For several weeks neighborhood children have been directed in their chorus work by Mrs. Edward G. Shore, 2842 North Francisco avenue, who planned the benefit with her small daughter.

The cast will include juvenile radio stars, dancers, and singers, among whom are Helen Strieff, soloist; Frank Finn, radio singer; Charlotte Welsh, dancer, and Helen Kellner, soloist.

The tickets are being sold at 50 cents each by the children. The entire proceeds of the show, which will begin at 8 p. m. on July 31, will be turned over to THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund, to make the lives of tenement children happier.

Send Money for Two Funds.

The ice fund, lagging nearly $1,000 behind the Camp Algonquin fund, received a boost yesterday from friends who have contributed annually for years—THE TRIBUNE composing room employés. They sent $126 to be divided between the ice and Algonquin funds.

In yesterday's mail was a $5 gift for each TRIBUNE fund from a great-grandmother whose own grandparents came to Chicago long before the city grew to the point where it had a tenement problem.

"I am a mother of three children, grandmother of six and great-grandmother of two children, and I am very fond of children," wrote Mrs. A. Maria Shader. "I was born on the west side in 1856. My grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. George Lomax, who came to Chicago and settled on West Madison street, betwen Des Plaines and Halsted streets, about 1839."

Other Gifts Received.

Other gifts to THE TRIBUNE ice fund are acknowledged as follows:

Let's First Educate Our Educators, Dr. Chase Says

Urbana, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—Declaring that within the last ten years an enormous growth of institutions for higher education throughout the country has created a situation without precedent, Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University of Illinois, tonight expressed the belief that educators in the next decade will put less emphasis on tradition and opinion and more on the study of actual procedure.

The address was the first given by Dr. Chase on an educational subject since he assumed the presidency of the state institution over two weeks ago. He was the principal speaker at a dinner given by Phi Delta Kappa, educational fraternity, and attended by many university faculty members and teachers from various sections of Illinois who are attending the summer session.

Urges Open-Mindedness.

"Open-mindedness, respect for facts, the development of the experimental attitude, the subordination of prejudice and tradition to the methods of discovery seem to be of the utmost value in our present educational situation," declared Dr. Chase. "Only on them can we come to base a philosophy of education for this modern world which will clarify our task and redefine its objectives.

"We are living in a period of disorder and rapid change. Such a period always throws a great strain upon all kinds of educational systems and institutions. We are faced everywhere with a changing conception of education, both on the part of the public and on the part of people who are dealing with educational problems.

"Other civilizations have made inventions, but in this modern western civilization we have not only discovered but we have discovered how to make discoveries. It was first the scientist who developed this attitude. We call it sometimes the scientific method, but it is a method adapted to the discovery of truth in any field.

Used in Business, Too.

"The business man is using that method in his increasing reliance on research and in development of modern systems of accounting and statistical treatment that give him the facts about his business. Fact finding commissions and surveys in government and in social affairs are using this method more and more.

"Education is coming increasingly to rely on the facts that it discovers about its processes, its methods and its materials."

City Asks Radio Listeners to Reduce Noise at Night

Radio broadcasting stations will be asked to notify their listeners that courtesy demands that their loud speakers be toned down after 11 p. m. in deference to those who wish to sleep. This was decided by Deputy Health Commissioner Gottfried Koehler yesterday after he listened to complaints. If this request is not heeded, other means of enforcing quiet will be adopted, Mr. Koehler said.

"Come Back to the Station!"

You may be driving with your family some Sunday when suddenly a motorcycle policeman appears and orders you over to the side. "Turn around and come back to the station with me," is the command. "What in the world have I been doing now?" you wonder. He tells you quickly enough and you realize you have been guilty of a traffic violation.

At the station a fifty dollar cash bail is demanded. You are able to produce only twenty-five. After much frantic telephoning to friends and relatives, a friend finally is found at home.

One hundred thousand motorists travel in the sixty-two counties of Illinois and northern Indiana, comprising the territory of the Chicago Motor Club, free from the worry of not being able to supply bail in cases of alleged traffic violation. Their membership card is a bail bond.

Present your membership card to any officer in this territory, and if the bail demanded is not in excess of $100, it may be used to secure your release.

In addition to bail bond service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute service on road conditions.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss, pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,894,706.04.

CHICAGO FLYER GOES INTO LEAD IN PLANE DERBY

Gains by Long Nonstop Flight.

Cincinnati, O., July 22.—(AP)—Herman Hamer, Chicago, late today went into the lead in elapsed time in the $36,500 all-American derby, displacing Lee Gehlbach, Little Rock, Ark., by winning the Roosevelt Field-Lunken airport leg of the flight around the United States in 5 hours 1 minute 46 seconds.

Hamer, trailing Gehlbach by 23 minutes, when the planes took off from New York this morning, piloted his E. M. Laird plane to a non-stop flight here, while his Little Rock rival was forced to stop for gasoline at Uniontown, Pa. As a result Hamer now has an advantage of 13 minutes and 49 seconds in elapsed time over Gehlbach. The pilots all reported flying through strong west winds and rain storms.

Detroit was the derby starting point. The planes flew to New York via Buffalo. The route will take them from here to Little Rock, Houston, San Angelo, Tex.; Douglas, Ariz.; Ogden, Utah; Lincoln, Neb.; Chicago, and back to Detroit.

Hamer's total elapsed flying time since leaving Detroit was eight hours 13 minutes 9 seconds; Gehlbach, 8:25:58; S. T. Stanton, Wichita, 9:13:50; L. R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., 9:17:28.

Other finished here, as follows: Robert T. Quinby, Moline, Ill.; J. R. Wedel, New Orleans; Charles W. Meyers, Cleveland; William A. Cahill, Cleveland.

LAW TO RING CURFEW AT 11 ON LONG ISLAND TO END NIGHT FLYING

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Nassau county, Long Island, today established a curfew law for night airplane flights.

Residents of that county whose sleep long has been outraged by the booming, spitting, cracking thunder of airplanes hurtling through the dark have had their revenge on nocturnal birdmen.

District Attorney Alvin N. Edwards announced that henceforth until Sept. 1 night flying will be limited to 11 o'clock and after that date only until 10 o'clock. Mr. Edwards' decision followed a flood of complaints from residents of Nassau county that their slumbers were so affected by the noise of the airplanes that they were incompetent for business the next day.

Most of the disturbance, Mr. Edwards said, centered about Mineola, Long Island, the location of Mitchel field and Roosevelt field, and at the Curtiss-Wright airport at Valley Stream.

Inform Owners to Stop Radio.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—(AP)—A scheme whereby radios will inform their owners it is time to turn them off is being prepared in the form of an ordinance by the county board of supervisors.

The ordinance will contain a clause closing the courses at midnight.

Test Dog Catchers Today; Women to Sit with Board

Maj. Carlos Ames, president of the civil service commission, yesterday invited officers of the Chicago Humane Education society to sit today with the commission when it examines applicants for jobs as dog catchers. Among those expected to take advantage of the offer are Mrs. Charlotte L. Hunt, president of the society; Mrs. Julian Baldwin, vice president, and Miss Flora Ehlman, secretary.

OFFICIALS ADMIT SOVIET CONTROLS AMERICAN FIRM

But Declare Corporation Free of Red Politics.

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—In an atmosphere of skillful parrying and many conflicting hostilities, with bomb squad detectives half filling the small, stifling room, and opposing interpreters glaring at each other, the house of representatives committee investigating communism spent the whole day grilling two officers of the Amtorg Trading corporation, soviet commercial agency.

A threat of contempt proceedings against Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of Amtorg, unless he talked more freely, brought out the following facts:

That the Amtorg, a million dollar concern incorporated in this state, is owned by the soviet bank of foreign trade, which in turn is controlled by the soviet government.

Ruled by Soviet Government.

High communist officials have been sent here to head it, and only two naturalized Russians are among its directors. Amtorg has been extended credit of $80,000,000 by banks in this country.

The Amtorg officials are here despite a section of the immigration law providing that aliens are not entitled to enter the United States for purposes of trade unless there is a commercial treaty existing between this country and their own. There is none such with Russia because the United States does not recognize the soviet government.

Profits Go to Russia.

That not only does the concern make profits, most of which go to the soviet government in one form or another or back to increased capitalization, but that it has various little unexplained funds—a tax of 1½ per cent of employés' salaries for "insurance," profits of $50,000 from a catalog here and $100,000 from a magazine there—about which its officers know little.

Both Bogdanov and his interpreter, John G. Ohsol, vice president of Amtorg and the most important witness of the day, denied that they were promoting communist propaganda here; that they know or had anything to do with the Ogpu or soviet political police; that they were even members of the communist party. They denied having "relationships" with communists who came from Russia other than their own employés.

THE SENATE RATIFIES THE NAVAL TREATY.

The senate has voted to ratify the London naval treaty. The Washington conference fixed a ratio as to capital ships and produced a treaty limiting fortifications for the reassurance and protection of Japan. The London treaty deals with all classes of warships. It restricts the freedom which the United States hitherto had to build such cruisers as its naval judgment required, but the London conference did not give forth a compensating treaty removing foreign naval bases in American waters.

The treaty provides for a navy composed in keeping with British naval policy derived from the experience and needs of British trade and empire. It does not provide for a navy having the ships required by American experience, trade conditions and territorial composition. It is a treaty for the British map and not for the American. Desirable increases, out of ratio, were given to Japan to satisfy its demands. The American government wanted a treaty. The British government needed a treaty but wanted a navy of its own type. Mr. MacDonald has won on both counts and American supporters of the agreement must admit that, whatever else they say about it, this is the fact.

Before the conference was opened the United States wanted a satisfactory disposition made of the British bases on this side. It wanted an equalization in capital ship strength and it wanted a recognition of its peculiar need for the larger cruisers with 8 inch guns. These were the principal points in the American program. The treaty contains none of them. They were traded off, but in such odd bargaining that nothing was gained in exchange. It is a new masterpiece in diplomacy in which a nation which had the least to gain from an agreement gave up the most to get it.

President Hoover and Secretary Stimson could not be persuaded to furnish the senate with the correspondence between governments. It was said that it contained nothing which could materially affect a judgment, but was spotted with free and easy comments on personages here and abroad and that publicity would set the official world on its head. That will be something interesting for the research historian later and it leaves the purposes of the American government largely unexplained and to be arrived at by speculation. In THE TRIBUNE'S opinion the administration has been guided by a conviction that the British empire should be put so far as possible in the clear to dispose of its problems and its numerous troubles. That could be a conviction of statesmanship. An uncertain world might arise out of the fragmentation of the empire. Half the globe now is turbulent, with the three most populous countries, Russia, China, and India, in disorder.

The United States voluntarily has put Great Britain in a position to go ahead with less worry, less expense and fewer enemies. It has relieved the British budget and reduced British embarrassments. It has made it possible for the British government to pare down its naval costs without loss of sea power. In the name of a fictitious equality it has conceded first naval place to the island. It has asked nothing in return for this and the general purpose may indicate statesmanship, but in the opinion of THE TRIBUNE the country could have made greater point of its own self-interest without diminishing at all the effect of a sympathetic understanding of British problems.

There is also to be considered the eye which an American administration will keep upon political opinion at home. The treaty should be a silencer for the American internationalists and pacifists for the time being. It is the concession to them, and the government, having made it, has a definite responsibility to the rest of the country. It is mandatory upon the administration and congress to give the navy everything permitted in the treaty. The provisions do not set a maximum from which the government may recede but a minimum which must be used to the full. That is the act of good faith which is required of the government.

TRICKING THE VOTER.

The very cheap trick perpetrated by some individuals who are opposed to Senator George W. Norris in the Nebraska primary will of course act as a boomerang, with a net profit to him, now that the other George W. Norris has been excluded from the ballot. But this device for confusing the voter has been used before and elsewhere and legislators who have regard for responsible election machinery should amend the laws to make the trick impossible or at least much more difficult than it now is.

This should be attainable without breach of constitutional right. A real aspirant to office should not be deprived of his right to offer himself to the voters because he has the same name and initials as a more prominent candidate. But his name should be put on the ballot with some conspicuous addition which would enable all voters to distinguish him from any one else of the same name. If they are not from the same place, a designation by residence might be added, as George W. Norris of Broken Bow. If one contestant is incumbent of the office to be filled that fact might be indicated, as Senator George W. Norris or Justice John Doe. An election board or official like our county judge might be vested with the authority to make such distinctions for use on the ballot sheet.

There is too much to make voting difficult and confusing for the conscientious voter, especially on our blanket ballots. Tricks like that against Senator Norris are an insult to voters and should not be dismissed as a mere political joke.

THE PROBLEM OF WHEAT.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, has let it be known that the board does not intend to increase materially its present holding of wheat. In taking that position he has, as was to be expected, encountered the opposition of the politicians of the wheat belt, and notably of Senator Capper of Kansas, who demands that the government step in at once and buy 100,000,000 bushels.

Mr. Legge's position is a difficult and, indeed, an impossible one in the sense that he cannot conduct his office in a manner which will avoid violent criticism. When the farm board was buying wheat Mr. Legge was attacked by chambers of commerce and the wheat trade for involving the government in a vain effort to fix an arbitrary price on a commodity. Now that the government is no longer increasing its holdings the political friends of the farmer are blaming Mr. Legge and his associates for the prevailing low price of wheat. The farm board, they say, should be buying wheat to force the price upward.

It is apparent that nothing which Mr. Legge does will satisfy both these interests. So far as the board is concerned, the situation can be saved, it seems, only by a sudden increase in demand, such as a war might create, or by an unexpected failure in the crop resulting from unfavorable weather or a devastating blight. The probabilities in either direction are not great.

The experience which the board has had of a violent break in wheat prices since it embarked on a policy of wheat purchases has been thoroughly learned. The board under its present management, at least, is not inclined to repeat that experience. The loss has been heavy and the money sunk in the wheat market served only to bolster prices for the moment. Until the government burns the wheat it holds or dumps it in the ocean, that wheat will be reckoned as part of the available supply and as such will affect the current price as certainly as if it were in the hands of private traders.

The obvious solution of the problem is a reduction of acreage, but though it is obvious it is not easily attained. If acreage is to be reduced, the idea must be sold to hundreds of thousands of individual farmers of varying degrees of intelligence and varying aptitude for sharp dealing, working land of varying fertility. The certainty that crop reduction will make for higher prices will actually serve as an incentive to some farmers and perhaps to many of them to increase their acreage. All this was known to Mr. Legge and his associates before they embarked upon their policy of loans and outright purchases. The policy could have been justified only as an inducement to bring farmers into associations which, in turn, would see to it that acreage was reduced.

It is, perhaps, too early to say that the money spent in this way was wholly wasted, but certainly the results have been far from encouraging. Presumably the decision of the board to make no more advances for the present is to be interpreted as an admission that the policy of offering premiums to join coöperatives was a failure. It was too costly and too risky. Mr. Legge is now seeking to achieve the same result of reduced output through direct appeal to the grain growers. He says he is convinced that the campaign he has been conducting through the wheat belts has been successful and will be reflected in reduced acreages next year. We hope his estimate is correct.

ZARO ACHA, WHAT A MAN.

Zaro Acha, the greatest of all endurance champions, has arrived in America to prove that he is not a myth and to pick up a little change against his old age. His passport accepts 1774 as the year of his birth, a year before the embattled farmers took a shot at the redcoats. He is two years older than the American republic, and if he had been born here probably would have been a drummer boy at Yorktown and one of the more elderly brigadier generals with the A. E. F. in France.

Zaro thinks he can remember when he fought at the siege of Acre against Napoleon, but a number of domestic details, including names in his matrimonial succession, have escaped him, but then Brigham Young confessed the same fault of memory. It also was the case of the king of Yvetot. When it was first proposed that the sprightly ancient should visit these shores and see this other great dry country it was understood that he would come as a prohibition exhibit of what all good Americans would become if they truly obeyed Volstead. Thus he was to have represented a national ambition, a symbol of the good life, but it is now said that he will not tour under these high auspices. Possibly this is because he exclaimed "Yi-yi" too much when in the brighter parts of Paris. Nevertheless, Zaro will make a great hit in Kansas if he gets out to the vilayets. What a man for Kansas!

He may wear Father Time out yet. In the early afternoon of his days he is thoughtful of the future and will pick up such funds as he may here as a provision against advancing years. In the course of this money making he probably will be matched against Primo Carnera for the heavyweight championship in one of the New York Garden enterprises. And win on a foul!

FORESTS FOR IOWA.

[Des Moines Register.]

The town forest idea is a good one and it is possible and feasible to establish town forests in any state in the Union. The first problem is to get the land. This can either be land which the town now owns, or it can be acquired by gift or purchase. In case of purchase it should be kept in mind that land to be acquired should be unsuitable for farming. This land will grow timber at a profit, but is valueless for any other purpose and should not cost over five dollars per acre.

Iowa has close to three million acres which is either in timber or is indicated as waste area. The economic loss to the state in not utilizing these land efficiently for the production of valuable forest crops amounts to a large sum. Within the boundaries of Iowa there are probably from a million to a million and a half acres of waste area which should be utilized for timber purposes.

MEDICINE FOR WORMS.

WHAT is the best worm medicine? That depends on the kind of worm you have in mind. The medicine that is best for one kind may not be even moderately effective against another. Again, even with the same species of worm, a medicine that is most effective against females is not so against males. Other factors may enter. Therefore, the answer to the question with which we started must be something of a compromise.

In his very comprehensive book entitled "Hookworm Disease," Dr. Asa G. Chandler gives his answer to the question as it relates to hookworm. It is a mixture of 4 parts carbon tetrachloride and 1 part ascaridal. Ascaridal is an extract of chenopodium. Chenopodium, known as wormseed, grows abundantly in many parts of America. It has long enjoyed a reputation as a remedy for round worms. If ascaridal is not available, Dr. Chandler advises 4 parts carbon tetrachloride and 2 parts oil of chenopodium. Of this he advises 30 minims, or 2 c. c. He gives either the two medicines together or else he gives the carbon tetrachloride dissolved in a solution of water containing an ordinary dose of ordinary salts, and fifteen minutes later the oil of chenopodium is given in capsules. This figures out, say, 20 grains or minims of carbon tetrachloride and 10 minims of oil of chenopodium.

Both carbon tetrachloride and chenopodium are good medicines for hookworm. But by combining them we get a safe mixture that is more efficient than is either of the ingredients taken alone, and the doses are smaller than they would otherwise need be. It is advisable to repeat this dose in about ten days. A third dose is sometimes advised.

The cautious are against giving castor oil or any other oil or alcohol within twelve to twenty-four hours after taking carbon tetrachloride.

Pregnant women, invalids, and children tolerate this mixture well. Since a dose of salts is given with the worm medicine, it is not necessary to follow up this treatment with any additional purgation.

BABY AND ITS MILK.

Mrs. W. H. writes: I have a baby four months old who doesn't seem to get enough milk. After nursing, he will take one or two, and sometimes three six ounce bottles of water. It seems strange that he should drink so much after a feeding. I read where 2 ounces milk, 1 ounce water, and ½ teaspoonful of sugar should be given after the breast. I tried this with one ounce of milk, 1 ounce water, and ½ teaspoonful sugar, but this caused a yellowish-white curdly stool, and so I discontinued it. I need something to make more milk, it seems, as I never have any to run out, and my food seems to be turning to fat, as I am overweight. Is one grain thyroid extract taken for this harmful? Would you recommend this? What should a 7½ pound baby weigh at 4 months, when it didn't gain at all the first month?

REPLY.

In all probability you are eating enough and possibly too much. That's the tendency when a nursing mother notes that her milk supply is not ample. Eat rather less than you are now doing, but add a little milk, yeast, and wheat germ to your diet.

Depend on longer rest periods, greater regularity of life, especially of sleeping and nursing and peace of mind, to increase your milk. Do not take thyroid.

Plainly, your baby is not getting enough food. Supplement the breast feeding with more cow's milk and more sugar or cereal. Your reason for weakening the milk formula was not sufficient. Give him enough to supply him with food and water. He also needs a little orange juice. He should weigh about eleven and a half pounds now.

FOOLISH TO WORRY.

L. B. writes:

1. Is having a permanent wave injurious to one with a leaky heart?

2. I have had four permanents, but it is always a worry to me.

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Drop either the worry or the wave, but not because of your heart.

PRIORITY RIGHTS.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What procedure is necessary to establish priority of an invention or idea so that the United States patent office will grant a patent at a later date on the evidence?

Must the description and plans be made up in detail at the time, and be witnessed?

Witnessed by whom and how many?

L. E. N.

There is no definite rule. The necessity for proof depends largely upon what sort of case it will have to meet.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MUST DISCONTINUE BUSINESS.

Chicago, July 19.—[Friend of the People.]—I want to call your attention to a terrible condition in our neighborhood. A firm has moved in and their business seems to be that of curing horses' hides. They have an open platform on which they lay the horses' tails in raw and bleeding state, which alone is disgusting at any time, but during the summer months it is simply awful. Besides the sight, and flies, the odor is nauseating. At times we cannot eat a meal because of the stench. I wish you would help to eliminate this nuisance. MRS. B. M.

This department has notified the owner to discontinue the use of said premises for such purposes, as the business described is in violation of the zoning ordinance in that location. CHRISTIAN PASCHEN,
Commissioner of Buildings.

TRESPASSING.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—For the last two years there has been a certain man going through my yard (passage way). He apparently uses this means as a short cut to his store. Several times things have disappeared from the yard. I finally put up a "No Trespassing" sign to stop the thefts. This man, however, persists in coming through my yard and claims that legally he has a right to use my passageway. Is his claim right? C. B.

No. Notify him that if he persists you will have the police take action.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES.

The senators passed the London peace pact;
They say a new era commences;
Which is the baloney; they want to get home
And fix up their political fences.

The tree climbing boys are a problem, no doubt,
Which the reformers could settle with ease;
And do it quite simply, if they had their way—
Pass a law to cut down all the trees.

Mr. Legge says with pride he has everything fixed
And next harvest we'll have much less grain;
We wonder if that is the reason, or if—
It's because we don't get any rain.

Al Smith's great skyscraper going up in New York
Will be just one hundred and two stories tall;
And the Democrats there sort of wonder if Al
Will look down on Tammany Hall.

THE MEANEST MAN has been discovered. And there's fourteen of him, too. What they did was to steal forty barrels of mincemeat rum from the mincemeat makers right here in Chicago. It's little enough kick we get from a slab of mince pie, but it's something, and the robbers who would take away even that small bit of happiness from us are naught but hideous monsters in human form. And then some.

A CASUAL TRIP around Cook county reveals that humanity is rapidly dividing into two classes: tree sitters and miniature golf players. The tree sitters seem to be the happiest.

RELUCTANT CLAUDIUS AND THE EAGER G. O. P.

The G. O. P. newspapers are very, very softly calling the attention of the Hon. Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee to the fact that he said he would do something about resigning the chairmanship of the Republican national committee when the senate adjourned. The senate has adjourned, but Claudius has not (at least he had not up to the hour of going to press) made any sort of a noise that bears the remotest resemblance to the sound made by a man saying "I resign." Of course, Claudius could be fired, but Claudius says that if there is any rough stuff used he will be reluctantly compelled to tell things of a most embarrassing nature to the G. O. P. right out loud. It seems that while Claudius is unable to speak above a whisper when it comes to resigning, he believes that he can talk in a voice that will be heard to hellengone when it comes to telling things. Anyhow, with an election coming next fall, the situation, so far as the Republican party is concerned, is really most annoying.

PRETENSE.

For some day you will come again,
With flowers in your hand,
Violets or roses
From the corner blossom stand.

And smile across the teacups,
And tell me of your day,
While I shall sit forgetting
You have ever been away.

Perhaps you'll have a pocket
With a hole that I should mend. . . .
Twilights are less lonely,
Dear God, when I pretend!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

EVERYBODY IS TELLING US now that we've got to get over our sales resistance complex before prosperity can come back. It seems that we've all got a sort of shell shock over the stock market crashes, and that now if we get a dollar we squeeze it so hard it has to go back to the mint to get straightened out before it can go back into circulation. About the only thing to do is for everybody to take a little money from the pocket and practice dropping it on the table. After awhile almost anybody can go into a grocery store and buy a dozen eggs and a loaf of bread without very much of a struggle.

OR MAYBE you can overcome sales resistance by slow degrees. Try to work yourself up first to buy a penny's worth of peanuts or a single stick of chewing gum. Do this several times. Then let go a nickel for a glass of sarsaparilla. Or buy a banana. When you can do that easily jar loose a whole dime for something or other. Do this several times, and finally you can work up to the point where you can buy a shirt. Then you're cured, and gosh! First thing you know you'll buy two shirts. Then prosperity will come dashing around the corner, sit right down and stay. Hip, hip, hooroo!

QUERY.

What will you do in time, oh gay pretender,
When Youth is over . . . over . . . and the last
Bright thread of Youth's significance is past
And songs are ended and slow words and tender?
Will you go on weaving gray on gray
Making a pattern pastel then and old
Content with reminiscence . . . stories told
Out of the glamour of another day?
Or in that moment tear the threads apart
And batter down the door of the little room
Leaving a tangled skein on a broken loom
And all that held the best of you? Oh, heart,
What will you do when you grow weary of Life and the sudden emptiness of Love?

MARILYN.

LAGNIAPPE.

WE WANTED an eight inch gun for the navy; a nice, long, fat eight inch gun. But the treaty the senate has just signed gives us a little six inch gun instead; just a sort of a son of a gun.

RIOTERS IN Mayence, Germany, used the beer mugs from which they were drinking as weapons. Seventy beer mugs were broken, and all probably full of beer at the time. This may not seem a calamity in Germany, but from over here it is regarded as a horrible catastrophe. It all depends on where you sit.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1865.

ST. LOUIS. — Gen. Pleasanton is about to move his headquarters from this city to Milwaukee, and Gen. Dodge will go to Leavenworth, which he will make his headquarters as commander of all the armies in the field operating against hostile Indians.

NASHVILLE.—A writ of habeas corpus was sued out directing Col. De Bussey at Columbus, Ky., to produce Emerson Etheridge in court and De Bussey asked Maj. Gen. Thomas for instructions. Gen. Thomas directed him to make a return to the writ calling attention to the order of President Lincoln suspending the writ of habeas corpus in Kentucky and continuing: "Said Emerson Etheridge having aided and abetted the enemy and disturbed the public peace by seditious and inflammatory speeches is clearly included in the class named in President Lincoln's order and I do not produce him by reason of said order."

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Howard issued an order that if the planters in lower Maryland do not cease turning off their old slaves to starve or neglect to employ them the government will take possession of their farms and put the freed men to work on their lands.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Grant is said to have stated in a conversation with the Mexican minister a few days ago that the French will have to leave Mexico. There is reason to believe the government will soon announce its policy in regard to the Monroe Doctrine and the French occupation in Mexico.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1900.

WASHINGTON. — China has appealed to the United States government to save her from herself and her enemies, and each day makes more probable the rescue of Minister Conger and other foreign ministers in Peking. Imperial edicts and appeals have been coming thick and fast. An edict of July 17 gives a last denial to reports that the ministers have been massacred and demands that the foreigners be protected. Minister Wu has offered to the state department to deliver Minister Conger to Rear Admiral Remy at Taku, that he may in person speak for the integrity of the imperial government. It is the intention to withdraw the American forces from China as soon as the ministers have been rescued.

LONDON.—It is generally admitted in official circles that direct communication to Peking is now possible, and that the Chinese government is in a position to forward messages if it feels so disposed. Added to advices that Tientsin is now cleared of Boxers and Chinese troops comes the satisfactory news that the Russians have routed the Chinese effectively along the Amur. It is reported that the emperor of China has apologized to the kaiser and promised punishment for Baron von Ketteler's murderers.

CHICAGO.—Four former officers of Illinois council 420, Knights and Ladies of Security, will go on trial today in Judge Brentano's court on charges of swindling the organization out of $6,650 insurance money by substituting bodies of dead persons for risks who were still alive. They are Miss Margaret Sheean, former financial secretary; Mrs. Della A. Mahoney, former deputy; Mrs. Nora O'Brien and Dr. M. N. Regent.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1920.

PARIS.—Special trains are rushing across France and Germany for Warsaw carrying a mixed French and British commission to try to arrange an armistice between the Poles and the bolsheviki before Warsaw falls under the Russian advance. Meanwhile the bolsheviki are near the German border. If the retreat of the Poles continues they will reach East Prussia probably tomorrow. However, it is generally believed the Russians will observe Germany's neutrality.

ST. JOHNS, N. F.—Experts from the Marconi Wireless company who are here conducting experiments in long distance wireless telephonic communication announced that they heard messages from the Chelmsford station, near London, more than 2,000 miles distant.

THE LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION.

Waukegan, Ill., July 18.—Mr. Westbrook Pegler has just about ruined the career of Singer at its very beginning by making the new champion seem savage and almost barbaric and uncivilized in his treatment of Mandell.

Throughout the whole story Mr. Pegler constantly makes the inference that Singer could have been just a bit more humane in his fighting; a bit more genteel in knocking out the backsliding Mandell; a bit more courteous to the fallen pugilist. Consider then, the position of Singer. Comparatively unknown, the boy has his great chance. He goes in there with the idea that his only chance to get Mandell is to get him early and to force the fighting all the way. Does a man under these circumstances, seeing the champion falling away and the championship coming up, does a man then think of the look on his opponent's face or of the closed eye of the champion? And when that "ten and out" was counted Singer, no doubt, went crazy with joy and bounced all over the ring. And why shouldn't he? Here he had in his very hands something that every pug fights his life away for and ninety-nine times out of a hundred never gets.

Tilden or Cochet would certainly not prolong a match in order to be "humane" when they know that by constantly forcing their opponent's backhand they can run out in three love sets. Why, then, expect a fighter to be "humane" when he knows that by throwing everything he has at an opponent already half way out he will win the fight and the championship?

HARRY ZINDER.

CLEANING LOOP STREETS.

Chicago, July 8.—Why can't Chicago enjoy a modern method of cleaning the streets throughout the loop district, instead of continuing to leave them reeking with filth?

Advanced European cities are developing large automobile vacuum cleaners for use in their central business districts. One of our southern cities wields the old fashioned but thorough scrub brush, and every morning sees its streets almost spotlessly clean.

At 1 a. m. every night several crews of men with hose and regular street cleaning brushes would invade the loop. Each crew would consist of six men—two with a hose apiece and four with brushes. The hose would be attached to fire plugs and the streets scrubbed thoroughly as those playing the water advanced through the streets.

This would not be expensive or impossible. There are only 126 blocks in the Wacker drive, Michigan boulevard, loop district. Judging from the efforts of the southern city referred to, approximately seven or eight crews could do the work in a few hours. Each crew would progress down a street, the hose being moved up from hydrant to hydrant, and the sidewalks as well as the streets and gutters being scrubbed.

RICHARD E. SLATTER.

NO. 3 CARS.

Chicago, July 19.—While waiting on State street during the day for a No. 3 Lincoln-Berwyn street car going north I find that from four to six Broadway cars pass before a No. 3 comes along. The Broadway cars are practically empty, while it is almost impossible to board the No. 3, much less get a seat. I wonder if this condition will be improved when the consolidation goes into effect?

E. W. BRAND.

HOW CHICAGO GOT AN AQUARIUM.

Attica, Ind., July 8.—The photographic reproductions of the Shedd aquarium that appeared in your last Sunday's rotogravure section were bewilderingly beautiful and impressive. I wondered how many of the millions of people who will enjoy and profit by the beneficence of the founder of that glorified addition to the cultural life of Chicago would ever learn of the circumstances leading up to and really responsible for its existence.

I happen to know from whom the suggestion came to erect this magnificent monument. Mr. E. A. Shedd, one of the money kings of Chicago, but not related to the man who built the aquarium, first suggested the idea to Mr. Shedd, the founder. Mr. E. A. Shedd is an ardent nature lover and one of the best posted amateur ornithologists I ever knew. We met frequently in his office to discuss bird life, both of us being bird fans. One day he told me the inside facts regarding the origin of the idea that resulted in making this structure possible. He said he suggested it to Mr. Shedd, that Mr. Shedd liked the idea, but in his busy life he was unable to give it the attention necessary to consummate his plans.

It looked for a time as if it might be forgotten in the multiplicity of Mr. Shedd's duties. Then E. A. Shedd thought of enlisting the coöperation of Mr. B. F. Sunny of the telephone company. He suggested that Mr. Sunny see Mr. Shedd and get him to "sign on the dotted line." Mr. Sunny did so and his visit resulted in starting the machinery necessary to organize the plans which resulted in this transcendent achievement.

Mr. E. A. Shedd did not swear me to secrecy and I feel that the innate modesty of these two well known money kings has prevented the story from ever getting out even among their intimate friends.

E. H. CARQUEVILLE.

BLOCKED BY TRAINS.

Chicago, July 10.—I wonder if a public nuisance such as I am about to mention cannot be adjusted somehow. I refer to the trains crossing at the Chicago avenue intersection near Montgomery Ward & Co. We Chicago avenue car riders are held up at least three mornings per week, causing us to be late at our places of business.

It would seem that the 9 a. m. law that holds for opening bridges should also apply to trains.

HARRIET R. GOLDSMA.

MILK WAGONS.

Chicago, July 11.—I wonder if your paper, through your vast influence for good in this community, could not lend your efforts to eliminate the nuisance of noisy, rattling, clattering milkmen and milk wagons in the early morning hours during the summer. We have had our sleep disturbed at five o'clock every morning by this pest for several weeks and the situation is getting desperate.

HERMAN R. GOSS.

RELIEF FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Chicago, July, 17.—It's delightful to read how soon the subway construction started relief of unemployment, especially for the consulting engineer at $2,500 a month, the chief engineer at $100 a day, three other engineers at $1,500 a month, and a chief counsel at $5,000 a month.

DENY GOAT GLAND OPERATION GIVES PATIENT A KICK

Surgeons Testify It's an Impossibility.

Topeka, Kas., July 22.—[Special.]—More expert testimony was offered today in the trial of Dr. John R. Brinkley of Milford, the "goat gland expert," who uses the radio to gain patients for his sex rejuvenation operations.

Brinkley is being tried before the state medical board on charges brought by the state medical association.

That Compound Operation.

Dr. Nels F. Ockerblad, for the last ten years professor of urology in the University of Kansas, first qualified as an expert by stating he is a member of his county and state medical associations, the American Medical association, the American College of Surgeons, the American Urological association, and the Kansas City clinic.

"Are you familiar with Brinkley's so-called compound operation, familiarly known as his goat gland operation, and, if so, what is your opinion of it?" he was asked.

"I am familiar with it. That operation cannot be performed as described by Brinkley in the literature he sends out," he replaid.

"Why can it not be performed?" he was asked.

Calls Description Ridiculous.

"Brinkley's description of how he performs that operation shows gross ignorance of the anatomy of the parts described," he said. "His description of how he joins two arteries together to give an added blood supply to the sex gland and to reduce the blood supply to other glands is so silly it is ridiculous. His description of how he borrows a nerve to give the sex glands a 'kick' is equally ridiculous."

"Would that operation have any effect one way or another upon the prostate gland?"

"Absolutely no effect whatever."

IMPOSSIBLE TO PERFORM.

Dr. T. G. Orr, professor of surgery in the medical school of Kansas university, testified that the so-called goat gland operation is impossible. He said even if it were possible, if the sex glands of a goat could be put into the human body, it would have no value whatever."

Dr. W. H. Mills, surgeon in Stormont hospital and in St. Francis hospital and in Christ hospital in Topeka, was another witness. He declared that Brinkley's so-called compound operation could not be performed. He said it was impossible to unite the blood vessels and nerves as Brinkley says he does.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS ARKANSAN.

Rogers, Ark., July 22.—[Special.]—Dave Foore, 30, of Pea Ridge, was found dead in a vacant house. He was a victim, Coroner B. Callison decided, of poisoned whisky.

British Diplomat's Daughter Elopes with Red Terrorist

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 22.—The forbidden love affair between Aga Bek, Persian chief of the communist Cheka, and the daughter of a British diplomat, has ended sensationally, it was learned today, with both fleeing parental and soviet vengeance to a hiding place where he is preparing an exposé of Moscow plots while living in constant fear for his life.

Met in Persia.

The two met in Persia, where he posed as a prosperous merchant. Falling in love with the girl, he confessed that he was actually head of the Cheka-ists in the near east, directing a systematic theft of military and diplomatic documents and supervising attempts at wholesale bribery of foreign offices and legations, and dealing out life and death among the secret workers of the organization.

He offered to give up his life for the girl when the family learned of the attachment. She was given a choice of giving up the spy or disgrace. As a result, Aga Bek, who is one of the select 15 directing the Cheka throughout the world, fled to Paris with his love the following day.

Offers to Give Up.

He offered to give himself up to the police there, but was not wanted then, so both speedily disappeared.

It is understood that he is working hard to complete his exposure and indictment of communist plots before his death, which he fears hourly will overtake him.

The girl has been cut off by her family, and is helpless but for the marked man for whom she gave up high social position in England. Moscow is said to be making every effort to discover the pair.

2 Canadian Rail Systems Link Up with Air Lines

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 22.—Whether the Vatican authorities can take juridical action outside the limits of Vatican City will be the question considered by a civil tribunal at Rome through an injunction suit filed today concerning private papers and the estate of the late Vincenzo Cardinal Vannutelli, who died July 9 at the age of 93.

This test case involves interpretation of clauses in the Lateran conciliation pact made last year. The tribunal's decision is awaited with much interest, as it will determine whether the Vatican can extend its authority to Rome.

Trunk Sent to Rome.

The case hinges around a big trunk. After Cardinal Vannutelli's death his heirs collected his personal papers, private documents and letters and enclosed them in a trunk, which they turned over to a man employed by the Vatican but who lives in Rome, outside of the Vatican City limits.

When Vatican authorities learned this they sent Msgr. Angelini, judge of the sacred rota, outside of Vatican City, to Rome with orders to seal the trunk and instruct its holder not to give the trunk to any one without the Vatican's consent.

When the dead cardinal's heirs learned this they demanded restitution of the trunk, which was refused them by the holder, who feared that if he did turn it over he would lose his job with the Vatican City authorities. On being denied the trunk the heirs filed an injunction for its return.

Four Points Involved.

The Roman tribunal must decide first: Is a Vatican City judge entitled to go outside of the Vatican City and act in the house of an Italian citizen? Second: Can that Italian citizen execute a Vatican City judge's order legally? Third: Can an Italian court order restitution of an object despite the veto of the Vatican? Fourth: If the Roman court orders restitution, what can the Vatican City court do against the ruling?

Court Finds 200 Pound Python Really Did Escape

Rochester, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—The disappearance of the 20 foot, 300 pound python from a cage at Sea Breeze park last Thursday today was under investigation by city and county authorities. Widespread terror among cottagers and visitors to the Lake Ontario resort has prevailed since rumors that the reptile had been seen in outlying parks and suburbs. Court action to determine whether the python actually escaped, was stolen or hidden with a view toward publicity so far has failed to reveal anything except that the snake was gone.

Dinosaur 75 Ft. Long and 20 Ft. Tall Found in Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 22.—A dinosaur recently unearthed in the Tanganyika district is described by Frederick W. H. Migeod, leader of a museum expedition, as a monster 75 feet from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail, with a giraffe-like appearance. The front shoulders, he said, are 20 feet from the ground and the hind quarters 12 feet from the ground. The neck is 25 feet long.

At these phenomenal new low prices, made possible by the enthusiastic reception extended to the new Chrysler Straight Eights, the Chrysler "70" now fittingly leads Chrysler's line of three magnificent sixes—greatest values in the six-cylinder field.

For the Chrysler "70" has the great 93-horsepower engine of the "77", giving it speed, smoothness and flexibility never before known in any other six. It has the famous Chrysler 4-speed transmission and Multi-Range gear shift which give it, in effect, two high speeds. No other six approximates its alertness in traffic or its ability to climb hills.

It is also equipped with Chrysler weatherproof internal hydraulic brakes, the quickest and safest ever designed, giving the driver complete mastery of this tremendously powerful and speedy car. Hydraulic shock absorbers and rubber shock insulators in place of metal shackles, contribute to riding ease and roadability unexcelled even in much heavier cars.

The new low prices of the Chrysler "70"—with "77" engine—make it today's outstanding buy among fine sixes. Your present car will be accepted in trade. Chrysler's liberal financing facilities are available.

JAMES EADS HOW, WEALTHY FRIEND OF HOBOES, DEAD

Lack of Nourishment Is Cause of Death.

Staunton, Va., July 22.—(AP)—James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," died in a local hospital this afternoon of pneumonia, "evidently superinduced by starvation," according to his local physician.

How arrived in Staunton last Friday, evidently in an enfeebled condition and registered at a hotel. For several days he appeared in the lobby and dining room a few times and according to hotel employés "did not eat enough to keep a bird alive." This was explained by How as due to the fact that he was a vegetarian, owing to stomach trouble.

Found Ill in Room.

When he did not leave his room Monday hotel employés investigated and found the man ill. He was moved to the hospital this morning.

How was 56 years old, a member of one of the wealthiest and most distinguished families of St. Louis, where he was born. His grandfather was the distinguished engineer, James Eads, who built the bridge bearing his name over the Mississippi river.

Born in society, How elected to spend most of his years in the companionship of hoboes. At nearly all hobo conventions it was How who filled the rôle of chairman.

The attending physician communicated with Jesse McDonald, St. Louis representative of the "millionaire hobo," who directed that the body be sent to Washington. There it will be met by a brother, Louis How. In accordance with How's wishes, it will be cremated.

Spent a Great Fortune.

St. Louis, Mo., July 22.—(AP)—Although the recipient of a bequest of approximately $500,000, James Eads How lived a life of self-sacrifice and denied himself even sufficient food and clothing and other necessities of life. How received one-half of his share of the estate outright and the other one-half was left in trust. It is understood here that he had spent virtually all of the outright bequest in his hobo activities, and had devoted most of the income from the portion left in trust to work of that nature. How was educated in Harvard university. Later he studied medicine and was a licensed physician.

Woman Leaps to Death from Sheridan Road Hotel

Mrs. Rose Goldberg, 60 years old, wife of Samuel Goldberg, a retired mortgage broker, leaped to her death last night from her bedroom window on the fifth floor of the Copeland hotel, 5009 Sheridan road. While her husband and three friends played cards in the living room, Mrs. Goldberg removed a screen from a bedroom window, clutched a pillow in her arms and jumped, according to Summerdale police. Goldberg said his wife had been ill.

Rep. Denison Loses Purse Containing $2,500 Diamond

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—Loss of a pocketbook containing a $2,500 diamond ring, two checks totaling $2,976 and $4 in cash has been reported to police by Representative Denison of Illinois. Denison said he believed the purse was stolen by a white man who jostled him in a cigar store yesterday.

"SMILER" IS DUE TO GO BACK HOME WITH GIRL MOTHER

For better or for worse, baby Lawrence Lopinot, better known to Chicagoans as "Smiler Jimmie Stevens," undoubtedly will be returned today to the home fate originally picked out for him. When Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast admitted last night that it is virtually impossible to prove that the baby is the same that was born in East St. Louis to 19 year old Edna Lopinot, the case against the unwed mother reached an impasse. Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court will rule today on the disposition of the charges of child abandonment placed against Miss Lopinot and her mother.

Meanwhile word arrived from East St. Louis that Leo Gleason, named by the baby's mother as the father of Lawrence, was being brought back to that place by his wife to die. For the last 15 months he has been bedridden, a victim of tuberculosis.

Emil Lopinot, father of Edna and grandfather of Lawrence, yesterday told interviewers in East St. Louis that he knew little about the case. His opposition to having the baby at his home was cited by his wife and daughter as their reason for bringing the baby to Chicago and deserting him in the Stevens hotel. Gleason met his daughter, Lopinot said, while inspecting one of the devices owned by his brother, Willie Gleason, a slot machine operator, which was installed in the soft drink parlor the Lopinots operated.

Lopinot, it developed, was at the time, serving a six months' term in the county jail at Paris, Ill., for bootlegging.

In court yesterday when Edna Lopinot and her mother were arraigned, their attorney, William McKinley, objected strenuously to all references to them as the "mother" and the "grandmother" of the baby, who as usual, smiled genially on all and sundry. Attorney McKinley asserted that the whole case was "much ado about nothing," since the girl wanted her baby back and is willing to care for him.

Funeral Tomorrow for Mrs. Frances De Rudder

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances De Rudder, 83 years old, 10101 South Wood street, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Bethany Union church at 103d and Wood streets, with burial at Mount Hope cemetery. She is survived by her husband, Peter J. De Rudder, with whom she celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary six years ago, and three children, Mrs. Anna Moeller and Louis A. and Peter De Rudder.

Retired Policeman Kills Himself with Revolver

William Wisner, 65 years old, a retired policeman of 18 North Lorel avenue, committed suicide by shooting himself in the temple last night in the rear of McMahon's undertaking rooms, 406 South Cicero avenue. In his pocket were two sealed letters, which were to be opened at the inquest today.

U. S. AND GERMAN MOVIE INTERESTS AGREE ON MERGER

Exchange Patents and World Rights.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 22.—A complete accord was reached and an agreement was signed today between German and American electrical and film interests for an exchange of patents and rights for talkies throughout the world.

The exchange of signatures followed months of negotiations under the chairmanship of Will Hays, American movie "czar," who is sailing for New York tomorrow on the Ile de France.

The globe has been split up into three spheres by the agreement—one where German made apparatus alone will be marketed; another where American machines solely will be utilized, and the third where both nations' products will be used interchangeably.

What Americans Obtained.

The American interests, besides obtaining rights in the United States and its possessions and members of the British empire, except England have also obtained hegemony over Russia. The allocation of the soviets to America has created considerable surprise, because of the close coöperation between Russian and German industry. This is explained by the fact that the German manufacturers cannot afford to finance the installation of talkie and movie machines throughout Russia with long time credit.

The Germans will obtain a private market in Austria, Hungary, Scandinavia, Switzerland, Holland, and the little entente countries, excepting Poland. The large European nations—England, France, Italy, Spain— and South America and Africa, will be divided between the two groups.

Will Build New Apparatus.

Besides the interchange of patents and rights, the agreement provides for the construction of new apparatus embodying the best features of both German and American machines, which will be available for installation in all countries. This will enable American talkies to utilize certain German ideas which have proven successful for sound pictures, and certain synchronizing improvements which the Berlin laboratories have worked out.

Briton Accuses U. S. Producers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 22.—That American film producers in England are deliberately making low grade films in order to stamp British films as "bad and wicked," was the allegation made in the house of commons today by Geoffrey Mander, Liberal. He asked leave to introduce a bill to amend the cinematograph films act of 1927.

HEATON OWSLEY DIES; LONG TIME RESIDENT HERE

Chicagoan Since Half Century Ago.

Heaton Owsley, 73 years old, pioneer bicycle manufacturer and member of a family long prominent in Chicago's business and social life, died yesterday at his home, 3150 Sheridan road. Funeral services will be private. Mr. Owsley is survived by his widow who is a daughter of the late Carter H. Harrison, five times mayor of Chicago, and whose son (her brother) served the same number of terms. Mr. and Mrs. Owsley were married in 1887. The children are, Mrs. Paul Bartlett of New York City, Mrs. Frederick W. Hill of Glencoe, Mrs. Sterling Morton of Chicago, and John E. Owsley of Seattle.

Born in Springfield, Ill., on Nov. 15, 1856, Mr. Owsley attended Centre college in Danville, Ky., from which he was graduated in 1877. He then came to Chicago and bought a half interest in the St. Nicholas Manufacturing company, making bicycles. He retired in 1900 to devote his time to real estate investments. In this he was associated with his brother, George K. Owsley of Winnetka who died in 1924.

The home at 3150 Sheridan road, a three story apartment building, was built by Mrs. Owsley on ground she bought from Kimball Young. It is just south of Belmont avenue. There are three apartments of ten rooms each. For a number of years, Mrs. Owsley's brother, Ex-Mayor Harrison, occupied one of them. George Brennan, the Democratic leader, was living there at the time of his death.

Mr. Owsley held a life membership in the Art Institute, and also belonged to the University club.

LONDON SOCIETY MOURNS DEATH OF 6 IN PLANE CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 22. — Many social functions booked for the closing days of the London season are being canceled because of the death of four prominent people, two of whom were women, in the crash yesterday of the airplane which was carrying them back from Le Touquet.

The circumstances of the crash, which also took the lives of two pilots, were still a mystery today. While an official investigation is being carried on, it is generally believed that a wing was ripped off from the all metal Junkers monoplane during a buffeting by high winds.

The society colony at Le Touquet sent hundreds of messages of condolence to England today, and a number of hostesses recalled invitations for affairs scheduled to be held soon. Flags were flown at half staff over the homes of all the victims. Belfast, home of the marquis of Dufferin and Ava, went into mourning.

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

To the nine hundred block, with its sordid dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Ames and her mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Baum, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs, and B. Jones, a reporter; also Johnny Deane, who left a home of wealth to make good for the girl to whom he regrets, since meeting Theresa, he is engaged. He has found employment painting automobiles. Theresa does typing at home to support herself and mother. Mrs. Colt encourages Billy Treadway, a rich bachelor beau of her girlhood, in his attentions to Theresa. Theresa's father, Arnold Ames, married again after Theresa's mother divorced him and married Barrington Colt, who recently died. The father now has a belated desire to help his daughter, but his wife threatens to leave him if he does. He arranges with Harold Gale, a friend, to secretly give Theresa work.

Johnny Deane had determined not to tell Theresa of his love for her until he had broken his engagement, but does not keep his vow. Theresa returns his love.

A FAIRY TALE.

He must not let his arm tighten around her, Billy reminded himself; his arm grew rigid.

"I learned to dance at a Girls' Friendly society in Philadelphia," Theresa said. "It's an Episcopal church society."

"Here goes for an extra nickel on the plate," said Billy. "I believe in thank offerings." She did dance.

He looked down at her soft hair which curled naturally and beautifully. To have—his cheek against it! He hoped that she and Agnes would get on. Agnes knew exactly how he wanted everything cooked! And if Theresa needed a sitting room upstairs he'd have to move all his willow platters! And he'd had shelves built in that front room. But—having her there——

No rose without its thorns! If she came—all the readjustment; but—if she did not come—his to dream [and hungrily] all the years of what might have been if she had come.

The music stopped with a last note that sounded as if the tail of a lusty tom cat had been shut firmly in a door. A few jaded souls clapped limply. But young Hen Zasbers, in a corner, lifted the gloom by an approving clog. The "older people" were gathering on the side line to look upon youth; to smile forcedly, and to feel their years. Theresa saw Mr. Gale. Her face lit. He saw her and he quickly looked away. He'd greet her later when no one of "importance" witnessed it, he decided. [May there be a hot hell for such "gentlemen," and likely there will be if there is justice. And likely, too, that those whose sins were made by loving too well will take the elevator going up.]

Theresa became aware of a stocky man with a thatch of gray hair who stood near the horse-faced woman. She saw him through a hurt that had been made by a man named Gale who had, with quickly averted eyes, told her she was an interloper. All the men had looked at her, once casually and then again and not casually. But—this man looked in a different way. She felt he must be ill; he was so white and he stared as if he had a fever. She was quite certain she saw him shake.

"That," he said, "that was—Arnold Ames."

"Who—is that, Billy?" she asked. Billy didn't evade.

"Come over here," he answered, "and I'll tell you——"

He settled her in as remote and sequestered a haven as he could find in the long gallery that edged the ballroom; he wanted to feast his eyes upon her without having to lift them from the plate; a pronouncedly, sweetly oval face. He knew he could not dance each dance with her. An arm will stay rigid, but for so long.

"That——" he said [how lovely she was, framed and made small by the round back of a peacock chair], "that was—Arnold Ames."

"O," she murmured. Her heart had swung. It had seemed to kick upward. Pause, upward; sink. Not quite a pleasant sensation.

"Are you bitter toward him?" Billy asked.

"O, no!" she answered quickly [not quite steadily], "why should I be? I'm only sorry for him; very sorry for him. He doesn't look quite happy, for well."

Billy saw Arnold Ames heading toward an area where he could take a bracer. A thing Billy knew Arnold would need. When Arnold Ames returned Laura was waiting for him. She wanted to go home; she was feeling ill she said, voice quavering. She cast a glance toward an isolated corner where Billy Treadway was talking to—the girl; leaning toward her; obviously mad about her—as men would be.

Laura shook as she waited for Arnold to hunt up the car and Riley. She stood in a hot vestibule, and far from the girl and Billy. But—she saw the girl saw her—every second. Perhaps she could get Arnold interested in trimming the tree for the one Arnold called "boy" . . . she must do something—something!

"Ready, Laura——" Arnold said heavily, through a slit of opened door that let in frosty air and a little of December unpolluted by steam heat.

The next days ran a temperature. Wreaths, some of which were anemic, appeared in the windows of the nine hundred block; everybody was "decorating" Saturday or before, Christmas being Monday. Mr. Lambert arranged the window displays upon red and green crêpe. Mr. Lambert was going to give her a set of Christopher Morley; she knew it was on the shelf in their bedroom closet. He had draped the box with an old gray shirt he wore fishing.

Christmas trees leaned in corners of rear yards waiting their coming out parties. Small people of the nine hundred block said each morning, "Is tomorrow Christmas?" Dr. Detwiler was going to get another house coat; this time, maroon in color. Theresa bought Katie "a little vase"; Katie bought Theresa "a little vase to put flowers in——" Johnny, at Miss Hantz' shop, saw a tooled leather box that he decided, liking it, he'd send his father. Collette Clyde wrote Johnny that Spick had given her a flexible diamond and emerald bracelet. "But I'll wait for you," she promised. A most unseasonable groan echoed on the third floor of the Bellevue Court apartments as Johnny read that and he scuffed the toe of one shoe kicking a lower bureau drawer.

Housewives hurried to town to come back laden with bulging packages. Katie bought "just a little tree" for to set on the table——

B. Jones thought about sending some Christmas cards, and he did buy a few; but then he found he was out of stamps again and decided to let it go. He was weary anyway. He had written his article on Stiegel glass.

"Where are you going to send it?" Theresa asked. "It's really wonderful!"

"I know it is," he agreed wearily.

"House and Garden, or the House Beautiful?" Theresa suggested. She thought B. Jones was joking when he said, drearily, "I'll see which one has the shorter street address——" but he was not. And he saw trouble ahead. "Fame" to B. Jones' eyes [with certain others] was not always "so hot." Publishing the darned thing would make him a lot of trouble, he knew.

Saturday morning saw the start of a fairy tale that was to make much confusion for Johnny Deane. Mrs. Baum heard from Katie that young Deane had taken his laundry [at Katie's suggestion] to Mrs. Sipe in the alley. Mrs. Baum decided she would call upon Mrs. Sipe. So—shrouding her gray head—she crept warily along the ice-coated uneven stretch of lane that halted the long, rear yards.

Mrs. Sipe was at her tubs and her small house was full of steam and that odor of wash day that, somehow, always manages to combine boiled cabbage with yellow soap—perhaps because you're "heating up the stove good anyway——"

"Well, how de do and set down, Mrs. Baum," said Mrs. Sipe.

"I hear you're doing his washin'," said Mrs. Baum without preface; her eager, avid eyes were already upon a pile of underwear.

"They don't hardly look like they'd been worn except his shop shirts," Mrs. Sipe confided.

"I wouldn't put myself to the trouble of washin' this," said Mrs. Baum, who had stooped to lift a shirt from a huge pile.

"I ain't a goin' to. I'm goin' to smooth it off with the iron. It ain't good for things to wash 'em so much," Mrs. Sipe answered, belligerently.

Mrs. Baum was looking at the label in the shirt. The shirt came from London. She next picked up a pajama jacket. That had, beneath the collar band in back, "some funny reading," and—"Paris." Mrs. Baum paused a moment in her taking of stock. She had had a great idea which saw truth.

A few minutes later she turned into the alley to hot-foot it toward the Detwilers, where she had planned to look in anyway, because they were going to have a party that night and she could "get a kind of an idea of what they were going to eat" by a sharp survey of pantry shelves.

Mrs. Detwiler listened to Mrs. Baum's tale. "It don't seem hardly possible," she said, slowly.

"Mrs. Detwiler, I ain't one to be fooled and I seen his underwear."

"My land, to think of it, if it is true!" said Mrs. Detwiler.

First Woman Elder Talks of Presbyterians

Creed Barriers Weaken, Miss Dickson Says.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

It was a good deal of a woman's world in which John Knox struggled to found that Scottish faith known as Presbyterianism. In France Catherine De Medici had something to do with the massacre on St. Bartholomew's eve, relative to a faith propagated by John Calvin in Geneva.

In Scotland a royal lady had not dealt kindly with the new faith. So John Knox wrote a book, "Teh Monstrous Regiment [regimen or government] of Women." This book incensed Elizabeth of England by the time she came to the throne and had dealings with him. While that happened in the sixteenth century, the Presbyterian church was without a wimona elder for 400 years.

But as enthusiastically as John Knox discussed his faith, so did Elder Sarah E. Dickson yesterday.

Miss Dickson was elected an elder of the Wauwatosa, Wis., Presbyterian church two days after the Presbyterian general assembly at Cincinnati voted on May 31 to admit women to the office of elder, the most important post outside the pastorate. Miss Dixon was for more than 25 years a leader in church work in Chicago. She was a guest yesterday at the W. B. Wanzer home, 364 Normal parkway.

"It will not be very long until the general assembly will allow women to become pastors," Miss Dickson declared. She is a small woman with graying hair, but a youthful smile. "But I don't think," she hastened to add, "that women now are especially eager to preach. They are too much accustomed to having men in the pulpit. Though I don't see why women shouldn't be good pastors. They have as much of that ability as the men.

"Right now it is important that women take seriously the privilege of eldership accorded by our church. Some may not wish to serve, but it is their duty and their privilege to help govern their own churches."

Miss Dickson is of the opinion that actual union among Protestant churches eventually will be accomplished. Denominational lines fast are disappearing, she observed, and difference in church governments, more than in the creeds, delays that union.

"Churches are becoming more and more tolerant. There has been a great advance in tolerance since I went into the work 30 years ago," Miss Dickson said. "But we still need another generation to outgrow the natural prejudices of the older members. We are members of a certain denomination only because we were born into it, or because as children we enter the nearest Sunday school and then join at church.

"I believe the young people are better now than they used to be. We have every reason to feel encouraged about them. They are, of course, like the church—going through transition. But their ideals are high. I'm not worried about the young people."

Miss Dickson joined the Forty-first Street church, Chicago, under Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, now of the McCormick Theological seminary. She became first president of the Young Women's Presbyterian union of Chicago, was executive secretary of the Chicago Second church, and secretary-treasurer of the Federated Religious Press. She was for seven years executive secretary at the Chicago First church with Dr. William Chalmers Covert. She later became director of religious education there and also at the Edgewater church. Miss Dickson was ordained a deaconess by the presbytery in 1925.

FORT SNELLING EARTH TO REST ON FRENCH GRAVES OF YANKEES

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Sixteen small boxes of earth dug at Fort Snelling, Minn., by soldiers of the third infantry, the oldest regiment in the United States army, will start out across the Atlantic tomorrow to be scattered over the graves of Minnesota boys who left classrooms, offices and workshops in 1917 and 1918 to fight and die in France.

The boxes of soil from the old army post, high on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river just south of the Twin Cities, were presented by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to the gold star mothers from Minneapolis who will embark tomorrow on the liner George Washington with the thirteenth unit of the war department's pilgrimage of war mothers.

At Fort Snelling, which has been an army post for 111 years, many of those boys from Minnesota received their first military training before they went to France.

Seventy-four mothers and widows from Minnesota will be among the 250 war mothers who will sail for France tomorrow. Many of them will visit graves where lie men who served with the 151st field artillery, Minnesota's regiment in the Rainbow division.

Sixteen of them are from Minneapolis, and two bands and large delegations from the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars saw them off Saturday night, eleven more are from St. Paul.

Among the Minneapolis women sailing tomorrow is Mrs. Grace Swift Forbes, whose husband, First Lieut. Guy R. Forbes of company C, 508th engineers, is buried at St. Mihiel. She is taking to his grave a bottle of water from Lake Minnetonka, near Minneapolis.

"He used to swim there," she said today, "and loved it so."

In the unit that will sail tomorrow are 58 women from Texas, whose sons were killed while serving with the 90th division. There are also delegations from Chicago, Massachusetts, Utah and North Carolina.

Aged Elgin Woodmen Attack Boost in Rates

Elgin, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—Aged members of Silver Leaf Camp No. 60 Modern Woodmen of America of this city were complainants today in injunction suit filed in Circuit Judge John K. Newhall's court at Geneva. They seek to restrain national officers of that fraternal society and all clerks of the leading Illinois camps from putting into effect new, increased insurance rates adopted by the head camp last December. Judge Newhall set July 25 for hearing on the petition.

Women Over 40 Defended for Good Jobs

Experience Counts for Them, It's Argued.

Counsel for the defense in the case of the woman past forty, lately arraigned as a poor bet to fill whatever jobs may be vacant, was discovered yesterday in Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, for eight years head of her own personnel service in the loop. Mrs. Zinser takes issue with the view of Dr. H. Lucille Long, whose adverse experiences in placing older women was detailed yesterday.

Dr. Long, citing her findings for the benefit of Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, who will conduct a survey on the situation on behalf of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, declared that three-fourths of the older women are out of positions through faults of their own. Employers demand younger women, she stated, because they work more willingly and are not so critical.

"In eight years of placing women exclusively in widely diverse positions," declared Mrs. Zinser, "I have not found that to be the case. Any woman without experience is at a disadvantage in starting in any line of work as soon as she has passed the 'flexible' age, which is at thirty or even younger. But an experienced worker of from thirty to fifty, with the right sort of background, will not find herself confronted with any dearth of positions, because her assets are valuable to an employer.

"Here is one firm that refuses to employ a file clerk under thirty. One of the officers explained that a young girl had misplaced a card that cost the firm $10,000. File supervisor, credit manager, hotel housekeeper, executive secretary, and other positions all require older women. Many young girls are surprisingly reliable, but often the reason they are preferred to older women is that their lack of experience makes them more amenable to training for certain jobs—and older women should not blame their exclusion on their years. That's not really the basic reason. One must find the position to fit the applicant."

James Craig, head of an employment concern for twenty-eight years, said many of the complaints against older women also are made against older men.

"Tosca" Melodrama of Opera Displays Trevisan's High Skill

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Making a sudden departure from the gay comedy and high spirits of "Anima Allegra," the Ravinia company turned back last night to the melodrama of "Tosca," an ingeniously constructed if highly artificial collection of thrills, with music as purely of the theater as is the book.

It is an effective piece, however, and more than ever effective in the Ravinia performance. Yvonne Gall was the Tosca last night, a Tosca who is considerably more feminine and charming than tragic and grand, but expressive of gesture and alluring of voice. With her was Edward Johnson as Mario, an artist with a gift for presenting a romantic rôle with fine manners and distinguished bearing. Also there was Giuseppe Danise as Scarpia, playing the part with driving force, a malign personification who won his way until stopped by the knife in the hands of Tosca.

But with these three leading characters there also were some minor rôles of enormous value in the presentation of the work. For years Vittorio Trevisan's sacristan has been rightly regarded as a masterpiece, whose only trouble is that it is too brief a time on the stage, a characterization whose details are not merely external, but go down to the soul of the character. In addition, Louis D'Angelo as the escaping consul became last night one of the few persons who ever entered the stage as one who has just broken out of prison could be imagined to behave. Gennaro Papi conducted with the same live force as was exhibited by the artists on the stage.

Miss Diana Dodge, Frederick Davies Are Reported Engaged

Newport, R. I., July 22.—[Special.]—Announcement will be made here tomorrow of the engagement of Miss Diana Dodge and Frederick Davies, it was learned today. Although no date has been set for the wedding, it is thought likely it will take place in the later season.

Miss Dodge is the daughter of Mrs. George D. Widener, who is passing the season with Mr. Widener at their place, the Orchard. Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, a step-grandmother of Miss Dodge, will give a large ball in her honor Friday, Aug. 22, at Miramir, where she is summering with Dr. Rice.

Mr. Davies' father was the late Frederick M. Davies, a resident here for many years.

Miss Dodge is passing the season here with the Wideners. She is a devotee of swimming and tennis.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

PLANS for the approaching theatrical season in Chicago are still clouded with uncertainties. Out of the nebula, however, a few dates and facts are beginning to emerge. As for example: The revue called "Artists and Models," staged last month for a summer show in New York, will begin an engagement at the Grand Opera house on Monday evening, Aug. 11. This première was first announced for Aug. 2 and later for Aug. 4. The fear of hot weather aroused by our recent three day sirocco probably caused the postponement.

Mae West, heroine of "Diamond Lil" and several real life trial scenes, expects to tune into the situation early in August at the Garrick theater. She will offer a specimen of her own lurid imagination which bears the title of "Sex." This play won her ten days in the House of Correction in New York in the spring of 1927. One may assume, therefore, that she will submit a modified and chastened version in Chicago. Miss West intended to begin her engagement at the Garrick on Aug. 11, but the calendaring of "Artists and Models" for that evening will probably alter the date of this opening.

The Theater Guild will begin its third subscription season at the Blackstone on Oct. 6 with Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart." On or about the same date the Dramatic League of Chicago will welcome subscribers to its second season at the Princess with one out of the twenty-seven plays which it has announced. "Three Little Girls," a first rate operetta, will appear at one of the Shubert controlled playhouses, probably on Labor day, and "Young Sinners," a New York hit of last season, is also on the Shubert list for early September.

This is about as far as the theatrical schedule makers have gone in putting their houses of mirth in order here. They will have to do better than this to dispel current suspicions that the old champion, Battling Drama, has been knocked out in the 2,450th round of his historic career by an insignificant upstart named Peewee Golf.

The Goodman theater, however, is coming to the rescue. Shattered to bits, apparently, by the rebellion of last spring, when the disciples of the retiring director, Thomas Wood Stevens, resigned almost en masse, the Art Institute of Chicago Civic Repertory company is slowly re-forming itself. On Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, its sixth season will begin, under the leadership of Hubert Osborne, with "The Firebrand," a romantic comedy by Edwin Justus Mayer. This play is based on certain florid incidents in the career of Benvenuto Cellini, goldsmith and amorist of the Italian renaissance.

The Goodman surpasses the Dramatic league in the number of plays in its dream book. It has under consideration no fewer than forty-five dramatic compositions, ranging in authorship from the ancient Greeks to the modern Argentines. The pieces which are specially favored by its play reading committee, and from which the seven productions to follow "The Firebrand" will probably be selected, are: "Hedda Gabler," by Ibsen; "Milestones," by Edward Knoblock and Arnold Bennett; "Rebound," by Donald Ogden Stewart; "The Harlequinade," by H. Granville Barker; "Hassan," by James Elroy Flecker; "The Squabbles of Chioggia," by Goldoni; "The Father," by Strindberg, and "The Little Saint," by Bracco.

Only a few members of the old Goodman company will return. Katherine Krug, Carl Kroenke, and Mary Agnes Doyle have signed contracts. Ellen Root has been offered a contract, but hasn't yet responded. Roman Bohnen, whose services are regarded as highly desirable by the new administration, is "holding out" for better wages. David Itkin, who staged "The Golem" for the Goodman season before last, has been engaged as assistant stage director. Gertrude Lee, formerly of the executive staff of Eva Le Gallienne's civic repertory company in New York, will be the business manager.

For dean of its school of acting, the Goodman has secured Maurice Gnesin, who will begin to organize that department and receive registrations September 15. He is now head of the dramatic department at the University of Denver. He is a Ph. D. in drama from Yale university, and was highly recommended by Professor Baker.

Mr. Osborne is now scouting among the summer resort and seashore theaters.

The old order changes, giving place to new. The word, "vaudeville," which crept into the American language at the turn of the last century, to be pronounced in at least three different ways, has been proclaimed obsolete by Big Business. Use of the term will be discarded by the Radio-Keith Orpheum corporation, whose stage entertainments will be known hereafter as "R. K. O. Varieties." This is a return to the vocabulary of the early music halls.

Thanksgiving Football to Aid Cripples

Shriners Plan 10 Year Revival of Games.

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was named yesterday as chairman of the committee supporting a ten year revival of the Thanksgiving day football classic. From that funds will be raised to form a permanent maintenance fund for the Chicago unit of the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children. The announcement was made by Will H. Wade, general chairman of the board of governors of the Chicago unit.

MELVIN TRAYLOR.

The football game, Mr. Wade pointed out, will be between a leading college of the east and west. Such games are expected to make possible the expansion of the Chicago hospital unit, located at 2211 North Oak Park avenue.

A contract has been signed to bring the West Virginia university and the Oregon State college elevens here this year, Mr. Wade added. A contract also has been made with the south park board for the use of Soldiers' field during the next ten years for Thanksgiving day games.

The Chicago unit was opened in 1926, four years after the first Shriner free hospital for crippled children was established at Shreveport, La.

The hospital here was built entirely by Shriners, then formally dedicated and given to the city of Chicago. Since then it has been maintained, without cost to the city, by the Shriners. It is located on 17 acres given to the hospital by the Medinah temple.

"The hospital is open to every crippled child in North America without regard to race, color, or creed," Mr. Wade said. "The only requirements are that parents or guardians must be financially unable to pay for treatment and the child must be over 14 years of age, of normal mentality, and there must be reasonable hope for the child's improvement. The Chicago unit has had a waiting list ever since it was opened."

The sponsoring committee has more than 100 members including Max Adler, F. H. Rawson, James B. Forgan, Walter W. Head, Col. R. R. McCormick, John J. Mitchell, Britton I. Budd, John F. Gilchrist, Samuel Insull Jr., Fred W. Sargent, William B. Storey, Sewell Avery, George Woodruff, E. J. Bullock, George W. Dixon, Edward Hines, B. A. Massee, E. J. Buffington, Bernard J. Mullaney and others.

Trixie Knight, Salina, Kas., Is Chicago Lawyer's Bride

Salina, Kas., July 22.—[Special.]—Miss Trixie Knight of this place was married today to John Reardon Heath, junior member of the law firm of Cameron & Heath, Chicago. The bride for the last six years has been a dietitian at the Cook county hospital. Dr. Raymond V. Kearns, pastor, read the service at the Presbyterian church. They will be at home at the Webster hotel, Chicago, Sept. 1.

In a recent Los Angeles dispatch published in THE TRIBUNE statement was made that A. T. Sokolow, legal representative of the Los Angeles Examiner had passed on the legality of selling documents wanted for use in a civil court case. The documents had been obtained by Morris Lavine.

Mr. Sokolow was not consulted about and did not see the documents but merely passed on an article concerning the Julian case which article was subsequently published in the Los Angeles Examiner. Mr. Sokolow only examined the article for libelous matter this being a duty called for by his position with the Examiner.

In a story in last Saturday's TRIBUNE it was stated that Francis J. Hoyne, a witness in the Thomas Condon divorce trial, testified to seeing Mrs. Mary D. Condon in an affectionate pose with Arthur Simmons. Mr. Hoyne declares the court records show he did not name the person with whom Mrs. Condon was affectionate.

Speed Boats Carry Guests to Canada Islands

BY THALIA ——.

The summer residents at Desbarats, Canada, where each family unit owns its own island, are a hospitable colony, despite the fact that they are isolated from each other by water. Most of the households have a succession of guests throughout the season, and as speedboats and other craft for transportation purposes are plentiful, the spirit of neighborliness does not suffer.

Just now Miss Helen Stanley is having as her guests Miss Beatrice Kirk, daughter of the Walter R. Kirks, and Elsa Armour, the A. Watson Armours' daughter, at Stanley Island, where she and her parents, the W. Edwin Stanleys, are for the summer. All three girls are to be debutantes next winter. Miss Armour's debut tea is to take place on Nov. 7 at the Casino, and she and Miss Kirk are to have a joint ball given by their respective parents on Dec. 22 at the Blackstone.

Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Rogers go up to Desbarats tomorrow night for a week-end visit with Miss Florence Noyes, daughter of the Ernest H. Noyes, whose island is called Campement d'Ours island. Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire has had as her guests for the last week or so Mrs. Eugene Fauntleroy and Mrs. H. Foster Straw.

Dustin Grannis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, will not join his parents at Desbarats until later in the summer, as he and Jimmy Heyworth are in Europe for some traveling. They were to visit Buddy Dewey, the Charles S. Deweys' son in Warsaw, Poland, and he was to motor about with them for a time. Mr. Heyworth's mother, Mrs. James O. Heyworth, has by now arrived at Desbarats and is expecting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Thorne, whose marriage took place recently in Hollywood, to visit her for a few weeks next month.

Cyrus McCormick Jr. has betaken himself to northern Michigan for a week or two of concentrated labor on the finishing up of the book he is writing. He has been compiling the history of the International Harvester company. He already is three-fourths of the way through his job. Mrs. McCormick has gone east for a visit with her sister, Miss Mabel Linn, in North Carolina.

The prenuptial parties being given for Miss Nancy Langworthy, daughter of Alfred G. Langworthy of Evanston, who is to be married to Adon Smith II. of Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Smith of Hamilton, N. Y., next Saturday, include a tea given yesterday afternoon by Miss Alice Barber, a luncheon and linen shower to be given today by Mrs. Charles Baker Jr., and a dinner this evening by Miss Harriet Hamm of Kenilworth.

Miss Langworthy is to give her spinster dinner tomorrow evening at Indian Hill at the same time Mr. Smith gives his bachelor dinner at the Orrington hotel in Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Bradstreet and Mrs. and Mrs. Brownell Bradstreet are to give the bridal dinner on Friday evening. The wedding is to take place at the First Presbyterian church in Evanston and will be followed by a small reception at the Langworthy residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Lyford of 1400 Lake Shore drive are to sail from New York City today for Scotland to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Boyd, and the latter's children, Mary Lee and Heather Boyd, at Ayr, Scotland. The Lyfords plan to return by Oct. 1 and will then move into their new apartment at 222 East Chestnut street.

The Frank O. Lowdens are opening Castle Rest, their place at Alexandria Bay in the Thousand Islands, today. Their daughter, Miss Florence Lowden, and their son, George M. Pullman Lowden, are with them, and their other daughters, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. probably will visit them during their summer stay.

Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee is at Cooperstown, N. Y., and has had as her guest recently her sister, Mrs. Arthur Rush of Philadelphia, Pa.

The C. Bai Lihmes, who in former years have summered at Watch Hill, R. I., are occupying this season the Birchwoods, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Barber at Glenhead, Long Island, while the Barbers are in England.

[Bayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Forbrich of Park Ridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Eloise Allen, to Elliott Charles Youngberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott V. Youngberg of Wilmette. Miss Forbrich is a senior at Northwestern university and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Mr. Youngberg is a graduate of Armour Institute of Technology.

This Exercise Keeps Pounds Off the Waistline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was interested to note in an article on keeping fit a suggestion to women on hip and waist line training which appeared in a health magazine and was written by "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world. The exercise recommended by Mr. Corbett is one I have given in my columns frequently for hip and waist reduction. Bearing the indorsement of one who at 64 can still boast a svelte waist and one who certainly should know what a waist and hip line needs to keep it trained down, it can stand another repetition.

In presenting it before, I suggested that this one exercise, done often enough, with regularity and with the right spirit put into it, would be pretty nearly sufficient for a woman to practice. I grow more and more convinced that one, two, or three good exercises done consistently and properly are the best course for a woman to adopt. That is, the average woman. We haven't, as a body, got ourselves under such discipline that we attack a "set" of exercises with the vim and vigor a man would apply to it. In fact, the average woman loves exercises with the same fervor that she loves an anniversary without a gift, which isn't what you could call any affection at all.

The grief is that she needs exercise, in spite of her distaste for it. She needs it now more than woman ever needed it. With household duties turned over to hired hands, electrical agents, mechanical hands, or with no household duties to turn over; with the motor doing most of her walking for her, or the taxi, or the sub, or "L," or street car; with little or no physical labor to keep her muscles in tone, she needs something. And, at least, until she learns the value of exercise done daily, she should adopt a couple of good exercises and work on them exclusively.

But I know, as she does herself, that generalizing about keeping fit is not as influential an argument as telling a woman she can get a few inches off her hips and waist, so herewith I tell her that if she'll do this exercise, with Corbett's indorsement, and keep it up day after day, she'll get her wish. Lie full length on the floor, on your back. Hold the right legs rigid, bring it up to the hip, then stretch it away over the left leg and touch the floor on the left side. Then bring the left leg up and over to the opposite side. Keep the head on the floor with alternate leg movements. Repeat twenty times, at least.

Papal Delegate Back from India Arrives; To Visit Ohio Home

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Msgr. Edward A. Mooney, apostolic delegate from Rome to India, arrived today on the French liner France to visit New York and his former home in Youngstown, O. Msgr. Mooney, who was accompanied by his secretary, the Rev. J. C. Hurley, declined to discuss the civil disobedience disturbances in India, saying the church did not enter into political matters. He did say, however, that during the four years he has been in the country he had found the British civil service able and efficient, and that he had not once seen an administrative act which was out of line with the high standard maintained by the service.

Go Getter Gals Have It Over the Dreamer Type

BY DORIS BLAKE.

After a period of sitting around six, seven, eight or nine years, waiting for something to turn up—a young woman ought to do one of two things: get out and make something turn up or turn her thoughts into some channel of activity that would so absorb her she would not be admitting herself, at 25, a no-man's woman.

There are a good many dreamers left in our midst among the sex who, by dreaming, making little progress in the direction of the home and husband wanted. There are scads of girls in the middle or late twenties about whom acquaintances say: "Strange, they're not married." Or, "Strange they haven't escorts," and so on.

Their trouble, nine times out of ten, is that they are dreamers while their sisters who get the country estates or the three room light housekeeping apartments are doers. They, the latter, see what they want and go get it. I don't say they always get it, but at least they don't sit and moon and wonder why others have all the luck. They're out stirring up luck. They're stirring up opportunities. They're offering some coöperation in the grand scheme of marriage.

They're using modern methods, whereas the dreamers cling to old rules that are not applicable at all to modern requirements. The picture of a girl of 25 sitting night after night, day after day, wishing, wishing for something [some one, really] to turn up does not fit in with the current scheme of woman activities. It was all right when other women sat and waited, although it is questionable if our respected ancestors really did play the passive Juliet rôles they've been reported as doing, but not now with competition keen and women taking things in their own hands the way they are doing.

If, at 25, one is willing to admit a no-man state, and the field of men does not look promising, why not determine to get something else worth while out of life. Take up some new pursuit. Adopt some form of useful activity that will be both mentally and spiritually stimulating. Some such move might prove to be the very thing in the girl's character that is needed.

Over 214,000 Attend Adler Planetarium in First Ten Weeks

The popularity of the Adler planetarium and astronomical museum, opened ten weeks ago on the lake shore off Grant park, has been shown by the attendance, according to a report filed yesterday by Director Philip Fox. A total of 214,076 visitors have attended demonstrations and lectures.

During the first two months the lecture subjects were: "The Home Sky and the Way of the Planets in the Sky" and "The Midnight Sun and the Heavens as Seen from the North Pole." The next series, starting July 21, will be: "The Southern Sky." July 27 Director Fox will leave for Fort Sheridan as colonel of infantry. During his absence Prof. D. W. Morehouse of Drake university will conduct lectures.

The American Astronomical society will hold its annual meeting at the planetarium, Sept. 3 to 5, under the presidency of Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale university.

Virginia (Ginger) Rogers to Wed John Keating Jr.

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Virginia Rogers, who has appeared on the vaudeville stage with her sister, Jane, and in recent years has been playing in New York night clubs, is to be married on Aug. 2 to John Keating Jr., son of the late Col. John Keating of Maryland.

Miss Rogers, known as "Ginger," frequently is confused with the musical comedy and screen actress who bears the same name.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S DRESS.

The flaring skirt of this chic dress shows a soft gathering at the front, and a slight dipping at the sides. A crushed girdle marks the normal waistline and ties in a youthful bow at one side. The simple bodice is sleeveless and the capelet collar opening at each side of the front, displays a round neckline. Crêpe de chine, challis, and taffeta are charming materials for this dress.

The pattern, 3360, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

Vitality Needs to Be Conserved in Warm Weather

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Information on sun bathing for babies will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In the summer care of babies and little children, after a mother has taken care of the question of food and general cleanliness, there remain several health measures which might all be classed under one head—that tremendously important one of conserving a child's vitality.

Both heat and fatigue are a drain on babies' and young children's strength and nerves. We know this to be true of ourselves—that extreme or long continued heat makes us edgy. We know that overfatigue leaves us let down and with frayed nerves or at least a nervous tension, felt if not shown. So often, if we would only let it, the knowledge of our own reactions could act as a guide to us in our care of the babies and children, who seldom know why they feel as they do. So, using our own hot weather feelings, we avoid allowing them to become overheated and overtired.

If babies are kept comfortable in hot weather they are almost sure to get their full quota of sleep. Overtiredness is to be avoided especially in hot weather, because heat causes fatigue in itself, in addition to the ordinary fatigue that results from loss of sleep.

This holds true of young runabout children, too, who as so constantly on the go. Their rest and sleep must be well guarded. Heat and tiredness together account for much of the irritability, easy flowing tears, and loss of appetite that little children evidence in the summer time.

Having secured the children against overheating and fatigue, there is one more measure that safeguards their vitality—that one lies in keeping them as quiet as possible. This measure is easier to manage with babies than with the children under 5—but even with the latter a dark, quiet place to rest, and freedom from excitement in hot weather with toys for quiet play are usually possible if you are resolute about it. As for the very young baby, summer is the time for him to have as little handling as possible.

One more way in which to insure babies and children quiet and freedom from excitement is in your treatment of them. Gentleness and good temper on your part do away with the emotional excitement that results for children from scoldings, punishment and irritability on their parents' part.

With this article we finish covering in a general way summer health measures—food, cleanliness, prevention of overheating, fatigue, etc.

Salary Fibber.

An acquaintance of mine who is a good woman in most ways is noted for her boastful lies about herself and her family's wonderful doinings. In the matter of wages, she usually doubles the amount. One day I called upon her and she told me about her young daughter's wonderful success as a stenographer. "You know she is only 25 years old and now she is getting $40 per week."

Later the daughter arrived home in a happy frame of mind and announced to us all together: "O, just think I got a raise in my pay and now I am getting $125 per month." The mother's face turned very red but there was absolutely nothing to say. N. K.

Sally Reveals More Reasons for Her Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

There are so many interesting and lovely things about Ravinia that a party there means one of the most enjoyable times imaginable. To begin with, its world-wide fame as a summer music center has made it a place every one wants to visit and its beauty is something to feast your eyes upon. Situated on the picturesque north shore away from the noise and bustle of the city, it is a haven of green loveliness and an exquisite setting for a midsummer party.

The "Army and Navy day" celebration which is to be on Thursday, July 31, has been in former years one of the most popular occasions the Ravinia company plans for its young visitors, and for this reason Mr. Louis Eckstein, president, has asked one hundred of us to be in the audience. The show will be an especially thrilling and entertaining one, with the sailors and marines from Great Lakes and the soldiers from Fort Sheridan as the principal actors.

There will be drills, reviews, exercises, awarding of trophies, presentation of colors, singing by the detachments of both soldiers and sailors, an interesting demonstration of wall scaling by the marines, a platoon of Fort Sheridan infantry in attack, and a splendid program of music by both the blue jacket band and the soldiers' band. In fact, it will be a military show in its most complete form.

To add to the party and make it even more enjoyable, Britton I. Budd, of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company, is providing comfortable and speedy transportation for us. We are to have private cars that will get us to our destination in no time and I can assure you it will be a lovely and cool trip.

There aren't many hours left in which to get your letters to me so that you can win an invitation to this party, so you had better write and post them immediately. Each letter must be in my office by tomorrow morning. Remember, I shall select for my guests those whose letters show they are most anxious to join me a week from tomorrow, and I must know your name, address and age.

Teacher Uses Kids' Desires for Greatness

By awakening the interest of children, taking advantage of their desire to do big things—their will to dream—mathematical problems are solved in surprising fashion. The Rev. J. J. Donnelly of Denver, now conducting classes before graduate students of Loyola university, is applying that system to children.

By that means Marie Dumm, a first grade pupil, he says, can give the squares of twenty-nine numbers, ranging from five to ninety-five, and write the answers in two minutes and five seconds.

While ten year old Peggy Weadick solves in almost three minutes, "Given a certain reservoir that is fifteen feet deep, to walk around at the rate of four miles an hour takes eighteen minutes. How long does it take to fill this reservoir pumping on a lift of sixty feet with a ten horsepower engine and a pump of seventy per cent efficiency?"

Father Donnelly added that most of the students in school in Denver can solve quadratic equations by formula, find positive and negative roots, apply the binomial theorem, formulate and solve simultaneous equations in three unknowns, and multiply in a few seconds any one of hundreds of certain combinations where the multiplier and the multiplicand were figures of four numbers each.

For his Chicago demonstration Father Donnelly is employing second and third grade pupils of St. Ignatius Parish school.

"I have been able to obtain really surprising results," says Father Donnelly, "by appealing to the interests of the child. Interest quickens perception and motivates memory. Boys whose memories are blanks as far as certain phases of mathematics are concerned, can give the score of each game the Cubs and Sox have played for a week.

"But how to awaken interest? Make the simple things objective and give a child the joy of doing big things. The child is a dreamer, a dreamer of big things, and able, under proper direction, to accomplish these big things."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs Exercise.

"I am a girl, underweight, and the doctor has told me to spend a lot of time out of doors. I love to play volley ball and if you could get a net and ball for me, we could put it up in the back yard. I don't care what condition they are in. H. K."

Have you the equipment which will enable this girl to indulge in her favorite sport? I know she'd enjoy her volley ball and it's quite likely such a healthful pastime would make an improvement in her condition.

Literary Club.

"I am a high school student in my second year. I would like to make the acquaintance of boys my age who would be interested in founding a literary club. I live on the west side. "E. M."

Here's a splendid idea for high school boys who are interested in books and their authors. If you'd like to coöperate with E. M. in his project, write me and I shall forward your letters to him.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

W. R.: YOUR SKIN IS TOO OILY for cleansing with cold cream. Soap and water is recommended. The soap cuts the grease. A lotion for oily skin consists of boric acid, one dram; distilled water, four ounces. Apply it several times during the day.

K. H.: NEGLECTING TO KEEP the tongue clean not only causes bad breath but contributes to dental decay. The tongue should be cleansed daily just as the teeth are.

Food Talk.

We hear a lot these days about alkaline and acid forming food. Sometimes I feel we hear too much. Too many times the impression is left that acid forming foods should be omitted, and there is no possibility of ever going to extremes with alkaline forming ones. It is true that an excess of foods leaving an acid residue will lead to serious trouble and an untimely death. While there is not so much danger in getting too many of the alkaline foods, those who are immoderate in their eating of such foods are likewise in for trouble.

The tissues of the body as well as the blood are alkaline, and health demands that alkalinity be maintained. Egg, meat and flesh foods tend to reduce this alkalinity. Milk, fruit, and vegetables tend to increase it. Cereals have little effect one way or the other.

Fortunately, the body is able to maintain its alkaline reserve even if the tendency of the food is to reduce it. Most authorities believe, however, that it is best not to depend too much upon this power of the body but to maintain the balance between the acid and alkaline foods. This means that when meat and eggs are used, vegetables and fruits are required to offset their alkaline-forming tendencies—a function which bread and cereals cannot perform. The exact proportions cannot be stated, but to be on the safe side use fruits and vegetables in abundance, without exclusion of meat, eggs, cereals and starchy foods. In other words, an adequate diet is recommended by our authorities in nutrition.

Black and White Still the Perennial Favorite

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Two color combinations may come and go, but black and white remains the perennial favorite of the smart woman. One may tire of even the most beautiful color scheme, but black and white never palls. There is nothing so distinguished for afternoon wear.

This afternoon ensemble from Molyneux in black georgette and white ermine stood out with supreme smartness against the colored costumes at the Prix de Diane run on the beautiful race course of Chantilly one recent Sunday. It united many of the newest fashionable details suggested by the Paris couturiers for early fall.

The three-quarter coat of black georgette has one of the new "bolster collars" in snow ermine extending to its hem on both sides. The ermine is also used to create an amusing version of the fashionable bishop sleeve. The black georgette frock shows the contrasting yoke top that was the most striking fashion feature revealed by the midseason. It is of white georgette joined in three points to the lower blouse, front and back, and it includes short cap sleeves. The soft draped and tied finish of the décolleté is another chic detail.

The skirt is flared progressively in three sections. From the fitted hip yoke to just above the knee it is slightly widened by gores, from there it bursts into a finely knife plaited flounce. Black patent leather pumps and bag, a black straw hat and white slip-on gloves were worn with this costume at Chantilly. The necklace was clear cut crystal set in rings of strasse.

GIRL'S CLOTHING SHOWN BAKER DEATH SUSPECT

Admits He Was Near Murder Scene.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—Special.)—The bloodstained clothing of Mary Baker, navy department clerk, was placed before Herbert M. Campbell, accused of murdering her, when the latest suspect was brought from the Arlington county, Va., jail for questioning late today.

Confronted with the clothing, together with a pair of men's gloves, found with the clothing in a sewer trap not far from the culvert where the young woman's body was discovered April 12, Campbell maintained his innocence, insisting that he had never met the girl. The net of circumstantial evidence already woven about the accused man, who is 42 years old, married, and in the real estate business, caused the police to redouble their efforts to further break down his story.

Campbell was seized early this morning after he had made statements implicating Herman Barrere, a painter who was charged with the murder July 17.

The real estate dealer first came into the case a month ago when he was found to be the owner of a .38 caliber revolver used by the killer. He said it had been stolen from him, but later returned to a desk in his office. Barrere, he said, had access to the office. Campbell brought the gun in voluntarily and, although he was constantly shadowed, the police did not molest him as they searched for Barrere, who was arrested in Montreal last week and brought back to face Campbell.

The sudden twist whereby accused and accuser exchanged rôles followed the partial collapse of Campbell's story under questioning early this morning.

TEACHERS GET SALARY CHECKS, 4 WEEKS OVERDUE

Salary checks four weeks overdue were distributed late yesterday afternoon to the 13,000 school teachers and the 4,000 civil service employés of the board of education. Many teachers did not wait for the slower service of the mail man but visited the board of education offices in person and hurried away to banks and stores as soon as they received the checks.

The checks had been ready for mailing for two weeks, awaiting sale of $5,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants. The warrants were sold to a local syndicate on Friday but were not negotiable until signed by President H. Wallace Caldwell of the school board, City Comptroller Schmidt and Mayor Thompson. Both Caldwell and Schmidt signed them Monday, but it was not until late yesterday morning the mayor could be reached and his signature obtained.

LOSES FIGHT TO BEAR THE NAME OF HIS FATHER

George Walter Thomae, 23 years old, adopted son of Julius and Margaret Thomae, 3456 Janssen avenue, who sued in the County court to be declared the legitimate son of Eli and Emma Rothschild, was denied his petition yesterday by Judge J. G. Van Keuren on the ground of lack of jurisdiction.

Some time ago Thomae, a sergeant in the 132d infantry of the Illinois National guard, applied for a commission as second lieutenant. He said he was the son of Julius Thomae, and that he was an elevator operator in the 100 North La Salle building. When he sought the record of his birth in the county clerk's office he found that he was not the son of the Thomaes, but that they had adopted him. The records showed that his real mother, Emma Alfstad, had assented to the adoption.

Thomae traced his mother and learned that she and his father had obtained a marriage license six weeks before his birth, but were not married until Aug. 15, 1908, seventeen months after his birth.

Thomae's attorney appealed the case.

"MERCY KILLER" OF HIS DAUGHTER SENT TO ASYLUM

Walton, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Declared insane by a commission of alienists who examined him yesterday, Andrew Beers, 79 year old "mercy killer," was committed to the Binghamton state hospital today for an indefinite period by County Judge Andrew J. McNaught.

Beers killer his mentally blighted daughter, Frances, 27, because, as he told police, he could not bear to see her suffer in illness and feared she might fall into unkind hands after his death. After unsuccessful use of poison in her food, he drove an ice pick into her head, using a wrench as a hammer. He then gave himself up.

Because his devotion to his daughter was well known here, most townspeople accepted his statement as absolutely true and his neighbors engaged counsel for him.

RICH AMERICAN BEATEN TO DEATH IN CAR IN CANADA

Believe Victim Fell in Racketeer Trap.

PORT CREDIT, Ont., July 22.—Provincial police tonight were seeking a solution to the slaying of Philip G. Rumbold, 57, wealthy Tonawanda, N. Y., contractor, whose bruised and beaten body was found here early this morning in his blood stained automobile. A rope was twisted about his neck and his head had been beaten in with a hammer.

Police are attempting to link the murder with activities of bootlegging racketeers who have been threatening roadhouse proprietors in this vicinity. They believe that Mr. Rumbold, driving along the road late at night, might have run into a trap intended for some one else.

Secure Silence by Death.

They expressed the belief that Rumbold was captured by racketeers, who even when they discovered their mistake, killed their prisoner for fear he might learn too much about them.

Mr. Rumbold had been dead about two hours when his body was found by a laborer on his way to work. Police believe he was killed elsewhere and the car with the body driven just inside the village limits and parked.

A hammer and an iron bar the killers had used to twist the rope about his neck were found in the automobile.

Killers Take $300.

Mr. Rumbold's wallet had been rifled. Customs officials disclosed that Mr. Rumbold, who left his home in Tonawanda on a fishing trip to Barrie, Ont., had crossed the lower bridge at Niagara Falls about 2 p. m. They gave him a permit to remain in Canada 60 days.

Orlando Rumbold, the slain man's son, arrived here this afternoon. He said his father had about $300 in his wallet when he left home.

Nab Motor Firm's Head on Confidence Game Charge

George A. Schmidt, 38 years old, head of the Stewart Motor Sales company with quarters at 3737 North Clark street and at 2100 South Wabash ave., was arrested by a policeman last night at Clark and Grace streets after Otto Niedermeyer, 6554 School street, said he recognized him as the fugitive against whom he had procured a warrant last April charging operation of a confidence game. Niedermeyer said he answered Schmidt's advertisement calling for a partner with cash and invested $2,000, which Schmidt never returned.

BEAT AND ROB PEDDLER.

The Austin police last night were seeking three men who robbed and beat Nick Nickodolus, 1836 Maypole avenue, a vegetable peddler, in an alley at the rear of 4200 Augusta street, escaping in an automobile with $115.

CUBS DROP TO 2D PLACE; SPLIT WITH GIANTS

PADDY HARMON, STADIUM BUILDER, DIES IN AUTO CRASH

WIFE AND FRIEND INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Death Ends Colorful Sports Career.

Body to Stadium

THE body of Paddy Harmon, veteran sports promoter, who died following an automobile accident yesterday, will be taken to the Chicago Stadium this afternoon and will lie in state there until time for the final rites, Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium, said last night. The bier will be placed in the center of the arena where the boxing ring usually stands. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Paddy Harmon, promoter and first president of the Chicago Stadium largest and most pretentious arena ever built to house sport contests, died yesterday noon, the victim of an automobile accident.

Harmon was fatally injured when he lost control of his automobile, traveling at high speed, on the Northwest highway toward the city. They were between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines when the accident happened. Mrs. May Harmon, his wife, and Dr. E. T. Brand, one of Harmon's closest friends, were injured in the crash.

The accident occurred when the Harmon car hit soft dirt at the side of the highway and turned over when Harmon attempted to swing back onto the pavement.

All Three Injured.

All three of the Harmon party were taken in an ambulance, summoned by witnesses of the accident, to the Des Plaines hospital. There Harmon died while efforts were being made to rush ceanothen, a coagulant, from Chicago. Dr. Robert Parks and Dr. Carl Nurnis, lacking the coagulant, were unable to stop a hemorrhage of the lungs.

E. W. La Barre, 4457 Oakenwald avenue, saw the accident.

"With G. P. Bradford, my partner, I was driving to Arlington," Barre said, "when we saw Harmon's sedan leave the road and turn over. Mr. Bradford and I stopped, ran to the wreck, and attempted to lift Harmon to our car. He was in great pain, but asked:

"'Where's my wife?'

"We told him she was lying across the road. While we attempted to administer to the three injured persons another motorist called the Des Plaines hospital and forty-five minutes later the ambulance arrived. Harmon spoke again then. 'Take my wife first,' he directed."

Dr. Parks said that the promoter's last request was that his body be placed in the Chicago Stadium.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon were driving to Chicago from Crystal Lake, where they had been living during the summer. Dr. Brand had been visiting them at Crystal Lake.

Mrs. Harmon suffered possible internal injuries and numerous abrasions, while Dr. Brand suffered a fracture of the pelvic bone and serious internal injuries.

Born Near Gashouse.

Paddy Harmon for several years was Chicago's most colorful sports promoter. He was born fifty-three years ago on Vedder street near the gashouse, where his father worked. Both father and mother were Irish folk from Kerry. There were ten children in the family and Paddy's father had a struggle to keep the family in necessities.

That was how Paddy Harmon began life. On March 28, 1929, Paddy Harmon climaxed the climb that started on Vedder street. With a stiff bosomed shirt gleaming under 30,000 watts of light, he stood in the ring of the Stadium he had built—it cost $6,000,000—and acknowledged the applause of 15,000 spectators of the Loughran-Walker fight.

That was the peak of Harmon's climb.

Loses Control of Stadium.

Within less than a year he had lost control of the big Stadium. His promotional efforts had failed to pack the building as he had expected they would. The board of directors, wealthy Chicagoans, began asking why the six day bicycle race had been a financial flop—and why this and that big fight went to Madison Square Garden.

Finally, charged with mismanagement, Harmon was forced out of the presidency of the building he had built. Sheldon Clark, millionaire oil man, and member of Harmon's original board, accepted a temporary presidency.

From that day on Harmon seemed to lose his grip.

He used to visit sport departments, hoping to find encouragement in his schemes to get back into the control of the Stadium. He wouldn't admit that he was through as Chicago's big time promoter—but he admitted that things were breaking badly.

Never Went to School.

One day not so long ago Paddy, reviewing his ups and downs, told this abbreviated story of his life:

"I never went to school, very much,

Laud Harmon as Friend of Clean Sport

Orville Taylor, a director of Chicago Stadium, last night made the following comment on the death of Paddy Harmon:

ORVILLE TAYLOR.

"Paddy possessed three traits—courage, loyalty, and vision—which made him the strong, dynamic and forceful character that he was. He was essentially a fighter, square, rugged, and erect. He dealt in big figures. Dollars had no special significance. His mind ran in millions. It was this that made him a constructive builder and precluded his being an economical executive.

"In his death I feel the loss of a real friend and one of the most interesting characters of my acquaintance. It can truly be recorded of him that he was at all times regular."

STROTZ PAYS TRIBUTE.

Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium corporation, yesterday issued the following statement:

"The officers and directors of the Chicago Stadium corporation are greatly shocked at the sudden death of Patrick T. Harmon. Paddy was a great fellow and we will keenly miss his advice and friendship. The Stadium will always stand as a monument to him—a true sportsman. We extend our sincerest sympathy to the Harmon family."

RING BOARD PRAISES WORK.

The Illinois state athletic commission at its regular meeting yesterday adopted a resolution expressing its sympathy to the family and friends of Mr. Harmon, describing him as "one of Chicago's foremost citizens, interested and active in the political and economic life of the city." The resolution was signed by Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman.

"The community and state mourn the loss of this man, who has been such an ardent devotee and advocate of clean sport in all its branches, and who, by principle and example, has made it possible for the youth of our city and state to compete in clean athletic contests under the most advantageous circumstances," it said. "His memory will be revered by the youth of Chicago and of Illinois."

SIREN IS FIRST IN YACHT RACE TO MACKINAC

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 22.—[Special.]—The Siren, fleet Q boat owned by Al and Olie Karas and flying the colors of the Chicago Yacht club, tonight was awarded first place in the racing division of the twenty-third annual Chicago to Mackinac race. Vagabond of the Milwaukee Yacht club was second and the Princess of Jackson Park third.

Quicksilver, owned by Col. A. M. Pierce of New York, won the cruising division trophy. No other places were awarded, as other boats in this class were becalmed far out in Lake Michigan.

Dorello, chief hope of the Milwaukee Yacht club in the racing division, limped into port with most of its canvas in shreds.

2 INJURED RIDERS LEFT IN WAKE OF 'CHASE WINNER

Hunt Is Unconscious in Elgin Hospital.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Chagrin Valley steeplechase run at Arlington yesterday and won by Autumn Bells, owned and ridden by James Simpson Jr., Chicago's best amateur rider, developed into the most sensational jumping event yet staged at the north side track.

Two horses fell and another bolted in the field of six. Two jockeys, D. Hutt and Harry Hunt, were seriously injured and were taken to St. Joseph hospital in Elgin. Jockey Hunt, who went down with his mount, Flit, at the second jump, still was unconscious early this morning.

Hutt's Collar Bone Broken.

Four Courts fell with Jockey Hutt at the eighth jump. Hutt sustained a broken collar bone and injuries to his right shoulder. When Astronomy bolted Jockey Fitzpatrick escaped without injuries.

After all these mishaps the chase became strictly a two horse affair between Autumn Bells and Irish Jig, with the amateur, Mr. Simpson, on Autumn Bells, which was jumping beautifully, outriding the professional Mike Sims, on Irish Jig.

Mr. Simpson's many friends in the Post and Paddock club almost gave him stage fright as they cheered him when the field reached the first jump. Autumn Bells lost considerable ground there, but the rider quickly brought the aged son of Ballot-Autumn II. back into stride, and by the time the fourth jump was cleared Autumn Bells was running out in front.

Wins by Five Lengths

As one horse after another went down, Autumn Bells continued to take the fences gracefully and was leading all the time by from two to four lengths. At the last jump Irish Jig moved up close, but Autumn Bells cleared the hedge confidently and went on to win by five lengths. Lord Hudson landed third money, but finished 30 lengths behind Irish Jig. He also hesitated at the eighth jump, but Jockey Murdock glanced around, discovered that all those behind him were either out or about out of the race, and rode his horse on out to get third money.

Mr. Simpson is the first amateur rider to win a race since steeplechasing was revived here.

It was the most exciting day's racing of the season at Arlington. Edward R. Bradley's silks continued to be popular and were carried to victory by his fleet colt B'ar Hunter in the Buoyant purse which engaged some of the smartest youngsters here.

B'ar Hunter Wins by Spurt.

Outbound outran B'ar Hunter to the stretch and headed for home a good length and a half in front. An eighth of a mile from the line of finish, Jockey Jimmy Smith made his drive with B'ar Hunter, and he went on to win by a length and a half. Pittsburgher closed in resolute fashion, but finished third back of Outbound.

Another hair lifting battle came in the Oregon purse at a mile, in which five of the candidates for next Saturday's Arlington handicap accepted the issue. Bobashella, from the Audley Farm stable, was made the odds on favorite and the son of Ormondale won just that way, beating Lativich easily, with Dr. Freeland showing fine speed all the way and running third.

Outpost First at 5-1.

In the Belvidere purse, Outpost, a Kentucky 3 year old, turned up as an unexpected winner, when he beat Supryse and Coral Beach on a brilliant run down the stretch. Paul Neal rode Outpost. It was the first real good riding exhibition he has turned in at Arlington, as he has been in a bad slump for almost a month. In the betting Outpost was 5 to 1.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

RACING DEVOTEES.

WHAT Arlington Park does aside from furnishing the highest class racing known in Chicago since the days of old Washington Park is to create a new class of turf followers. They are lured by the current talk of the beauties of the place and by the names of stake horses which appear so often in newspaper news reports.

Most of these newcomers will not become "regulars" in the sense that term is commonly used. But any one who ever attends a racing meet thereafter takes at least a cursory interest in the sport, and reads of turf happenings. Unquestionably most of them will attend one or more big stake events at other courses.

In drawing power there is just as much difference between a stake day with topnotch horses engaged compared to a card of selling and claiming horses as there is between a boxing show with champions engaged and a schedule of bouts between "ham and eggers." Doesn't that seem to indicate something in racing as a sport beyond mere speculation or betting?

The Wake always has admitted that betting was a necessary adjunct of racing. But we do not think that is racing's sole appeal. If it were, why should stake events so greatly outdraw ordinary cards? At Arlington Park Saturday Blue Larkspur was an odds-on choice. The public, for betting purposes, does not like odds-on choices. Play in the mutuel machines alwayz is less when there is such an outstanding favorite. Isn't the answer that the crowd wanted to see Blue Larkspur, champion 3 year old of 1929, in action against Petee-Wrack, Sun Beau, Toro, and Reveille Boy?

Granting that a modest wager enhances one's interest, The Wake hopes the time never will come when betting alone is the main attraction of a race meeting.

I'll be a flapper when I've grown,
The cutest dresses I shall wear,
Silk hosiery and high French heels—
I'll rouge my cheeks and curl my hair.

I'll have a suitor, dark and tall,
The finest gifts to me he'll bring,
And soon I'll sport a solitaire,
And after that a wedding ring.

In years to come, a lovely tot
Shall climb upon her mother's knee,
And in her eyes I'll see again
The winsome child that once was me.

WARNE FIRST IN POLE VAULT AT SWEDISH MEET

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 22.—(AP)—Tommy Warne of Northwestern and Reginald [Pete] Bowen of the University of Pittsburgh recorded victories in their specialties on the third day of an international athletic meet here today.

Warne won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet 9⅜ inches. H. Lindblad of Sweden was second at 13 feet 1½ inches and B. Anderson, Sweden, third at 12 feet 5½ inches.

Phil Collins, Pitcher for Phillies, Has a Perfect Day

There are two reasons for rejoicing today in the family of Phil Collins, pitcher for the Philadelphia National league baseball club. Yesterday at Philadelphia Collins pitched and batted his team to an 11 to 5 victory over the Pirates. At 2:30 this morning in the Washington Park hospital in Chicago a son was born to Mrs. Collins. He is the first child.

Collins was informed of the event by long distance telephone. "That makes it a perfect day," he said.

IT'S WILL POWER, NOT SYMPATHY, OLD ALEX NEEDS

Many Work Harder and Get Less.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Old Pete Alexander, the well known horrible example, has just been released by the Dallas club of the Texas league and he is very sad about it but do you suppose it ever occurred to Aleck to turn down his glass sometime?

This thing has been done by some very good men in various walks of life but Alexander staggers through a blurry world feeling tremendously sorry for himself all the while and expecting a lot of people who have enjoyed less luck and prosperity to sit down with him on a hard bench some where and bawl with him forever about the tragedy of it all. Most of the people who have been reading periodical laments for Grover Alexander at his various passings out of the game these last few years and feeling sorry for him have worked much harder and with better conscience for much less money than he made and probably have had much less fun out of life, too.

Outlasted Several Models.

Uquestionably Aleck has been a very able pitcher and a picturesque character but, after almost 21 years of pitching, he still believes he would have done much better if he had come up to the leagues with a white ribbon in his lapel and a pledge on his lips. But I suspect that he drew his schnapps from that keg of Gen. Grant's which Lincoln commended to his other generals, for he outlasted Mathewson and Johnson and many other athletes who ate their bran regularly, took 99 deep breaths before the open window on arising and spent their spare time perusing the lectures of William Muldoon.

At any rate, he held the remedy; and, inasmuch as he wouldn't apply it, that would seem to me to be just his hard luck.

It is my observation that, as a rule, such people get more chances to make good and have more excuses made for them than the people who work hard and conscientiously.

I have known about fifty newspaper men, who were supposed to be masterly writers when sober, who never were sober long enough to prove it; yet they bob up year after year, in one town or another, to hang up their hats and go to work in shops where jobs are supposed to be scarce, and less spectacular men with a sense of responsibility are out of work. They have a good time, because drinking is fun, and while they are enjoying their balmy state other persons are attending to their jobs, with the hope, perhaps, of becoming slightly plastered over the next week-end by the way of reward for their diligence.

Couldn't Stick on Job.

A few years ago, when Old Aleck was with the Cubs, arrangements were made to hold testimonial show for him on the Cubs' home grounds.

"He was to have received a share of the gate receipts and presents of one kind and another which would have had a pawnshop value of several hundred dollars. But the very day that the plan was decided upon, Alex went absent from the ball club in Philadelphia and didn't come out of the ether for some time, which conduct so annoyed the management of the firm that the testimonial was called off.

The Cubs and Cardinals permitted him to set his own pace, only asking him to show up for work every so often, but the old gent wouldn't always answer roll call on these frequent occasions and so they had to let him go.

Alexander Asked to Finish Season on Galesburg Team

Galesburg, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—An invitation to pitch the remainder of the season in Galesburg where he made his debut into organized baseball 20 years ago, was wired today to Grover Cleveland Alexander by the Galesburg Independents. Alexander has been released by the Dallas club of the Texas league.

Alexander came here from his home in St. Paul, Neb., to join the Galesburg club of the old Illinois-Missouri league when he was 22 years old, at a salary of $100 a month. In a short time he had become the hero of the league.

Major league scouts heard of his phenomenal pitching and came to watch him perform. Before they arrived, however, he was struck on the head by a ball while running to second base, and the blow left him with his eyes crossed. The scouts talked to him in the hospital and "Bill" Watkins of the Indianapolis club took a chance, buying Alexander from Galesburg for $750. His eyes improved and his rise to fame from then on is baseball history.

Was Mandell Doped? Kane Scouts Rumor

EDDIE KANE.

Kane, who is taking a vacation at Burt Lake, Topinabee, Mich., last night said Sammy simply had "stepped into a fast one."

The Rockford Register Gazette on Monday published a story quoting Mandell as saying that he believed he had been doped before entering the ring. The article said he was in a daze before the bout while he was in his dressing room.

The former champion refused last night to confirm or deny the story. He admitted that he felt groggy the day of the bout and has not been well since. He said he remembered nothing after coming to the center of the ring for instructions from the referee.

According to Kane, Mandell was normal before the battle. He limbered up in the dressing room as usual, the while assuring his handlers that he felt all right.

"How could he have been drugged?" Kane inquired. "Teddy Bodkins, his closest friend, was with him every minute. Teddy prepared the food. There's nothing to it; just a young reporter's wild dream."

Kane said he believed Sammy had been weakened by making the weight limit of 135 pounds. Every day during the training work at Orangeburg, N. Y. Kane stated that Mandell assured him he was having no trouble getting down to the required poundage.

Kane said Sammy never again would fight at 135 pounds, if at any weight.

Teddy Bodkin, the man who discovered Mandell and developed him to a big shot in pugilism, declined to comment on the Rockford story.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields and Chick Evans of Edgewater led the qualifiers in the western amateur golf tournament yesterday at the Beverly Country club. Each had a total of 147 for the two days of preliminary play.

Lloyd Nordstrom of Davenport, Ia., who was at the top with a 72 at the end of the first round, faltered yesterday and took an 84, but managed to stay among the select 32 who will begin match play today.

Four strokes behind Evans and Lehman came Don Armstrong of Aurora and Ira Couch of Glenview, and right at their heels were Cyril Tolley, last year's British amateur champion, George Dawson of Glen Oak, and Rudy Knepper of Onwentsia, all with 152.

Ten Tied for Last 2 Places.

Twenty-nine players shot 153 or better, and there were 10 tied at 153, who were forced to go extra holes to decide who would get the two remaining places.

Don Moe, the defending champion, was exempt from the preliminaries. T. P. Perkins, British amateur champion in 1923, shot a 79 yesterday, and this together with his first round of 75 gave him a place among the qualifiers.

Gus Fetz made a 4 on the first extra hold and became a qualifier when four of the others shot 5s and five took 6s. Those who shot 6 dropped out and those with 5s played a second hole for the one remaining place. Vin-

BRUINS SCORE 2 IN NINTH TO WIN FIRST GAME, 5-4

Lose Seven Inning Nightcap, 6-1.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—Our Cubs this afternoon went back into second place in the National league because they weren't able to win both games of a double header against the Giants. Charley Root won the first game, all right, 5 to 4, but Bud Teachout lost the second number, a rain soaked affair that ended 6 to 1 at the end of seven innings of play.

The carryings on today were dedicated to the law of averages. Root had lost four and won none on the current trip and Teachout had won three and lost none on this same journey.

Teachout Stops Rally.

The afternoon was not entirely bleak for Teachout, however, for in the last inning of the first game the Giants had the tying run on second and the winning run on first, with two out, when Cub emissaries scurried to the clubhouse in deep center and found Bud, half dressed, calmly contemplating duty in the second game. His raiment was speedily adjusted and in due time he came to the center of the diamond and disposed of Freddy Leach for the all important final putout.

The final and odd game of the present series with the Giants will be played tomorrow afternoon. Blake will pitch for the Cubs, and seeing how Bill Walker, a left hander, did so well this afternoon, Mr. McGraw probably will elect Carl Hubbell for service in the final.

In their failure to win the second the Cubs missed a chance to tie their season series with the Giants. The season ratio now is New York, 8; Chicago, 6. Our fellows are even on the trip, however, with 10 won and 10 lost. The team has five more games before reaching Wrigley field—one here, three in Philadelphia and one in Cincinnati.

It was rather brutal the way the Cubs teased the Giants during the early stages of the first game and also in the ninth.

Giants Score Early.

Root spotted the New Yorkers two runs in the first inning. Critz beat out an infield bouncer and went to third on Leach's single, whence he scored while English was throwing out Lindstrom. Terry singled to left, scoring Leach.

The Cubs got over a run in the third. Farrell singled, paused while Root flied to Roettger, and went to second on Blair's single to center. The bases were full when English beat out a hit to deep short. Cuyler sent a sacrifice fly to Ott, scoring Farrell.

In the fifth the Critz-Leach combination got together for another run. Critz singled to left with one out and went to third on Leach's single to center. Hughie scored on Lindstrom's sacrifice fly. Terry fanned.

Doc Farrell scored again in the seventh to make the score 3 to 2. He opened with a double to left center, paused while Root struck out after a three and nothing count, and came home on Blair's third hit, a single to right.

Cubs Tie Score.

The Cubs tied the score in the eighth in the following manner: Wilson singled to center, lingered while Dan Taylor fled to Ott, went to third on Grimm's single to right, and scored on Hartnett's single to center. Grimm went to third on the Hartnett hit, but was out at the plate, Marshall to Hogan, on Farrell's grounder.

Now here's the detail of the exciting ninth:

Blair rolled out to Terry and English supplied the second out by popping a foul to Lindstrom. Then Cuyler made his first hit of the game, a single to left and went to third on Hack's third single to center. Dan Taylor hit the first pitch for a single to right, scoring Cuyler and putting Wilson on third. Grimm bounced a single over Terry's head, scoring Wilson and putting Taylor on third. Fitzsimmons relieved Donohue and Hartnett fouled to Hogan.

SOX ERRORS GIVE BOSTON 4-3 WIN TO EVEN SERIES

Red Hose Score Two in 9th to Beat Henry.

Dutch Henry went out to win his third victory of the season for the White Sox yesterday, but emerged with his thirteenth defeat instead, Boston evening the series at Comiskey park by taking the fourth game, 4 to 3. The defeat dropped the White Sox to seventh place.

Until the ninth inning, Dutch apparently had achieved that third game, despite a pair of errors by Blondy Ryan.

Miller, the first batter in the Boston half of the ninth, flied to Reynolds. Reeves then gave the first intimation of a rally by singling to center for the seventh hit of the game off Henry. Berry followed his example and Russell was sent to first to run for him. Rothrock batted for Milt Gaston, who had allowed the Pale Hose seven hits during his labors on the mound.

With a double play in sight Rothrock slammed the ball at Cissell, who allowed it to seep through him, Reeves scoring the trying run on the error.

Henry went away at this point, and Lyons replaced him. Oliver greeted Ted with a single to center, scoring Russell, who had been sent in to run for Rothrock, with the winning run. Sweeney flied to Mulleavy and Regan to Reynolds to end the inning.

Fothergill Starts Futile Rally.

The Chicago Sox made an effort to adjust the situation in their half of the ninth, but it came to naught. Watwood fanned to open the inning. Then Bob Fothergill, former Tiger outfielder recently obtained on waivers, made his first appearance in a Chicago uniform. He pinch hitted for Mulleavy and drove a single to right. Jeffries was sent in to run for him, but Reynolds forced him, Miller to Regan. Jolley shoved Carl along to third with a hit, but the rally ended when Barnes rolled out to Sweeney.

Boston opened the day's scoring activities by counting a run in the second. After Webb and Durst had been eliminated, Miller drove a high one out to short center. Barnes made a great try for the ball, but it went for a two base hit. Reeves then hit to Ryan, but the rookie's throw to Watwood was erratic, and Miller scored. Reeves made the third out in trying to reach second.

Sox Get Three in 2d.

The White Sox attended to all of their scoring in the second. Cissell beat out a hit to Reeves and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Ryan and Tate drew successive passes, and Cissell tied the score on Henry's grounder to Sweeney. Watwood contributed a single, which brought Ryan and Tate home. Mulleavy struck out, but Reynolds came through with a single. Gaston then fanned Jolley to end the inning.

Henry restrained the Red Sox with five hits until the seventh inning, when they added their second run. Reeves walked and Berry smashed a single into Jolley's territory. Ryan lost Smead's return throw, Reeves reaching third and Berry second. Gaston's sacrifice fly brought Reeves home. Oliver popped to Cissell and Henry threw out Sweeney.

LUCY HEDBERG WINS IN JUNIOR WOMEN'S GOLF

Lucy Jane Hedberg of Skokie, who led the qualifiers Monday in the women's western junior golf championship at Evanston, yesterday continued her march toward the title by scoring a 7 and 6 victory over Roberta McKay of Midlothian. The outcome was never in doubt, for Miss Hedberg played golf worthy of a champion from the start. Her crowning achievement was an eagle 3 at the fifth hole, where she banged her tee shot 314 yards to the green and was down in two putts.

Mrs. Wallace Wins, 1 Up, in County Golf

Mrs. Edith Wallace played the stellar rôle in the women's Cook county golf meet at Jackson park yesterday by winning the hardest match of the day from Mrs. M. Bockman of Edgebrook, 1 up.

Mrs. Brockman played her opponent even to the 16th hole, squaring the match there for the third time, but Mrs. Wallace dropped a thirty foot putt at the 17th green to again go 1 up and took the match when the final hole was halved in fives.

Mrs. Al Demaree of Lincoln park, who led the qualifiers, defeated Mrs. M. Lubin of Jackson, 2 and 1, and Mary Sager of Lincoln beat Mrs. R. Pilkington of Jackson, 7 and 6.

Mrs. Nellie Fischer of Lincoln park, one of the favorites, was three up on her opponent, Mrs. F. Langer, also of Lincoln, at the turn, but went to pieces on the in nine, where Mrs. Langer won six holes for a 3 and 1 victory.

First round results:

Pantaleo-Hunt Bout Is Postponed for 2d Time

Boston, Mass., July 22.—(AP)—For the second consecutive day the ten round bout between Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., heavyweight, and Paul Pantaleo of Chicago today was postponed because of bad weather. It will take place tomorrow night at Braves field, weather permitting.

BOYS AND GIRLS, 1,351 OF 'EM, IN TRIBUNE SWIM

They'll Race for Statues Sunday at Lincoln Park.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirteen hundred and fifty-one boys and girls have entered THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swimming races in the Lincoln park lagoon next Sunday. All are between the ages of 12 and 15. Each will receive a merit badge for swimming the course.

15 in Each Preliminary.

With the possible exception of the older boys' class, no contestant will be forced to swim more than twice to win the bronze statues which are the champions' awards. Fifteen swimmers will compete in each preliminary race.

The contestants' names and their numbers will be printed in the program, which will be distributed free. Twenty-five thousand have been ordered.

All contestants must report to the Lincoln Park Canoe boathouse at noon for their numbers. None will be issued after 1:30 o'clock. The first race starts at 2 o'clock.

Boathouse on West Bank.

The boathouse is on the west bank of the outer lagoon just south of the stone bridge connecting the outer drive with the middle drive. It is approximately on a line with Fullerton avenue if extended.

The boys of Altgeld park and Manley Junior High school, who are coached by William Paulick, are completing their practice in a concerted drive for the badges and prizes. Paulick has a great number of students who have earned their junior Red Cross life saving badges. The boys train at the Douglas Park natatorium.

MOON MULLINS—THE OLD FAMILY FAILING

Paddy Harmon Promoter, Dies in Auto Crash

that is," said Paddy, "but when I did it was to the old Burr schoolhouse. You see, there was ten of us kids, and when I was five my father got hurt at the gashouse and was an invalid for many years. My brothers and I had to work or go hungry.

"So, you see," he continued, "there wasn't much chance to do a lot of learning. When I was seven I began peddling papers around North and Milwaukee avenues. When I was nine brother Martin [he's dead now] and me got a contract to snuff the gaslights in our district. It was a good contract. We got sixty dollars a month for snuffing 900 lights a morning. Ran from light to light and put 'em out with a stick we shoved up through a hole in the bottom of the globe. Usually we got through by six o'clock. Then came the papers.

"We turned the money over to mother and she kept the home going.

Takes Up Amusements.

"When I was 14 my brother and me got a news corner at North and Milwaukee. One of the best corners in town, and we made money. Well, that went on for two years and then I went into the amusement business.

"You see [Paddy said 'you see' a thousand times an hour] in those days us young folks had one cheap amusement. It was dancing. When I was 16, one Sunday a crowd of us engaged Walsh's hall, at Noble and Milwaukee avenue, for a dance. The rent for the evening was $40. I was chairman of arrangements and when the time came to pay the rent I passed the hat joshing the young fellows and kidding their girls. I collected $83. The janitor saw how much I had, and he said, 'Young fellow, why don't you rent the place steady and run dances? You'll make a lot of money.'

"My mother was against it, but when I was determined she named my dancing club the Victorian. Mother once worked in an English shop where the queen got her hats and so thought the queen was the grandest woman in the world.

Friends Are Absent.

"The first Sunday night I opened none of my friends showed up. There was exactly $8.30 worth of customers there. The admission was a dime for ladies, 15 cents for gents. But on the next Sunday I enlarged the band from three to six pieces and started a waltz contest. It took and before long the hall was crowded. On the final night of the contest I found the judges were ruling off a good waltzer named O'Connor because they wanted another lad to win, and I stopped the contest and put O'Connor back on the floor and he won.

"I believe in treating the folks square. Always have and always will.

"Well, about two weeks later the management canceled my lease; thought I was making too much money, and I was out on the street. O'Connor comes to me and says, 'Paddy, what can I do for you?' I says, 'Well, there's only one thing. Next Sunday afternoon when you call the quadrille you just say, 'Ladies and gents, the Victorias has moved to Central Turner hall on Milwaukee avenue.' O'Connor made the announcement and next Sunday I had all the customers and not a single couple danced in Walsh's hall.

Turns to Skating.

"I was started off successfully.

"Folks believed in me.

"My next big venture was roller skating. I bought and paid for the first 300 roller skates the Richardson company made, and before I got through I had half the young folks in town rolling along.

"Well, I went rolling along, too, and finally got in the concession business at Riverview. Made a lot of money there on my dance hall. Used to have 14,000 admissions paid on Sundays. Finally the present owners bought me out.

"Then, in 1912 I put on the first bike race at the Dexter park pavilion. A few years later I bought Dreamland dance hall, and then the Arcadia.

"It's Harmon's Place."

"And in 1926 I got the idea of building the stadium. Everybody laughed at me. I didn't have an awful lot of money. But my friends stuck by me and the stadium was opened. I'm proud of that job. Whether I'm president or not doesn't matter. Everybody knows it's Harmon's place."

After his dismissal from the stadium last November Harmon was a candidate in the Republican primaries for the office of sheriff of Cook county, but was defeated.

Although he was best known as a successful sports promoter, Harmon won thousands of friends through his activities each Christmas as Santa Claus to the poor children of the west side, filling a place in the city's philanthropic life. His greatest joy was to care for youngsters whose start in life was typical of his own. Year after year he fed and provided presents for as many as ten thousand youngsters.

Besides his widow he is survived by his 4 year old daughter, Patricia, an adopted son, Frank; one brother, Maurice, and four sisters, Katherine, Margaret, Stella, and Mamie.

cent Dolp made a 4 and Frank Thompson was within easy putting distance of a 4 also, when the officials ruled that he had taken a practice swing within a club's length of the ball on his approach shot and added a penalty stroke. In spite of protests the edict stood. All the others took 5 or more and so Dolp went into the championship field.

Jack Westland, Chicago district title holder, came back with a 75 after his weak 81 of the first day and earned the right to stay in the tournament. Charlie Becka of Calumet, who was runner-up to Westland, qualified with 154.

Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, who won the western amateur in 1925, had another off day and took an 81, but just managed to get under the wire with a total of 158.

None Shoots Par.

The trans-Mississippi title holder, Bob McCrary, got into the championship field with 153. Larry Moller of Notre Dame, who went to the finals of the national intercollegiate tournament, withdrew yesterday, apparently discouraged with his first round of 81.

The course continued to baffle the contestants yesterday and no one has yet been able to shoot par. Chick Evans seemed about to perform the feat until his approach to the last green landed in a trap and put him one over.

To the Lehman for the lead, Evans was forced to shoot a 72 yesterday to make up for the two strokes by which Johnny led him at the end of the first round.

He got a weak start when he sent his approach to the left of the green, chipped one and took three putts for a six to go two over par on the first hole. He drove into a bunker on the third and took a four, which put him three strokes over.

He began getting them back by sinking a ten foot putt for a birdie on the fourth and picked up another on the seventh by laying his approach six feet from the pin. Then he became even par by one putting the fourteenth. All went well until the eighteenth, when his trapped approach again put him one over par.

Receipts at Chicago today, 8,500 cattle, 26,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep.

Another break of 25@40c in the market for light hogs brought top prices to the lowest level in three weeks. Others declined 10@25c and were easier to dispose of later in the day. Top sales declined to $9.40, showing 60c loss in two days, while the general average came down 20c more at $8.80, which compares with $9.00 last Friday and Saturday, the high days of last week.

The recent break of 5c per pound in lightweight fresh pork loins has curtailed shipping orders and limited the buying power of smaller local packers and butchers, resulting in an accumulation of stock averaging 170 lbs and less. Some of the 6,000 left consisted of this class, which had to be peddled on the "catch as catch can" trade after a few early orders had been filled.

Report Big Gain.

Lamb producers received another staggering blow yesterday, when buyers came on the market with orders to reject all buck lambs from bands at $1 discount in price. Many loads were sorted more than 50 per cent because of the few ewes and wethers in native offerings. Some whole carloads of buck lambs had to go at the full reduction.

Declines of 25@50c were general, only ewe and wether natives selling at $9.25@9.50, while top westerns cleared at $9.50@9.85. Feeding lambs were hard to dispose of at $6.50@7.00 late.

Buck natives sold at $8.25@8.50 and strong weight culls at $6.00@6.50. The government reports a big gain in this year's lamb crop, which is estimated at 8 per cent, or 2,000,000 head larger than a year ago. The United States has 28,458,000 on hand, against 26,441,000 a year ago and 26,363,000 two years ago. Natives show an increase of 4 per cent and westerns 9.5 per cent, compared with a year ago.

Well finished weighty beeves and fancy light yearling steers were scarce and held steady yesterday, while plain quality ruled weak to unevenly lower. Some sales of common 700@1,000 lb steers at $5.50@6.00 were below any period since December, 1924, and the lowest for July since 1921. Prime 1,390 lb steers topped the list at $10.85 and 1,000@1,240 lb cattle sold at $10.65, while $8.00@10.00 took the bulk of steers.

Feeding Lambs Slump.

The unsatisfactory condition of the cash trade for feeding lambs caused buyers to lower their bids for contracts on the futures market yesterday. One buyer was willing to pay $7.00 for 1,200 medium wool black face mountain lambs averaging 57@62 lbs for delivery during the first half of next month and the same price for 800 of similar quality and weight for the first half of September.

About 800 medium wool 57@62 lb white face feeding lambs for September were bid $6.75. Trading in hog futures was more active in face of a sharp break on the cash trade. Prices ruled steady to 10c lower, September light selling at $9.50, with mediums for the same month opening at $9.45 and closing at $9.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,500 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 19,056 cattle, 19,184 hogs, and 17,258 sheep on the previous Wednesday and 9,830 cattle, 16,699 hogs, and 10,292 sheep a year ago.

LARD TRADE SLOW

Lard traders yesterday reported a little foreign buying and scattered commission house buying but in all business was light. Values held well and closed 2½@5c higher, except for December, which was unchanged. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower, the latter on October. Hog prices were 15@40c lower, despite the small receipts, as compared with a week and a year ago.

There was no trade in bellies for future delivery and cash business was only fair. American hams in Liverpool were 2s lower. Exports of lard were 795,450 lbs and of bacon 364,500 lbs. Prices follow:

IMPROVEMENT IS REPORTED IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Oil Output Declines Sharply Again.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Further moderate recovery in the steel industry this week and another sharp decline in petroleum production last week were the most cheerful items in yesterday's business news. Improvement in steel production marked the first advance in some time, except for the recovery from the abnormal curtailment that attended the Independence day holiday period. And the decline in petroleum output indicated that the old bugbear of overproduction has about vanished.

Ingot production for the steel industry as a whole is placed slightly above 57½ per cent of capacity this week, compared with 57 per cent last week and 48 per cent during the July 4 curtailment period. However, the current showing is less cheerful when compared with a rate of 95 per cent a year ago and 73 per cent two years ago.

The United States Steel corporation now is operating around 64 per cent, compared with 63 per cent last week, 99 per cent a year ago, and 76 per cent two years ago. Independents now are running at 52 per cent, which is unchanged from last week and compares with 92 per cent a year ago and 70½ per cent two years ago.

In Chicago District.

Steel ingot output was slightly lower in the Chicago district this week, averaging 50 to 60 per cent of capacity as compared with 60 to 65 per cent last week. Two blast furnaces were taken off last week, one by the United States Steel corporation and the other by Inland Steel company.

The National Tube company, a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel corporation, announced the receipt of a contract for 75,000 tons of pipe for the gasoline pipe line to be built by the Great Lakes Pipe Line company, a subsidiary of the Continental Oil company and the Barnsdall corporation.

Petroleum production has been brought down to the lowest level of the year and a steady decrease in storage stocks of gasoline is being effected. The daily average gross crude oil output last week was 2,500,100 barrels, a decline of 30,700 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute.

The principal curtailment again occurred in Oklahoma, whose output was reduced by 29,700 barrels a day. The state proration commission has signed a proration order reducing production to an average of 550,000 barrels a day until Sept. 1. This marks a further reduction of 100,000 barrels a day.

Refiners last week curtailed their operations to 69.3 per cent of capacity, compared with 71.2 per cent in the previous week. Daily takings of crude oil were 2,446,000 barrels, compared with 2,511,000 in the preceding week. Gasoline stocks were reduced to 45,937,000 barrels, compared with 47,792,000 in the previous week.

Motion Picture Survey.

An interesting survey of the motion picture industry was issued yesterday by Halsey, Stewart & Co., investment bankers, who have been active in financing the industry.

"Motion pictures have grown from a mere idea to a two billion dollar industry in less than 35 years," the survey says. "Weekly attendance at theaters averages 115,000,000 persons, or almost equal to the population of the United States. The investment in theaters and exhibition equipment is around $1,250,000,000 and approximately $125,000,000 is expended annually in the production of pictures.

"Transition from the silent picture to the present sound picture was one of the most rapid moves ever made by an industry, the change, calling for more than $500,000,000 in new capital, being made within the space of a single year. Sound has opened up a new era of progress and prosperity unparalleled in the history of the industry."

Corn Rises on Estimates of Heat Damage

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy damage was done to the corn crop throughout the west by the recent heat wave, according to reports received by the grain trade.

General commission house and local buying based on the belief that the prospective yield had been cut 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 bu as compared with the July 1 indication lifted prices yesterday 1⅜@4c over Monday's finish with no pressure of consequence on the way up, the deferred months selling at a new high on the present movement. The finish was about the top, with net gains of 1⅝@3¾c, with July, 82⅞c; September, 81⅝@81½c, and December, 76⅞@77½c.

Forecast for dry and warmer weather over the corn belt also attracted considerable attention, and many of the local element who sold on the rains over the week-end covered short lines and some turned to the bull side. There is a strong impression in some quarters that the rains came too late in parts of the west to have much effect on the yield, and the government weather crop summary today is awaited with considerable interest.

Farmers Feeding Wheat.

Unless more rain precedes another hot wave the trade looks for a resumption of crop damage reports from a wide area, as the withering heat prevailed over parts of the belt for nearly three weeks, during which period there was little or no rain. July corn at the close was only 5½c under wheat, the narrowest spread so far, and the extremely small difference is bringing in numerous reports of farmers feeding wheat, especially in Kansas, where corn is scarce.

Good rains were shown by official reports over parts of Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, and more eastern states, but they were ignored by the trade. Sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up. December at the top showed 8⅝c above the inside figure of July 14.

Strength in corn with reports of a liberal export demand, sales of domestic hard winters since July 1 being estimated by the seaboard at around 20,000,000 bu, and increasing reports of black rust from Manitoba and Saskatchewan resulted in wheat closing at net gains of ⅝@⅞c, with July, 88⅜c; September, 91½@91⅝c, and September, 97⅜@97½c.

A decline of ⅜@⅞d in wheat futures in Liverpool failed to disturb the relative difference between that market and Chicago, and there were bids received here from abroad close to a working basis.

Buyers of Oats.

Aggregate trade in wheat was not large and the market easily influenced. Hedging pressure was the smallest in some time. Winnipeg was 1@1⅛c higher despite the recent rains in the prairie provinces, while Buenos Aires was ⅞c higher, with September in that market 96½c, or about 5c over Chicago.

Cash and commission houses were good buyers of oats and there were export inquiries in the market for the first time this season. Strength in corn had considerable influence. Final trades were ¼@⅝c higher, with July, 34⅜@34½c, and September, 37⅜c.

Rye showed more strength than wheat and closed 1¼@1¾c higher with commission houses on the buying side. July finished at 54⅜c, and September, 57c. Hamburg bought a little rye at the seaboard. December rye was sold against purchases of December wheat at 34½@35c difference.

PIERCE-ARROW EARNS $569,277 IN 2D QUARTER

Buffalo, N. Y., July 22.—[Special.]—Net profits of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car company for the quarter ending June 30 were $569,277, compared with $461,401 in the first quarter, a gain of 23.4 per cent. Net of the second quarter last year was $1,288,642. For the first six months this year the net profits were $1,030,678 against $1,737,174 last year.

As of June 30, the company's quick assets amounted to $6,341,160 or 648 per cent of its current liabilities, amounting to $978,622. All bank loans were liquidated and the company was free of indebtedness for the first time in many years. Bonds and purchase money debts amounting to $4,637,642 were paid off prior to Jan. 1 this year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—The statement of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. for the second quarter of this year shows a net income of $15,603,688 after charges, including federal taxes, equivalent in dividends on the debenture stock to $1.33 a share on the average number of 10,629,447 common shares outstanding during the period.

This compares with $16,296,567, or $1.44 a share on the average number of 10,298,553 shares outstanding for the similar quarter of last year. Previously the company had announced that earnings for the second quarter, with June estimated, would be $1.31 a share. At the end of June the company had outstanding 10,709,823 common shares of $20 par value.

The net income for the first six months was $32,951,314, equal after dividends on the debenture stock, to $2.84 a share on the average number of 10,546,670 shares outstanding, compared with $41,536,412, or $3.84 a share, after similar deductions, on the average number of 10,968,281 shares outstanding during the first six months of 1929. The main reason responsible for the reduction in the net income during these periods was the decline in revenue from its investment in General Motors from $24,950,131 during the 1929 period to $17,965,065 during the first six months of this year.

START PROBE OF TERMS IN STEEL MERGER SUIT

Additional Bonuses Are Revealed.

Youngstown, O., July 22.—(AP)—Attorneys for Cyrus S. Eaton, waging a court battle against the billion dollar merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation, completed their probe of Bethlehem bonuses today and launched inquisition into the terms of the merger and the buying of stock to be voted for the merger.

Following the promise of President Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem, defense attorneys furnished figures on the bonuses paid to Bethlehem vice presidents during 1929 and the first half of 1930, and they were introduced into evidence by the Eaton attorneys.

Grace testified yesterday his own bonus in 1929 was $1,623,753 and for the first half of 1930 $701,968. The bonuses paid to vice presidents for the same periods were:

	1929.	First Half. 1930.
O. Brent	$378,664	$163,701
C. A. Buck	378,664	163,701
J. M. Gross	110,077	47,588
H. E. Lewis	375,784	61,146
R. E. McMath	134,538	58,162
J. H. Ward	54,305	23,477

Others Get $370,548.

Lewis retired Feb. 28, this year. Other officers who shared in the Bethlehem bonus plan received a total of $370,548 for 1929. The Eaton attorneys called George May, Southport, Conn., senior partner in Price-Waterhouse company of New York, to the stand when court opened and dismissed him a few minutes later to give him a chance to produce the source material of the audit report which was prepared by his firm and used as a basis of negotiations for the Youngstown-Bethlehem deal.

R. E. Momath, financial vice president and secretary of Bethlehem, then went to the stand as a "hostile" witness for the plaintiffs. McMath was interrogated about a dinner at the Links club in New York on March 13, this year, which was attended by himself, Grace, Elton Hoyt II., partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., ore firm, and Grayson M. P. Murphy, New York stock broker. Grace, Hoyt, and Murphy have testified the purchase of Sheet and Tube stock was discussed at this meeting. McMath substantiated this.

Murphy's Understanding.

The witness said he did not remember any order being given to Murphy to buy stock and he regretted, he stated, that Bethlehem could not buy

Use of Natural Energy Is Seen Measure of Progress

BY SCRUTATOR.

There is undiscovered romance in more than one compilation of figures. Among these might be cited that made by F. G. Tryon of the bureau of mines on the annual supply of energy used in the United States.

The statistics go back to 1859. In those days men wore whiskers and used their muscles and their horses for heavy work. The natural energy applied to the uses of the human race was derived from coal and mainly from anthracite coal. Altogether there were 419 trillion British thermal units of it.

That unit is small and the figures are so astronomical that they mean little to the layman in themselves. But in 1929 the country consumed 26,471 trillions of these units or sixty times as much of the stored energy of the sun as in the era just preceding the civil war. Coal still was the principal source, but oil, natural gas and water power electricity were strong rivals.

Cites Upward Trend.

Even up until the turn of the century there was no such application of power as we know it today. The 1929 consumption of energy from the earth and the waters on it was three and a half times as large as it was in 1899. In actual practice, the application of that energy was much greater. Improvements in steam generation and in mechanical devices had progressed until far more power than the figures indicate was substituted for the sweat of man and beast.

Within the mineral fuel classification—leaving the water power out of the discussion for the moment—there has been an almost revolutionary change even since the war days. In 1918 coal furnished 85 per cent of the thermal output of energy; oil 11.2 per cent and natural gas the remainder. Coal has been losing ground almost steadily since, and in 1929 it represented only 65.3 per cent of all the mineral fuels. The oil energy use had risen to 26.5 per cent and the natural gas to 8.2 per cent.

The consumption of coal in thermal units has never been so high since as it was in the last war year, although that year's total was approached by 1920, 1923 and 1926. From 1918 to 1929 the consumption of both oil and natural gas had almost tripled. At the same time, the amount of water power used had more than doubled, although there was a letdown last year as against the one previous, due mainly to droughts in various parts of the country.

Machine Age Here to Stay.

More natural energy was used in 1929 than in any year before it. This, after all, is the measure of progress. All the coal and the oil and the gas and the hydro power mean more efficient service to the race and more leisure. It is no use inveighing, as the pinks and the reds do, against the machine age. It is here and we must live with it. Perhaps it has destroyed some of the delights that went with a simpler setup of society. But it makes it possible for one man to do more work in the same time. Its maladjustments, including the great evil of unemployment, will have to be remedied. To go back to a system that would require a longer time for one man to do a given amount of work in order that there might be enough work for all would be absurd.

There is no danger that we will. Plans to pipe additional trillions of cubic feet of gas over hundreds of miles within a year or two are being carried out. Oil men are branching out for new markets and conservation by extracting more units of heat from each gallon. Coal men, notably those in Illinois, are intelligently seeking to find smokeless combustion methods.

FORM COMBINE OF THREE BANKS ON WEST SIDE

Consolidation of three west side banks was announced last night and will become effective today. The State Savings Bank and Trust company, Roosevelt road and Kedzie avenue, will absorb the Public State bank, Roosevelt road and Blue Island avenue, and the Superior State bank, St. Louis avenue and 16th street.

ALFRED K. FOREMAN.

"The consolidation is a natural step in the growth and development of the community served by the three banks," Alfred K. Foreman, president of the State Savings bank and also vice president of the Foreman-State National bank, explained. "The larger institution which results from the amalgamation will be enabled to offer greater facilities and more comprehensive service to the business people and residents of the neighborhood."

Bernard Horwich, president of the Public and Superior banks, will become a director of the State Savings Bank and Trust.

STOCK MARKET PERKS UP AND DEFEATS BEARS

Recovers Many of Monday Losses.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—The stock market pulled itself together once more today. It recovered a good part of Monday's losses and withstood a series of fresh bear attacks designed to extend the reaction in great shape. Leading issues gave an especially fine performance, thus apparently setting to rest week-end rumors to the effect that interests who had been affording something in the way of aggressive leadership to the bull side had decided to take to the sidelines until the business and crop outlook cleared more definitely.

Thus the final prices showed American Can was up 4⅝ points, Consolidated Gas, up 3; Waterworks, 4⅜; Radio, 3⅜; General Electric, 2⅛; Johns-Manville, 3⅝; Columbian Carbon, 4; Eastman Kodak, 5⅝, and U. S. Steel, 1⅞ points.

Dealings again were mainly by professionals, the turnover barely topping the 2,000,000 share mark.

Earnings Statements.

The news of the day was not particularly important in shaping the course of operations, taking the form for the most part of semi-annual corporation earnings statements, which, on the whole, were not as disappointing as had been generally expected. Several concerns, in fact, were able to

MARKET

There are opportunities in the bond market right now which merit the serious consideration of every investor. In line with our policy of recommending the inclusion of bonds in practically all investment accounts, we have available a diversified list of offerings.

■ At the same time, the revival of interest in bonds should not obscure opportunities of other kinds in the securities markets. It must be apparent that now is one of the few times in a decade when common stocks generally are available at depressed levels. This is essentially true whether or not the absolute lows have yet been reached—whether or not a minor reaction may take place before the broad upward movement gets under way. When the business revival gains momentum, present prices for most common stocks will appear to be most attractive.

There is a way in which the conservative investor may benefit from this situation without assuming substantial risk. The Allotment Certificates of National Securities Investment Company represent one share of 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock, one-half share of Common Stock and the right to January 1, 1934 to buy another half share of Common at the rate of $15 per share, approximately its present market price. The assets of the Company consist largely of a widely diversified list of common stocks of outstanding companies. The per share book value of the Preferred Stock, valuing securities held at current market quotations, is well over 50% in excess of the current market price for the unit, a wide margin of safety. An investment in the Allotment Certificates at present prices of around 85 yields a return of better than 7%. The Common Stock in the unit affords an opportunity to benefit from any rise in the general market.

We recommend the Allotment Certificates of National Securities Investment Company as a peculiarly effective way to have a stake in leading American stocks at present prices while obtaining around 7% on the funds invested. Full details may be had upon request. ■ Ask for CT25.

175 Per Cent Average Annual Gain
Over a 10-year period, cash and stock dividends, "rights" and market appreciation of Cities Service common have yielded an average annual gain of 175%. Net earnings for 12 months ended June 30, 1930, set a new "all-time" high record: 63.51% over the preceding year. New high earnings records are being established monthly by Cities Service Company, while other corporations report declining earnings. This is the result of extensive operations in the natural gas and petroleum fields. Construction work on the new 1,000 mile natural gas pipe line to Chicago is under way.
Financial authorities believe that Cities Service appears to be entering the greatest development stage of its remarkable career.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A change in sentiment is observable in the grain trade, as well as in a number of other lines, as seen by one of the closest observers of the trade situation who is in touch with conditions. It is not expected that grain prices will advance sharply, but that they will hold around the present level and, while occasional declines are looked for, he expresses the belief that they will not be so severe and that rallies will come.

A number of corn specialists are extremely bullish, basing their belief on extreme damage to the crop in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and wherever the plant is in tassel and has to stand temperatures of around 105. A former Nebraska corn man says that he has never seen such a continued hot spell in that state and in Kansas as during the last two weeks, as temperatures have averaged around 100 to 105, some points reporting 108 to 111. Old timers in the corn trade point to periods when hot waves, less severe than the present one, burnt up the Nebraska corn crop in three days.

Black rust has been found on stems in test plots at the University of Saskatchewan. John Armstrong, a rust specialist, is making a research and finds rust on garnet wheat, also on little club variety. A little white wheat is also susceptible to this disease. He is quoted as saying that the probability of heavy damage to the spring wheat crop depends on weather conditions between now and harvest.

I. C. C. REFUSES TO ALTER RAIL GROUPING PLAN

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission will not alter for the present any provisions of the plan announced last December for consolidating the nation's railroads into 21 trunk line systems.

Trade bodies in Philadelphia, the Moffet Tunnel league in Colorado and the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine railroad in Texas had asked the commission to reconsider terms of the plan.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and other interests in turn asked the commission to refuse the reconsideration petitions.

The commission today gave notice it would not take up the whole subject again and dismissed the petitions asking it to do so.

Copper Exporters, Inc., Cuts Export Price to 11.30c

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Copper Exporters, Inc., today reduced the price of export copper one-fourth of a cent a pound to 11.30 cents, c. i. f. European base ports. The reduction brought the export price on a parity with the domestic level of 11 cents a pound, at which custom smelters and producers have been offering the metal for several years.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw futures were firmer today, with refiners showing more interest in offerings on what was said to be anticipation of a fresh movement in refined. Sales of both duty frees and Cubas were reported, including an overnight transaction involving the purchase of 28,000 bags of Porto Ricos to a refiner at 3.27c delivered. Refiners came into the market today and purchased 28,000 bags of Cubas for prompt shipment and 7,000 bags of Philippines, both at the basis of 3.28c delivered. Raw futures were firmer in sympathy with the steadier tone to spots and traders were closely watching developments in both the spot and refined markets. Trading as a whole, however, was restricted with total sales for the day amounting to slightly less than 30,000 tons. Prices follow:

The price for fine granulated remained unchanged at 4.70c, with second hands available at 4.60@4.65c.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures lost part of yesterday's advance under realizing or scattered selling which was promoted by reports that some of the cost and freight offers from Brazil were slightly lower. No. 7 contracts closed 66@17 lower: sales, 20,000 bags. Santos closed unchanged to 15 lower: sales, 15,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos, July, 13.06c; September, 11.67c; December, 10.44c; March, 9.82c; May, 9.60c. No. 7 prices follow:

Spot coffee dull. Rio 7s, 7½@7¾c. Santos 12¾@13c. Brazilian port receipts, 52,000 bags. Jundiahy, 24,000 bags.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Cotton goods held fairly steady today, but demand was lighter, partly in consequence of weaker raw cotton markets. Silk eased off again. Silk goods for fall were selling better. The new prices named by the American Woolen company on lightweight men's wear for spring, 1931, already have caused a downward revision of other lines. Buying was reported to be of fair volume.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL.—Was moderately active today with the tone unsettled by the irregular action of other markets. Most of the time the tone was somewhat easy under wire house liquidation due to the early decline in cotton. The close, however, was fairly steady, reflecting the recovery in cotton. Old contracts closed unchanged to 25 points lower and new contracts unchanged to 10 points lower. Total sales were 5,450 bbls, including 3,500 bbls of old contracts and 1,950 bbls of new contracts. Prime crude, nominal; prime summer yellow spot, old, 8.00c; July closed

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET PRICES MOVE UPWARD

Auburn Recovers 4 Points in Light Trading.

Prices on the Chicago Stock Exchange moved slightly upward yesterday. However, trading for the second day this week was exceedingly light and the dearth of activity among the tradest found reflection in the price range—there were neither sensational gains nor noteworthy recessions.

Auburn provided the day's greatest gain by climbing 4 points to 123 on a turnover of 900 shares. Raytheon in the radios slipped down to 15¾ during the day and then went up to a close of 20—a gain of 3 points. The greatest loss was charged against Chicago Railways, series 1 certificates, which at a close of 20 was off 5 points on a transfer of 10 shares.

Investment trusts were firm again. Corporation Securities, Chicago Corporation, Chicago Investment Corporation, and Insull Utilities were up fractionally, while Continental Chicago, closing at 43¾, was off ¼ a point. Trading in this division was slightly more active than usual.

Automotives Show Firmness.

Automotives were firm. Borg Warner was up 1 point to 30 on a turnover of 3,200 shares. Bendix was ¾ to the good at 32¾, and Cord gained a fraction to close at 8⅛.

In the general list there were a number of a point and better gains. Abbott Laboratories was up 1½ to close at 43⅛. Electric Household advanced 1⅛ to 45½, and Great Lakes Dredge in closing at 31 was up 1⅝. Modine advanced a point to 51½. General Theaters Equipment gained ½ point, closing at 34½.

Lincoln Printing, which advanced ½ to close at 23¾, reported earnings, after taxes and depreciation, amounting to $425,546 for the first six months of 1930. This was a 21 per cent gain over the same period in 1929, when the earnings were $351,412. After allowing for the preferred dividend there remains $2.12 per share applicable to the common stock, more than covering the entire year's dividend of $2 now being paid on this issue.

In the utilities, Commonwealth Edison went up 2 points to 292 and Public Service of Northern Illinois rose 1 point to 272. Middle West Utilities, the day's most active stock, remained at 29⅞ on a turnover of 17,650 shares. Cities Service, up ⅞, closed at 28⅞. Central States Power and Light was off 3 points, finishing at 90.

Starts Gas Delivery.

Officials of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company reported that the delivery of natural gas at Cannelton, Ind., has just been started through its subsidiary, the Indiana-Kentucky Natural Gas corporation.

In the radios Grigsby-Grunow was more active than Monday, gaining ¼ to close at 14½ on a turnover of 13,550 shares. Majestic Household recovered 1 point to close at 36⅛.

Preliminary figures issued by Railroad Shares corporation indicate that the corporation will show as of July 12 a surplus of over 1¾ times the amount of $106,261 paid out for the June 16 dividend and also a liquidating value of about 1½ times the present market value of the corporation's common stock.

Union Pacific Reports June Income of $1,479,521

New York, July 22.—(AP)—The Union Pacific railroad today reported net operating income for June of $1,479,521, against $2,741,099 in June last year, and $9,308,093 for the first half this year, against $16,200,796 for the like period last year.

CHICAGO CURB EXCHANGE STOCKS

Less active issues showed the chief changes on the Chicago curb yesterday, while market leaders held around former levels. Rustless Iron was in good demand and unchanged from the previous close. American Corporation securities came to life, the warrants changing hands actively, and both issues showing net losses of ⅝. Stein jumped over two points on a single trade. American Tobacco B and Hammond Clock were fractionally improved, while Borin Vivitone slipped 1⅝ points on small sales.

Cuts Price of Rayon to Maintain Textile Parity

New York, July 22.—(AP)—The Viscose company has announced that, due to the lower price trend for the last few months in textiles, and particularly the recent sharp decline in silk, it had reduced the price of rayon to maintain the price parity which has existed between the two fibres. The reductions in bright deniers range from 20c to 25c a pound.

MRS. SNYDER TO OPEN A BRANCH IN MDSE. MART

Rents Space for Her 11th Candy Shop.

BY AL CHASE.

Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, who has ten downtown candy stores, at last has decided to open a branch outside the loop. Yesterday she signed a ten year lease for her eleventh chocolate shop. It will be in the world's largest building, the new Merchandise Mart, and will be the only candy store in that huge structure, she states. It is 40x 16, and will be decorated in the modernistic manner with the opening set for October 1st. It is located on the main floor, near the Marshall Field entrance, right off the main restaurant and facing the bank.

MRS. ORA SNYDER. [Melvin H. Sykes Photo.]

With the signing of the lease by Mrs. Snyder the Merchandise Mart is now 85 per cent rented, according to the building management. There are only two stores remaining unrented on the ground floor of the big building.

Construction in Chicago.

Construction contracts let in Chicago during the period from July 12th through July 18th totaled $1,073,000, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation, distributed as follows: Nonresidential buildings, $639,000, and residential buildings, $434,000. Of the former class $395,000 was for industrial and $146,000 for commercial structures.

For July to date contracts let in Chicago amounted to $6,035,000. This was at the rate of $402,400 per business day. In July, 1929, the daily rate of contract letting for Chicago was $891,300.

Prairie Avenue Deal.

Donald J. Chinnock has sold to the Morgan Laundry Service, Inc., the property at 2340 Prairie avenue, lot 51x169, improved with a three story apartment building, subject to $12,000. As part payment the buyer gave the two story garage at 2958-60 Vernon avenue, lot 52x115, which was leased back for five years at an undisclosed rental. Paul Steinbrecher & Co., were brokers.

The Stony Island State Savings bank, trustee, has sold the six stores and twenty flats at the southeast corner of Ashland avenue and 77th street, lot 100x125 feet, to Samuel Inlander for a reported $150,000.

Mrs. Julia A. Bradley has purchased the six flat building at 2115-17 Birchwood avenue from James T. O'Malley for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $36,800. Phelan & Ure were brokers. John J. Kelley and Wilbert V. Dunne were attorneys.

U.S. Steel Gets Option to Buy Oil Well Supply Co.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 22.—(AP)—Benjamin F. Harris, president of the Oil Well Supply company, announced today his company had given the United States Steel corporation an option to purchase the business of Oil Well Supply. Assets of Oil Well Supply at the close of 1929 were given as $27,- 817,426.

Harris said the option would expire Aug. 25. A special meeting of stockholders of Oil Well Supply, he added, would be called to ratify the deal, but the date for the meeting has not been set. He would reveal no further details.

REPORT GAIN IN LOADINGS OF REVENUE FREIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended July 12 totaled 915,985 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today.

This was an increase of 123,844 cars above the preceding week, when the movement of freight declined owing to the observance of the Fourth of July and the fact that the day following was also observed as a holiday. The total for the week of July 12 was a decrease, however, of 150,429 cars below the same week in 1929 and 108,940 cars below the same week in 1928.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of July 12 totaled 355,633 cars, 66,088 cars under the same week in 1929 and 51,594 cars under the corresponding week in 1928.

COTTON RANGE SMALL

Movement of cotton prices was irregular within a narrow range yesterday. There was no rain of consequence in any part of the belt except in the Texas panhandle and at Roswell, N. M., and El Paso, Tex. Temperatures were lower and there were scattered showers in the central and western areas. Cables were 6 to 7 points lower at the close with spot sales of 3,000 bales. Interest in American markets was light. Closing trades were at losses of 4 to 7 points in futures in Chicago with New York 7 points lower to 7 points higher and New Orleans 1 point higher to 1 point lower. Spots were unchanged, New York being 13.15c; New Orleans, 12.90c; Galveston, 12.80c, and Houston, 12.70c.

Domestic stocks at the end of the season, as estimated by the New York Cotton exchange, were 4,600,000 bales. Business in Worth street was said to be light. Trade sentiment is mixed, with weather the leading feature. Prices follow:

any of the stock, since it was selling at that time around $135 a share.

"Didn't you know that Col. Murphy left the group with the distinct understanding he had on order to buy stock?" asked Attorney Harry J. Crawford of Eaton counsel.

"He so testified," said McMath.

"What was said that justified Murphy in thinking he had an order to buy?"

"Nothing I said authorized him to buy stock for Grace or me. I think Hoyt used language that warranted Murphy is going ahead."

Murphy, in a deposition, has testified that for a few days he did not know for whom he was buying Sheet and Tube stock.

"Wasn't it a joint enterprise for you four men to buy stock?" Crawford asked McMath.

"Absolutely not," he answered.

"And didn't you later abandon the idea because of the federal trade commission?"

"Absolutely not a word of truth in that," replied the witness.

Crawford then turned his questions toward the $800,000 loan to Pickands, Mather & Co., which was advanced from Bethlehem funds without security.

Sees Nothing Wrong.

McMath said he saw nothing wrong in the loan, although Grace called it back in a few days for fear it would be misunderstood by the federal government. Hoyt asked for the money, McMath said.

"What did he tell you he needed the money for?" asked Crawford.

"He left me to infer for what purpose he needed the funds," said McMath.

"Did he tell you he needed it to buy Sheet and Tube stock?"

"No," answered McMath, "but I think he knew that I knew what he thought and for what purpose he needed the money. I, of course, know he was buying stock, keeping in touch with the situation."

After drawing from McMath the statement that he knew H. G. Dalton, a director of Bethlehem, was a partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., Crawford asked him:

Bethlehem is a New Jersey corporation.

"No," answered McMath.

"Did you know it is a penal offense?"

"No."

McMath said that $85,000,000 received by Bethlehem last year from the sale of its own stock was put out on time and call loans, and that before and after the market crash the money was converted into government securities. He promised to bring into court the amounts of Bethlehem stock purchased and the prices paid from last September to the present.

ALLIS-CHALMERS INCOME RISES; NET IS $2,351,540

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company today reported net profit of $2,351,540 for the six months, equivalent to $1.87 a share on the common. This compares with net of $2,179,087, or $4.73 a share, in the first half of 1929.

Orders booked in the recent period totaled $29,480,951, against $28,022,998 for the first six months of last year. Unfilled orders on June 30 aggregated $17,823,860, a gain of 33.5 per cent over the $12,872,676 backlog at the close of 1929.

LIBBY-OWENS.

Libby-Owens Glass company will exchange 475,000 shares of its common stock for assets of the Edward Ford Plate Glass company. Cost of Ford on this basis is approximately $13,300,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES

A banking syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co., and including Lee, Higginson & Co., Dominion Securities corporation, the Bank of Montreal and Wood, Gundy & Co., will offer today a new issue of $2,500,000 government of Newfoundland 25 year noncallable 5 per cent bonds. The bonds are priced at 100¾ and interest.

An additional issue of $6,000,000 Oklahoma Gas and Electric company 20 year 5 per cent first mortgage bonds will be offered today at 99½ and accrued interest to yield over 5.04 per cent by a syndicate headed by H. M. Byllesby & Co., and including the Harris Trust and Savings bank, W. C. Langley & Co., A. C. Allyn & Co., and the J. Henry Schroder Banking corporation.

The next step in the financing program being undertaken for companies affiliated with the Electric Bond and Share company will take the form of a $30,000,000 issue for the Texas Electric Service company, it was reported in the financial district. A syndicate headed by Bonbright & Co. is expected to offer the bonds, which will be first and refunding 5s due in 1960.

The Darby Day Investment company of Chicago has acquired the Liberty Insurance company of Dayton, O., by outright purchase. The new acquisition writes automobile, plate glass and public liability insurance.

Business Personals

Benjamin Marden, New York City, and William Cameron, Toronto, Canada, were elected to membership in the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Charles R. Rauth, secretary and treasurer of the new United States Pipe and Foundry company, has been elected a director, to succeed D. F. Haughton, deceased.

To the Creditors of

The Southern Sugar Company

The undersigned Committee of creditors of The Southern Sugar Company has been formed for the purpose of obtaining unity of action by the creditors of said Company in the protection of their interests. The Committee has prepared a Creditors Deposit Agreement, copies of which may be obtained from the Secretary of the Committee or from either of the Depositaries named below.

Creditors of The Southern Sugar Company may co-operate with the Committee and become parties to the Creditors Deposit Agreement by depositing their claims in negotiable form with either of the Depositaries designated in the Agreement at their specified offices, viz.:

Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company,
70 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.

Central Farmers' Trust Company,
West Palm Beach, Florida.

In the opinion of the Committee, a forced liquidation of the Company at this time either through bankruptcy or otherwise would be prejudicial to the best interests of all creditors. The Committee is advised that a group of influential stockholders are engaged in the formation of a Stockholders' Committee to provide sufficient working capital to carry the Company through the approaching season and to formulate a plan for the reorganization or readjustment of the affairs of the Company upon equitable terms both to creditors and stockholders which will permit the Company to continue its operations.

ILLINOIS MEN

Waiting list will soon be established for applicants seeking position with a large international organization. These lists already exist in many of the 46 countries in which we operate over 600 branch offices. We are just commencing operations in the United States, and our expansion program calls for about forty men in the Illinois territory alone.

These men will be assured of a splendid income and a remarkable future with a financially strong old company. Inasmuch as we are the only ones in our particular field, we cannot get experienced men, and the qualifications are loyalty, intelligence, and aggressiveness.

If you are selected you will be expected to start at once by attending factory branch school at our expense.

Personal interview today only from 9 to 12 and 1:30 to 5.
